

Trains Again Operate Under Federal Order

WASHINGTON (AP) — The giant U.S. rail system began shuffling off effects of a two-day paralysis today and started moving tired commuters to their jobs and materials to the nation's factories.

Members of the 13,000-member AFL-CIO Brotherhood of Railroad Signalmen, which had immobilized the rail system before Congress broke the coast-to-coast strike, began removing pickets from terminals and freight yards shortly after President Nixon signed legislation ending the walkout.

Union President C. J. Chamberlain notified strikers shortly before midnight Tuesday the walkout was over and ordered them back to their jobs.

The Penn Central reported freight trains were rolling again within an hour of Nixon's decree. Other railroads said they would resume service as the day progressed.

Passenger Service
Amtrack, the national passenger rail system, announced all trains except four would operate on schedule today. The four, which run from San Diego to Los Angeles, Portland, Ore., to Seattle, and Carbondale, Ill., to Chicago, will be in service Thursday.

The Postal Service lifted its limited mail embargo. The embargo applied only to bulk mail going more than 300 miles.

Labor Secretary James D. Hodgson said it probably would be 24 hours before full service was in effect, but Chamberlain said restoration "should be well along by morning."

The signalmen's union, which represents only two per cent of the nation's 500,000-member railway labor force, struck the rail system Monday morning in a dispute over wages. Their picket lines were honored by other unions and almost all service was halted.

Congress quickly enacted a measure Tuesday giving the signalmen a 13.5-per-cent wage hike and ordering a halt to the walkout until at least Oct. 1. President Nixon signed the measure about 10:30 p.m.

The short-lived strike had its effects on commerce.

A dozen West Virginia coal mines were shut down; Detroit auto firms and Pittsburgh steel producers cut back production. The Kellogg Co. of Battle Creek, Mich., and the Quaker Oats Co. at Cedar Rapids, Iowa, shut down altogether.

Growers and processors of perishable foods sought to divert their produce to trucks but many reported only partial success.

Emergency Legislation

The walkout also affected the stock market. The New York Stock Exchange dropped sharply Monday, rose slightly at midday Tuesday but closed 2.74 points down in the Dow Jones averages.

And it again brought cries—and a promise of congressional hearings—for new legislation to deal with emergency strikes in rail and other transportation industries.

Nixon said the "situation underscores the need for the Congress to consider immediately the permanent legislation which I have twice proposed for resolving such disputes without separate congressional action in each instance."

Nixon's proposal would abolish the 45-year-old Railway Labor Act and bring rail and airline disputes under the Taft-Hartley law. It also would allow the president to extend for 30 days the 80-day Taft-Hartley cooling-off injunction; set up a panel to determine whether selective strikes were feasible, or name a neutral party to choose either a union's or management's last offer as a binding settlement.

Sen. Harrison A. Williams, D-N.J., chairman of the Senate Labor Committee, pledged to begin hearings on various proposals for permanent strike legislation next month.

Chamberlain criticized Congress for its action, saying, "We regret that Congress has once again felt it necessary to intervene in a railroad labor-management dispute."

"This is another case where the railroad industry was rescued by Congress," he said.

And he said the strike could be renewed Oct. 1 "if the railroad industry does not fulfill its responsibility during the extension period."

Asst. Secretary of Labor W. J. Usery Jr. planned to call the signalmen and rail negotiators back into session today to discuss procedures for continued bargaining.

"I believe," he said, "with some hard collective bargaining, it can be settled."

The retroactive wage hike voted by Congress covers the 16 months the signalmen have been without a contract during negotiations under the Railway Labor Act.

The period until Oct. 1 will be used to negotiate the rest of a 42-month contract. The union is asking for a total of 51.8 per cent in pay hikes above the current $3.78 average hourly wage. Other rail unions have received 43 per cent in recent negotiations.

The congressional end-the-strike legislation came after the Senate agreed to the House wage-hike figure of 13.5 per cent instead of its 17 per cent. The House, in turn, took the Senate's Oct. 1 date in place of its July 20 proposal.

Mercury Poisoning Recovery

A Long, Painful Road

ALAMOGORDO, N.M. (AP) — Amos Huckelby celebrates his 15th birthday today but the lad, stricken by mercury poisoning in 1969, won't be able to see the young friends his mother has invited to the party.

After 17 months in hospitals and the state rehabilitation center at Roswell, Amos is learning to walk again and his speech is returning. But he is still blind.

The mercury poisoning came from pork from a home-butchered hog which had been fed seed grain treated with a mercury compound fungicide.

Amos and two sisters, Dorothy Jean and Ernestine, were virtually paralyzed. A brother born to their mother three months after the contaminated pork was eaten, Michael, is blind.

Dorothy Jean, now 21, has made a substantial recovery and is planning to enter college. Ernestine, now 10, is still in an Alamogordo hospital.

"I walk him quite a bit," Mrs. Huckelby said of Amos Tuesday. "He has his exercises and other things to do. He's so glad to be home."

"We're having some of his old friends over for the birthday."

Phased Troop Cut Plan Defeated

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Senate, in an initial victory for President Nixon on an issue still undecided, rejected today a plan for a phased cutback of U.S. forces in Europe unless East-West talks begin promptly on mutual troop withdrawals.

The action came despite support for the amendment of Sen. Gaylord Nelson, D-Wis., from Democratic Leader Mike Mansfield, author of the proposal for a 50 per cent cut in U.S. troop strength in Europe at the end of 1971.

It underscored the view of White House backers they have enough votes to give President Nixon victory in his fight against any unilateral U.S. cut in its 300,000-man European force.

Other Votes

But a series of other votes remained on alternatives to Mansfield's troop cut proposal.

Mansfield said in throwing his support behind Nelson's amendment that it "deals very effectively" with fears his original plan is too drastic.

Mansfield said the power to decide on troop cuts rests with Congress, "not with the agents and drummers of the executive branch," and declared "I am somewhat perturbed by the cavalier treatment of this fundamental constitutional distinction during the past few days."

Earlier, Mansfield said he was studying the Nelson proposal and called it "the most attractive of all" alternatives.

Rain Is Likely Again Tonight

Fox Cities — Cloudy and cooler with occasional rain likely tonight, decreasing cloudiness and cool Thursday. Low tonight near 44, high Thursday near the upper 50s. Wind north west at 10-20 m.p.h. early this evening diminishing later tonight and Thursday. Precipitation probability 50 per cent tonight and 20 per cent Thursday.

Appleton — Observations at 9:30 a.m. for the preceding 24 hours: high 72, low 47. Barometer 29.64 and steady. Wind south-southwest at 16 m.p.h. Humidity 80 per cent. Dew point 60. Skies overcast. Precipitation .48 inch.

Sunset today at 8:17 p.m. Sunrise tomorrow at 5:22 a.m. Moonrise tomorrow at 2:50 a.m. New Moon on May 24.

Mansfield said he is still studying the Nelson amendment which earlier he called "the most attractive of all" alternatives.

Mansfield's comments, as the Senate met for a long day of showdown action on Mansfield's proposal for a 50 per cent cut in this country's 300,000-man troop strength in Europe, marked the first break in his "no compromise" position on substitute proposals.

Softens Position

It raised a strong possibility that Mansfield would agree to soften his position—and thereby increase the chance that the Senate might enact a European troop cut proposal.

Nelson's revised proposal, due for the day's first vote, was introduced late Tuesday night, and Democratic sources indicated Mansfield's supporters were involved in its preparation.

It substitutes a gradual reduction over the next three years for Mansfield's proposal to require a cut in troop strength to 150,000 on Dec. 31, 1971, and provides that the first reduction, to 250,000 by June 30, 1972, would be suspended if East-West talks on mutual reductions begin by the end of 1971.

Additional reductions in U.S. troops would be to 200,000 by June 30, 1973, and to 150,000 by June 30, 1974.

"I am studying it along with the others," Mansfield told reporters. He added that, "on the basis of my cursory examination of it and the others, it's the most attractive of all."

"I'm still staying with my positions," Mansfield said, adding "I may have so to say later in the day."

Republican sources, confident of beating Mansfield's original amendment if it comes to a vote, said Nelson's revised proposal plus Mansfield's support for it could produce an extremely close vote.

In its original form, the Nelson amendment kept Mansfield's troop reduction schedule East-West talks began by Sept. 30.

Manpower Bill Gets Coalition Backing

WASHINGTON (AP) — President Nixon's special revenue-sharing bill for manpower has been given new life in a surprise show of strength by House Republicans and Southern Democrats.

The coalition overrode the Democratic leadership Tuesday and forced the manpower measure onto the floor after many Democrats thought it had been safely pigeonholed.

Some Democrats promptly charged the Southerners traded their votes on the manpower bill in return for later GOP help in trying to kill a civil rights bill. The Republicans denied knowledge of any such arrangement.

The successful maneuver made the administration bill a substitute for a $4 billion public service employment bill that is a keystone of the economic program being developed by congressional Democrats.

Increase Support

Unwilling to risk a vote on either bill at this time, the Democratic leadership laid them both aside indefinitely in that hopes that a delay will lead to increased support for the jobs bill.

With unemployment remaining high, Democrats thought the time was ripe for passage of their bill. It would create 150,000 jobs in such fields as education, health care, conservation and pollution control. A similar bill already has passed the Senate.

The bill was brought to the floor under a rule that would have prevented the Republicans from offering their manpower bill as a substitute. The Nixon proposal is a sweeping measure, wrapping a dozen existing manpower programs into one and giving the states responsibility for running it.

Before the public service jobs bill could be called up, however, the coalition took the bill's managers by surprise and opened up the rule so the manpower bill could be considered. The vote on the procedural motion was 210 to 182, with 46 Democrats—all but one from the South—joining 164 Republicans in voting for it.

Rep. William D. Ford, D-Mich., a sponsor of the jobs bill, said it was widely rumored on the House floor during the vote that the Southern Democrats were trading for later Republican votes in trying to kill a bill that would strengthen the Equal Employment Opportunity Commission.

The EEOC bill is now in the House Rules Committee, whose chairman, Rep. William M. Colmer, D-Miss., is believed by supporters of the jobs bill to have masterminded the sudden coalition move.

Ford said he would urge that the House Education and Labor Committee hold hearings on the manpower revenue sharing bill before it is brought back to the House, a process that could take several weeks.

The manpower bill is one of six special revenue sharing plans Nixon has proposed in addition to his $5 billion general revenue sharing. The Education and Labor Committee defeated it during earlier consideration of the jobs bill.

Koster Loses Medal

My Lai General Demoted

WASHINGTON (AP) — Secretary of the Army Stanley Resor today demoted Maj. Gen. Samuel Koster and stripped him of a high decoration for failing to investigate adequately the My Lai massacre.

Koster, a former West Point superintendent was reduced to Brigadier General and his distinguished service medal withdrawn for his performance as commander of the Americal Division at the time of the My Lai incident in March 1968.

At the same time, Resor rejected a recommendation from Army leaders that Brig. Gen. George Young, who was assistant division commander, be reduced in rank to colonel.

However, the Army secretary said Young's "failure to meet the required standards of performance" justifies the cancellation of the DSM and a letter of censure in his file.

Followed Study

Resor's actions capped months of study following dismissal of coverup charges against both officers.

Army officials said 11 other officers whose records were "flagged" after coverup charges were dropped against them remain under study, along with the records of other Army officers and enlisted men who were charged in the massacre incident itself and either acquitted or the charges dismissed.

In a statement, Resor said: "A great deal of information suggesting that a possible tragedy of serious proportions had occurred at My Lai was either known directly to Gen. Koster, or was readily available in the operational logs and other records of the division."

"He did not utilize the investigative staff resources available in the division either to conduct an investigation, or to review the investigations which were conducted. In so doing, he took upon himself a greater personal burden than would otherwise have been the case."

"As the division commander, Gen. Koster clearly must be held responsible for ascertaining the accuracy of the information which he had about My Lai, as that information indicated that his troops might have been guilty of serious misconduct."

Mitigating Factors

In the case of Young, Resor said there were certain mitigating factors operating in his behalf, adding:

"Primary among those is the fact that Gen. Koster, by dealing directly with the subordinate commander, omitted Gen. Young from certain conversations which might have led to question the adequacy of the investigation."

"This method of operation put a heavy burden of responsibility on Gen. Koster: at the same time it tended to mitigate the responsibility of Gen. Young."

Young, 50, has said in the past that "I cannot help feeling like a political scapegoat."

He is assigned to the Army Materiel Command here. Koster, 57, currently is assigned at Ft. Meade, Md.

Antiwar Group Prober Has 'Interesting Bank Records'

WASHINGTON (AP) — The leader of a House committee probing what he terms subversives in the antiwar movement says he'll disclose soon what he calls surprising information uncovered in subpoenaed bank records.

Internal Security Committee Chairman Richard H. Ichord, D-Mo., declined to supply details as the panel entered its second day of inquiry of two peace groups that organized massive demonstrations here over the past weeks.

But Ichord said Tuesday the "bank records have revealed some very interesting information."

In a statement after Tuesday's opening session, Jerry Gordon, coordinator for the National Peace Action Coalition one of the groups being investigated, said he was outraged by "the secret seizure" of his group's bank records.

"The first information we had that the committee had subpoenaed our records was in today's hearing when Chairman Ichord revealed that the records were already in his possession," Gordon stated.

Liquor at 18 In Tennessee Is a Failure

NASHVILLE, Tenn. (AP) — Tennessee's new law allowing 18-year-olds to buy and drink liquor has caused some state legislators to return to the capitol with a hanger of criticism from the homefolks.

After a weekend of telephone calls from irate parents and others, Lt. Gov. John Wilder and 13 other state senators initiated a move Tuesday to amend the new law—and return the legal age for buying booze to 21.

"I don't believe 18-year-olds are quite ready to drink yet," said Wilder. Sen. Vernon Neal, a Cookeville Democrat, said he was beset by disgruntled constituents and added, "The law-enforcement officers are raising Cain."

"To continue the war abroad, (President) Nixon and the reactionary congressmen who support him are waging war at home—this one against the peace movement. They are prepared to scuttle the constitutional guarantees of free speech, free assembly and freedom of association to silence the voices of peace," he added.

Monument Protected

The committee was told by Russell Dickenson, superintendent of national capital parks, that 40 park policemen stationed in the Washington Monument protected the structure from damage by thousands who jammed the grounds April 24 for a rock concert after an antiwar march.

The policemen stayed until early the next day, Dickenson added, "otherwise we might not have had the Washington Monument."

He said property damage in the monument grounds area that night came to about $100,000, while slogans and obscenities which had been sprayed on the monument had to be erased by sandblasting. He also said there was some damage to cherry trees.

Washington Police Chief Jerry V. Wilson estimated expenses for police manpower and other added costs reached more than $3 million during the two weeks of the demonstrations headed by the groups under investigation by the committee.

But Wilson said authorities should use existing facilities instead of building new detention

Al Capp Granted Postponement on Fugitive Warrant

BOSTON (AP) — Cartoonist Al Capp was granted a postponement Tuesday in municipal court until June 23 on a hearing concerning a fugitive warrant from Eau Claire, Wis.

Judge Elijah Adlow freed Capp on personal recognizance after he asked for time to obtain a Wisconsin lawyer.

He was charged with sodomy, attempted adultery and indecent exposure in what he called an effort by leftist elements to discredit him.

The charges were filed by a coed at Eau Claire State University where he had a speaking engagement earlier this month.

Agnew Picture Will be Target At Golf Range

NEW YORK (AP) — People here will have a chance this week to hit golf balls at a picture of Vice President Spiro T. Agnew, for fun and charity.

A 10-foot high photograph of the vice president will be mounted between 150 and 200 feet from tees at a golf range in Queens, contestants can whack away with Agnew for a target this Thursday, Friday and Saturday.

The photo will be surrounded by 25 baskets and for every ball that drops into a basket, the golf range will contribute $10 to a fund for the building of a day care center in Astoria, Queens. Astoria has the nation's largest Greek-American community and the Elenis, a women's organization, is sponsoring the fund raising.

Agnew became the butt of friendly jokes after a wild golf shot of his smacked a spectator. On another occasion he slammed a tennis shot into his own partner.

Luceys Dine With Students

Elections Around Country Produce Some Surprises

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS
Philadelphia's self-styled "tough cop" candidate for mayor, Frank L. Rizzo, easily won the Democratic primary Tuesday night by getting more votes than both his major opponents combined after a bitter campaign.

In Texas, a proposal to legalize the sale of liquor by the drink won by a landslide in 46 counties ending a drought that began in 1919.

Dale Tooley surprised the pollsters in Denver by outpolling incumbent Mayor Bill McNichols, forcing a runoff June 15 between the two Democrats in a nonpartisan mayoral election.

Another incumbent was topped in Oakland, Calif., where lawyer John Sutter defeated City Councilman Harvey C. Binns in a run-off election for an at-large council seat, 37,335 votes to 34,530.

The returns from Philadelphia, 99 per cent complete, gave Rizzo 176,621 votes to 127,902 for Rep. William L. Green, 32, a liberal congressman, and 45,026 for State Rep. Hardy Williams, 39, the only black candidate in the eight-man race.

The former police commissioner, 50, had the backing of outgoing mayor James H. Tate and the Democratic organization.

Green, the son of the city's long-time Democratic boss, broke with organization in 1968 to support the late Sen. Robert F. Kennedy's presidential campaign.

Major Enemy Base Hunted By South Vietnamese Unit

SAIGON (AP) — A battalion of 700 elite South Vietnamese troops is combing an area on the Laotian border, searching for a major North Vietnamese base and command headquarters, military spokesmen announced today.

The operation got under way Tuesday in the central highlands about 10 miles northwest of Ben Het, and the South Vietnamese have found nothing significant so far, a military spokesman in Pleiku, Capt. Le Van Phuc, said.

Phuc said captured prisoners and defectors reported the North Vietnamese had about 50 tanks hidden in caves along the frontier. They also said they

SST Backs Into Disenchanted Senate

WASHINGTON (AP) — The American supersonic transport plane, flying on half a wing and not much of a prayer, faced up to another Capitol Hill showdown today.

The opposing sides squared off for two hours of debate before voting late today on whether to go along with the House decision to revive the project.

An Associated Press survey had indicated almost certain defeat for the attempt to turn an $85.3-million SST termination fund into cash to renew the program.

Most Senate leaders reached the same conclusion. Scientific fears of an environment damaged by a globe-circling fleet of SSTs were spelled out again in the renewed debate. And SST supporters were demoralized by Boeing Co. estimates a new start on the 1,800-mile-an-hour plane would cost the government $500 million to $1 billion.

Sen. Warren Magnuson, D-Wash., chief congressional champion of the plane which was being built in his state, said in prepared remarks the Department of Transportation had estimated start-up costs for a new SST program at $200 million, lowest figure offered by any source. He suggested the estimate by Boeing—prime SST contractor—was inflated for negotiation purposes.

The new round of SST debate came as a result of congressional action earlier this year cutting off federal subsidies for developing two prototypes of the faster-than-sound aircraft. Boeing and other contractors said they could not afford to continue development after federal funds were withdrawn March 31.

The House did a turnaround last week, voting 201 to 197 to renew SST funding.

SST opponents have used two arguments against the plane. They say the millions could be better spent, that the government has no business bankrolling a commercial development. And they argue the planes would be too noisy for health and could cause harmful changes in climate.

Backers say the United States needs the SST to hold its lead in world aviation. They cite President Nixon's assurance the SST will not fly until it is environmentally safe.

In Berkeley, Calif., meanwhile, a University of California chemist, Dr. Harold Johnston, said hazards of large-scale SST flight are far greater than previously believed.

He said two years of such flights could cut in half the shield protecting earth from the sun's ultraviolet radiation.

Last Appeals Made in Trial Of Panthers

NEW HAVEN, Conn. (AP) — Opposing attorneys, making their final appeals to the jury, accused each other of presenting fabricated testimony and inadequate cases in the trial of Black Panther Chairman Bobby G. Seale and a local Panther leader.

Judge Harold M. Mulvey of Superior Court said he would charge the jury today.

Seale and his co-defendant, Ericka Huggins, both face potential death sentences on two charges—kidnaping resulting in death and aiding and abetting murder—in the death of a Panther the prosecutions says fellow Panthers suspected of being a police agent. Seale and Mrs. Huggins are also charged with conspiracy to kidnap and to murder.

Defense lawyers Tuesday depicted the state's chief witness, George Sams Jr., as the individual most responsible for the death of Alex Rackley on May 21, 1969, in a boggy river bottom 20 miles north of New Haven.

"It is your duty to evaluate every single witness by their demeanor and their manner and what they have to win or lose," Charles R. Garry, Seale's attorney, told the jury of five blacks and seven whites.

Allowed to Plead
Sams and the state's other major witness, Warren Kimbro, have been allowed to plead guilty to second-degree murder, which carries a mandatory life sentence, in return for their testimony. They originally faced potential death sentences in Rackley's death.

Catherine Roraback, Mrs. Huggins' attorney, said she agreed that Rackley's killing was "senseless, needless and brutal," but she blamed it on Sams, whom she described as "a brutal, sadistic man who enjoys engaging in beating people."

She argued that Mrs. Huggins should be acquitted on the ground that although she might have assaulted Rackley, she did not commit the crimes with which she is charged.

The Legal Tangle on Abortions

There are undoubtedly some fine points of law involved but to the ordinary layman — and that includes this writer — the conflict over the state's abortion law and in particular the operation of an abortion clinic in Madison appears to be a fracas between United States District Court Judge James Doyle on one side and Circuit Court Judge Richard Bardwell on the other. Further confusing the issue are the positions taken by the three judge federal panel which originally ruled that Wisconsin's law was unconstitutional, Attorney General Robert Warren, who has sought to prosecute under the state law, and Dane County District Attorney Gerald Nichol who was restrained by Judge Doyle from bringing criminal charges against the doctor who operates the clinic.

While politics may enter the picture, abortion is a highly charged emotional subject. Basically the confusion has developed because the United States Supreme Court has backed away from issuing a clear-cut decision as to the constitutionality of abortion laws. The high court advised the three judge federal panel to reconsider its earlier decision, which may have been a way of saying that that decision might have been wrong. It later upheld the right of the District of Columbia to have a law regulating abortion but its ruling has been interpreted by some as making any prosecution of a licensed doctor impossible in abortion cases. Since the trend on the "new" high court has been not to interfere with state laws, this seems so far to be the determining factor in its decisions on abortion. But it is clear from the confusion in Wisconsin, which exists in a number of other states as well, that the constitutionality of abortion laws should eventually be decided by the United States Supreme Court. The Court has also made it clear that it prefers any litigation to go through the correct channels before it comes to Washington. And Warren has now asked the Wisconsin Supreme Court to rule on the Wisconsin law.

Since every state in the union has laws governing abortion, it would seem that each must be decided on its own merit. The current Supreme Court has also shown a reluctance to go into the result of the application of state laws as earlier courts, specifically the Warren court, have done. It is not likely to delve into population growth problems if abortions are difficult to get and probably it should not. But at issue and difficult to evade is the right of the prospective mother or parents as opposed to the right of the fetus. Since all current state laws permit abortion to save the life of the mother at least, and in some cases to preserve her health, it cannot reasonably be argued that states have held the fetus' right to life as equal to that of the mother who is carrying the unborn child. But restricting legal abortions only as far as sanitation and medical procedures are concerned are also disturbing, especially when they are permitted at any time during pregnancy.

In the last few decades the high court has tended to rule that doubtful constitutional issues should be uniform throughout the country and not at the whim of state legislatures. Whether the present court looks into results of judicial decisions or not, it is obvious that different laws on abortion in different states will mean that the procedure will benefit the wealthier women or those living in particular states. If there is a constitutional guarantee involved, it should be determined.

Ping Pong Yes, Rugby No

The Chinese, under the Peking Communist regime, obviously approve of ping pong. Not only has it suddenly opened the bamboo curtain a slit, it has provided the Chinese an opportunity to look pretty good in one area of international sporting events since the Chinese table tennis team is pretty darn good.

But the enthusiasm for ping pong does not necessarily extend to all sports, even those considered almost a national cause in some countries.

The British, who have been trading with the Chinese right along in spite of differing political opinions, have been buying soccer footballs from a Chinese supplier. That was all right. But when the British firm tried to order 2,000 rugby footballs it received a stern finger wagging reply from China.

"As the game of rugby ball is one kind of a very dangerous and sporting which is very often resulting in injury and-or death to the people, thus such game is injurious to the health of the people, and is by no means to reach such purpose of promoting the health of mankind. For this reason we have stopped our production and will no longer supply," came the answer from Peking.

There may be more to the decision than is in the letter. Perhaps the Chinese are beginning to want some consumer goods or labor is short and must be doled out to essential industries or agricultural projects. But as President Nixon expands our trade and diplomatic relations with China, the attitude of the Chinese toward "the health of mankind" should be kept in mind. If rugby is injurious, what about American football and hockey?

Sports enthusiasts, at least those who wanted our relations with China to improve, have waxed enthusiastic about sports transcending national and ideological barriers. But, depending upon all those sayings in Mao Tse Tung's little red book, sports could also be used as an excuse for a confrontation. That would never do.

The Atlantic Fishing Controversy

American lobster fishermen are vehemently protesting what they claim to be harassment by Russian fishing trawlers which has resulted in losses in equipment and in potential profits from lobstering. Solving the problem won't be easy.

The area of the Atlantic involved is about 70 to 90 miles off the eastern coast of the United States and in water often 600 feet deep. As lobster — and other fish — have become more scarce, probably due to overfishing closer to shore, American fishermen have ventured farther out for their catches.

But these waters are nowhere near the 12 mile limit claimed by the United States as national waters and which claim has had no opposition. The situation is not the same as that in the sea off several Latin American countries which claim as much as 200 miles as national. The Atlantic, beyond the 12 mile limit, is international waters and as such may be fished by men and ships from any country in the world.

The conflict between the Russians and the Americans — and to a lesser extent between Americans — has developed because of different fishing techniques. The American companies which are protesting prefer to lay out fishing lines, as much as 12,000 feet long, to which are attached lobster traps. The Russians like to sweep their trawlers and nets through the water, scooping up everything in the way including a variety of fish, lobsters — and lines and traps. Spokesmen for the American lobster industry claim that losses in the last year and a half amount to more than $250,000. They are bitter that the Department of State or some United States government agency has not moved in to remedy the situation.

The United Nations is the body which should find a way to set fishing restrictions and quotas as well as methods. So far there has been little progress in enacting any sort of agreement as to legal regulations in international waters. The conflict over lobsters in the Atlantic could be a boost in that direction if both sides will set aside temporary conflicts and try to see the larger problem.

"We're appealing this acquittal to a higher court!"

The Day-Care Trap

Democrats Have Different Ideas Than Nixon on Bill

BY KEVIN P. PHILLIPS

WASHINGTON — As more and more U.S. mothers take jobs outside the home, they are creating a tremendous demand for day-care facilities where they can leave their pre-school-age children from, say, 8 a.m. to 6 p.m.

Now that Congress is finally about to act on proposals for Federal assistance to beef up inadequate day care, Republicans are concerned that a little-known functionary in the Federal Office of Management and Budget is blocking the Nixon Administration's endorsement of enlarged day care, and in the process perhaps maneuvering the President into a dangerous political trap.

Next Friday, May 21, Health, Education and Welfare Secretary Elliot Richardson will present the Administration's day-care views to the House Select Subcommittee on Education. Then on May 27 he will repeat them to a joint meeting of two Senate subcommittees. As the first date approaches, what Richardson will say remains conjectural, although his personal sentiments are clear.

Difference in Approach
Like most House Republicans, Richardson favors legislation to expand day-care facilities under the guidance of state governments, and with an eye towards insuring the effective participation of middle-income families. Indeed, the HEW Secretary has actively helped Congressional Republicans to develop this approach. Many Democrats, on the other hand, favor a new, multi-billion dollar day-care program under the control of neighborhood action-type groups that would orient services towards low-income and welfare mothers even though others would be technically eligible. The GOP will support this approach, but would prefer the former.

So far, however, the Federal Office of Management and Budget has successfully thwarted HEW support of any additional day care, and congressional Republicans are concerned that OMB may succeed in blocking (or watering down) Secretary Richardson's pro-day-care testimony.

The chief mover and shaker of OMB's hostility to expanded day care is Richard P. Nathan, one of the office's twelve assistant directors. Nathan's logic is simple: He has been trying to safeguard the Administration's Family Assistance Plan, which includes a small day-care provision, from the detrimental competition of a separate, larger day-care bill. (Nathan's personal concern reflects the fact that he headed the 1968-69 Presidential task force that blue-printed FAP.) But this worry no longer seems valid inasmuch as the House Ways and Means Committee just last week cleared FAP as part of a much larger Christmas tree package with enough goodies to probably assure its passage.

Republicans on the House Education and Labor Committee believe that if the Administration will support a reasonable day-care program oriented towards effective middle-income participation, then such a popular program might win Congressional enactment. They are also worried about the result if the Administration follows OMB advice. In this case, they say, Congress is likely to go its own way and pass a multi-billion dollar, "neighborhood action" type of day care aimed at low-income groups. Some Democrats, they add, are trying to trap the President with a budget-busting day-care bill he cannot veto without "being against the little children."

The statistical case for day care is overwhelming. At present, there are roughly 14 million working women, mostly housewives, with children under 6. Day-care facilities are few and far between.

The toughest circumstances confront women who are heads of households and who must also work. Female-headed households have a median income of $4,000 per year as opposed to the $11,000 median income of families headed by men. Many divorcees and widows able to earn only a marginal living find their circumstances particularly pressing because of the difficulty of first finding day-care facilities and then paying their high rates.

Politically, President Nixon should be leaping for this issue. Welfare mothers are hardly likely to vote for him, but working mothers, a huge slice of the electorate, are extremely reachable on the subject of day care — especially young women, aged 18-35, among whom the President is weak, according to the polls.

Under these circumstances, if HEW Secretary Richardson fails to testify on behalf of a major expansion of day-care facilities, it will be vivid testimony to the extraordinary behind-the-scenes influence of the capital's budget bureaucrats.

Militia Stops Prize Fight

100 YEARS AGO

Quoted from the Appleton Crescent for May 20, 1871.

The particulars of the attempted prize fight between Mace and Coburn last week may be briefly stated.

The party left Erie, Pa., on two propellers, landing at Hay Creek, on the Canada shore, near Port Dover, and pitched the ring.

The first and only round lasted nearly an hour, Mace showing the only fight and Coburn taking the defensive.

The Canadian authorities arrived just then on the grounds, supported by a militia force of about 60 men. They were armed with rifles and broke up the fight, dispersing the crowd, who, of course, then returned to Erie.

The sympathy of the crowd seemed to be entirely with Mace and bets were freely offered that Coburn will never dare to meet him in a ring.

It has since been agreed upon that the fight shall come off the 2nd of June, at Kansas City, Mo.

Wisconsin Report

Kellett Report Dead But It Will Return To Haunt Education

BY JOHN WYNGAARD

Post-Crescent Madison Bureau

MADISON — Six months after the publication of what is surely the most comprehensive and bold report ever written on public education problems in Wisconsin, an editor asks:

Wyngaard

"What are the prospects for the recommendations of the Kellett report?"

Regrettably, the answer must be that the prospects are not encouraging, to put it mildly.

The regret does not reflect any such naive conviction that many or even some of the far-reaching ideas and propositions presented by the Governor's Commission on Education created by former Gov. Knowles would have been enacted into law immediately under any other circumstances. Not even the astonishingly optimistic and energetic Chairman William R. Kellett of the commission seriously anticipated such a response, in all probability.

A misfortune of the commission and the hundreds of men and women who worked for months without any reward, or even recognition for many of them, was in circumstance and timing. The document and the program that it contained belonged to an expiring administration. Knowles was leaving office at about the time the work was being edited in final form.

Mr. Kellett by circumstance, was a Knowles man, representing the Knowles administration.

No Responsibility Felt
As it happened, the intervening election put a new administration in office that felt no duty to acknowledge responsibility for the authorship of the recommendations or to accept the merits of the far-reaching reforms envisioned.

The November elections brought a new ball game, as the politicians would put it.

Gov. Lucey was polite, even cordial, toward Mr. Kellett and his work, but thoroughly noncommittal. He had his own ideas on educational change, or reform. He owed nothing to the predecessor regime. He intended to do his best to put his own imprint upon the educational evolution of his time — if evolution there was to be.

But why have not some of the Republican legislative leaders, who hurraed the creation of the governor's commission by their friend Gov. Knowles, and watched respectfully although sometimes with private doubts as Mr. Kellett dominated the political news of the state done more?

Educators Were Hostile

Why are the Kellett bills now being handled in the legislature, even in the Republican Senate, with perfunctory courtesy? Why are they not being pushed by those Republicans who were ostensibly friends of the commission and supporters of its endeavors?

The fundamental reason is that the enormous educational bureaucracy, the most powerful and determined political force among all of the many forces of public institutional special interests in the state, was indifferent, at best, and hostile for the most part toward most of the truly significant and inventive themes and propositions of the Governor's Commission.

The other day Chairman Bernard Ziegler of the University of Wisconsin Board of Regents, obliquely attacking the Lucey plan to integrate the two state university systems, noted that the Kellett report did not endorse such an idea. He was right. The Kellett report asked for a single overseer command of all of public education. One may wonder whether Mr. Ziegler would be any more cordial toward that conception if Mr. Lucey had embraced it.

But even if the new legislature and the new administration continue to pretend that Kellett never happened, as seems probable, the studies and conclusions will have a basic significance. They will be reference points for governors, citizens, legislators, taxpayers in decades ahead.

Visionary, almost revolutionary in some respects, the document also recited with admirable detachment illusions and failures, false assumptions and inadequacies, resulting from the encouragement by the comfortable educational establishment of the popular belief that what is so costly must be superior.

The value of the Kellett report will be rediscovered some day in its chilling conclusion that there are more weaknesses in the giant school system than anyone has ever dared to assert before. Ignored today, it will nevertheless have an impact tomorrow.

Strictly Personal

Rabbi Is Ousted for Long Hair and Beard

BY SYDNEY J. HARRIS

Of all the ridiculous "hair" stories I've heard about this year, surely the funniest and saddest is the item about the temple on the Upper East Side of New York, whose congregation voted to discharge its rabbi for having shoulder-length hair and a beard.

Shades of Abraham, Isaac and Jacob! If a rabbi is to be debarred from wearing a beard, the Old Testament turns into a shambles. Why, a beard is the essence of a patriarch, the symbol of a prophet, the insignia of a learned man. In early religious art, even God is depicted with a flowing white beard.

No doubt the congregation would feel more comfortable with Alan King's parody of a modern rabbi — "Rabbi Chuck," wearing chinos and tennis sneakers — just as most Christian churches reject the traditional portrait of a Semitic Jesus for a tall, blond, blue-eyed Swedish figure who would be gladly admitted to any club in town, while the true Jesus would be black-balled promptly (they say his parents were Jewish.)

Another absurd and unjust hair story came out of Boston recently, where a municipal judge was hearing a case involving a 22-year-old ex-Marine charged with possession of marijuana. The judge said he would put the defendant on probation if he consented to cut his hair short; otherwise, he would receive three months in prison. The young man refused to do this, and so the judge put him away.

I think the judge ought to be put away, for arbitrary and despotic misuse of his judicial authority and I congratulate the defendant for having the probity to resist this despicable blackmail. He proved himself more honest, principled, and logical than the gallery-playing magistrate.

It is by now a truism that if Jesus returned today, He would be stopped, searched and probably carted off to the precinct station by the first cop who came across Him. Bearded, sandled, beaded, no fixed abode, no occupation, a dropout from school, preaching a nutty gospel of turning the other cheek and giving all you have to the poor — and a notorious frequenter of low places and dubious characters. What chance would He have today? Even less than the Romans gave Him.

I am convinced that our anti-hair phobia is in some mysterious, but deeply-fixed, way connected with the Bible and religion; that it serves as an unconscious reminder of the way we have lost, the message we have ignored. Nothing less than this can explain the ugly and irrational rejection and contempt we express for the ancient tresses.

Substitute GI Returned Home

SAIGON (AP) — A young man from Maine who took his brother's place in the Army but was found out returns to the United States today after nearly a month in Vietnam.

No charges were filed against 22-year-old Wesley Storer of Yarmouth, Maine, who arrived in Saigon aboard a military flight April 21 after assuming the identity of his brother, Spec. 4 Glenn Storer, 21.

Glenn was left behind in the United States, where he had gone April 10 for a two-week leave.

At home at Yarmouth, Glenn had described the war to his brother: "Try to imagine the worst thing in your mind ...

and it's twice as bad as that ... It's unbelievable and unreal."

Wesley said he decided to do something about his brother's discontent.

Change Places
"We decided that I would go to Vietnam in Glenn's place while he stayed in the States and tried to figure a way to get out of the army legally," Wesley said.

After three days in a replacement center in South Vietnam, Wesley was shipped to Chu Lai, headquarters of the Americal Infantry Division.

From there he was taken by truck to Hawk Hill, the home of his brother's unit, Echo Company, 2nd Battalion, 1st Infantry Regiment, 196th Infantry Brigade.

His brother's buddies immediately realized Wesley wasn't Glenn. And when a field operation was ordered for the next day, one of them was afraid Wesley would get hurt and told the first sergeant about the switch.

Wesley said he spent nine days in a detention cell at Chu Lai, then was allowed to help in the cleanup after Typhoon Wanda. He then moved in with a military police unit.

Glenn meanwhile turned himself in at Ft. Devens, Mass., and left Monday night for Vietnam. A military spokesman at Chu Lai said Glenn probably would be charged with being absent without leave.

Wesley, exempt from military service because of a skiing accident, observed: "Well, we thought it would work. Anyhow, it couldn't have been worse for Glenn. No matter what happened."

His Brother didn't like the war, so Wesley Storer, a civilian, took his place after a leave at their Yarmouth, Maine, home. Now they are trading back again and Wesley wears his brother's fatigues, minus insignia, as he waits for a flight out of Tan Son Nhut Airbase in Saigon. His brother is on his way back to duty. Marijuana High Called Possible In Meditation

Presidential Panel Told Experiences Based on Expectation

By JOHN LENGEL
Associated Press Writer
WASHINGTON (AP) — Meditation can produce the same emotional state as a marijuana cigarette, says a former government drug researcher who has tried both.

The secret is in the person's surroundings and his expectation of an enjoyable experience. Dr. Andrew Weil told the presidential panel on marijuana and dangerous drugs Tuesday.

"People who become dependent on marijuana are people who think that the experiences they enjoy come in the joints they smoke," he said.

Other Methods
"People who realize that these experiences come from their own nervous systems elicited by expectations and surroundings ... do not become dependent. They often begin to look eventually for other methods of maintaining their experiences, such as meditation."

"It seems to me," Weil continued, "that people take drugs because they are effective means of entering states of consciousness that all of us feel are worth experiencing. Drugs are not the only means to these states, and I suspect that they are not the best means, but they are effective."

Weil, who says he is into meditation himself now, likened the marijuana high to a trance, hypnosis or daydreaming, as well as meditation.

He said he has rigged experiments producing effects opposite those normally expected: A person taking pep pills went to sleep, and another taking tranquilizers became bouncy and energetic.

Little Effect
Marijuana itself, he said, seems to produce little or no ill effects on the body itself and research will produce little if any additional evidence of danger. Based on tests on cats, Weil said, the fatal human dose of marijuana is estimated to be a pound and a half, swallowed at once.

Weil said he opposes legalization of marijuana, and feels the whole drug controversy is a "manifestation of useless ways of thinking at all levels of society among users and non-users."

"Apprehension about illegality now contributes to the expectations of a good experience" or high, he said, and if marijuana is legalized the number of "interesting useful highs would probably drop sharply."

Education Needed
In other testimony, four former drug addicts generally agreed intensive education on drugs is needed, beginning as early as pre-kindergarten.

Witnesses before the commission the past two days have disagreed on whether to legalize marijuana, although most have advised milder penalties for its use.

The commission is to make its recommendations on marijuana next March. President Nixon has said he would not support legalization, but would consider a more lenient approach to marijuana users.

Manager Burned At Restaurant

The manager of a W. College Avenue restaurant was burned on the left arm slightly late Tuesday night as he extinguished oil in a deep fryer that burst into flames.

Fire fighters said Larry Daul, 728 W. Franklin St., manager of Lum's Restaurant, 729 W. College Ave., had put out the fire before they arrived.

Fire officials said there was damage to the fryer and hood over it, and that there was smoke damage throughout the restaurant. Daul told authorities that the fire flared shortly after the fryer was plugged in.

Lockheed Doubles Estimate of Total Unemployment Without Loan Promise

WASHINGTON (AP) — Lockheed Aircraft Corp. has doubled its estimate of job losses that would follow congressional failure to guarantee $250 million in loans the company needs to complete the Tristar jumbo jet.

In a memo to newsmen, Lockheed put the number of lost jobs at 63,000, double what the Nixon administration and the company have been saying. But it includes a new element: Over-all impact on the national job picture, rather than just on Lockheed and its subcontractors in 35 states.

The company stuck with previous estimates of about 30,000 layoffs in its own plants and those of subcontractors if it fails to win federal backing for $250 million private loans needed to complete the L1011 Tristar and survive huge cost overruns by Rolls-Royce Ltd., bankrupt British maker of Tristar engines.

Partial Precedents
The Lockheed memo also cited what the company called numerous "partial precedents" for 1971.

In a Senate speech, Sen. Frank Church, D-Idaho, said the proposal "should be named the 'Big Business Welfare Act of 1971'."

Church said he is opposed to the guarantees and would remain opposed even if the company's current management under criticism for allowing several years of big cost overruns on defense projects, should be ousted. Several members of the House and Senate have called for a management purge.

Testifying before a Senate subcommittee on production and stabilization, Murray L. Weidenbaum, assistant secretary of the Treasury for economic policy, said the Lockheed guarantee is the "single most effective step that Congress could take" to alleviate rising unemployment in the aerospace industry.

The subcommittee, chaired by Sen. Alan Cranston, D-Calif., is looking into problems of defense-oriented industries being forced by budget cuts to diversify into nonmilitary work.

Spent Shot Kills Many Waterfowl

WASHINGTON (AP) — Waterfowl that escape death from hunters' guns still stand a good chance of dying from shotgun lead poisoning, a federal biologist reports.

Hundreds of thousands of wild ducks and geese die each year of poisoning caused when they eat the spent shot from hunting guns, said Dr. Robert I. Smith of the Bureau of Sports Fisheries and Wildlife.

"We probably lose half a million mallards a year," Smith estimated.

The mallards, he adds, is probably hardest hit of the approximately 25 species of waterfowl in North America.

Black ducks and pintails also suffer heavy losses, he said.

A recent study indicated a possibility that the losses will mount since 6,000 tons of lead shot are deposited on waterfowl marshes each year by hunters firing at passing ducks.

Absorbed Into Body
The shot settles on the marsh where it is picked up by feeding ducks. The small lead pellets are ground into minute particles in the gizzard and absorbed into the body.

"These fine particles, acted on by the acids of the digestive organs, yield a soluble lead salt which, being absorbed into the general system, causes death," Smith explained.

Studies of marshy soil near duck blinds indicate the number of pellets may reach 120,000 per acre, although about 30,000 pellets per acre "seems to be typical of many soils in traditional waterfowl hunting areas," Smith said.

"Birds apparently mistake lead pellets for seed or grit," he added.

It takes very few pellets to kill a duck. Experiments indicate eight No. 6 shot will quickly kill most mallards, one of the largest wild duck species.

Lesser doses may not be fatal, Smith said, but could make the bird less able to avoid predators.

A government study conducted two years ago disclosed that soft iron shot had nearly the same killing properties as lead pellets, but would not harm the bird if accidentally ingested.

Ammunition manufacturers, however, have objected to substituting iron for lead because it damages shotgun bores.

Powerful Earthquake In Siberia Measured

It registered 7.1 on the Richter scale. By comparison, the Los Angeles earthquake in February registered between 6 and 6.5.

Jewish Black Panther Riot In Israel Against Bias

JERUSALEM (AP) — A hundred Jewish "Black Panthers" with clubs and water hoses charging discrimination against the Jewish immigrants from Africa and Asia fought street battles Tuesday with po-pooned with a barrage of lice. Ten policemen and several demonstrators were injured in windows.

Israel's worst rioting in years. Police said they arrested 74 long claimed they are discriminated against by Israelis of European stock who dominate the political, economic and military life in Israel. But this was the first serious outbreak of ethnic fighting since 1958, when there was a similar demonstration in Haifa.

Army Reserve Units Civic Minded

By ROBERT HOLDEN
Associated Press Writer

NEW YORK (AP) — Army reservists saw trees in Montana, build playgrounds in Pennsylvania and Louisiana, drill teeth in Texas and fight Dutch elm disease in Colorado.

It is all part of a growing involvement in ecology and community affairs by the Army Reserve.

"Citizen-soldiers across the country are working hard to improve their communities in cooperation with local officials," a Reserve spokesman said.

April was "community month" for the U.S. Army Reserve, which has about 3,500 units, one million members and was 63 years old on April 23.

A 28-page commemorative booklet cites numerous unit and individual activities in ecology, health and recreation during the past two years of the Reserve's community relations and domestic action program.

Tree Saving

One tree-saving project cited was conducted by the 35 men of the 475th Engineer Detachment in Missoula, Mont., who on weekends thinned trees in the Lolo National Forest. The less-desirable trees were sawed into boards and donated to nonprofit organizations.

Dutch elm disease that threatened the 300,000 elm trees lining Denver's parkways was attacked by the 405th Military Intelligence Detachment. The dozen members studied infrared aerial photographs to identify dead or dying trees, havens for beetles that spread a lethal fungus. The trees were then removed.

An example of the Reserve's health projects was the immunization against Rubella German Measles of 150,000 Salt Lake City area youngsters by members of the 328th General Hospital, Ft. Douglas, Utah. They manned 18 clinics and completed the immunization program in two days.

Milwaukee Unit

Members of the 452nd General Hospital in Milwaukee volunteered off-duty time to give physical examinations to children from the inner city's boys clubs.

Dental care for the 400-plus residents of Buckner Baptist Children's Home, Mesquite, Texas, was provided by two local reserve units, the 565th and 329th medical detachments. Each month the reservists set up field dental clinics in addition to frequently visiting the home.

The 156th Petroleum Intersectional Command, Albuquerque, N.M., donated 150 pints of blood specifically for open heart surgery at Bernadillo County Medical Center.

Reserve community recreation projects included the 50-acre camping playground site developed and built by Companies B and D of the 245th Engineer Battalion, Houma, La., and the 40-acre playground in Norristown, Pa., built by two Philadelphia units.

Baseball Fields

The playground, including two junior baseball fields and a 60-foot concrete pedestrian bridge, was cleared and built by the 939th and 851st transportation units.

Several units were credited with helping provide relief supplies and cleanup in the wake of Hurricane Camille, which devastated the Gulf Coast Aug. 17, 1969, and left thousands homeless.

More recent cleanup campaigns included removal of 15 tons of trash by 60 members of the 100th Training Division, Louisville, as part of Kentucky's "April cleanup and beautification" drive.

Sheriff Tom Tolman, of Minnesota's rural Beltrami County, led the successful search for a lost child that was joined in by men of the 1st Battalion, 409th Infantry of the 205th Infantry Brigade, Ft. Snelling, Minn.

Tolman wrote: "The Army Reserve unit was the backbone of the entire operation. I think the whole operation is an example of the close ties between our military units and the citizens of our country."

Lucey Plans Week Trip to Switzerland

MADISON (AP) — Gov. Patrick J. Lucey announced Monday he will travel to Switzerland this weekend with three other governors to voice an appeal for humane treatment of American prisoners of the North Vietnamese.

The four governors will leave Saturday and return May 30.

Lucey will be accompanied by Govs. John C. West of South Carolina, Kenneth M. Curtis of Maine and Dean C. Davis of Vermont.

Traveling as guests of the American-Swiss Association, the delegation will visit Geneva at the time when representatives of 40 nations begin discussions of the 1949 Geneva Convention.

Highway Litter Is Expensive

Post-Crescent Madison Bureau

MADISON — There is a receptacle for the collection of waste for every six miles along the Wisconsin public highways system, according to the Wisconsin Natural Beauty Council. Nevertheless, the council reports regrettably in a current publication that the state government spent $750,000 last year to pick up litter along the state highway system.

The total for the entire Wisconsin public road system would be many times the cost to the state treasury, the agency reminds, quoting the county highway department of Rock County as estimating that county taxpayers there are paying $50 a mile to pick up litter each year from their rural roads not included in the state trunk road system.

submit an urban mass transportation area plan, which led to filing of an application for $1.7 million in planning funds. But correspondence in Steiger's office last fall showed the agency had found a way to release funds to the city without a plan. Nonetheless, the application for planning funds is being routinely processed, along with the application for $50,000 to buy the buses. Still another hassle has developed. The agency wants to provide funds for a barn to house the buses, although Fond du Lac officials have said they would rather park them outside.

Democrats in 9th District Hit Plan by Steiger

MILWAUKEE (AP) — Delegates to the 9th Congressional district Democratic caucus Sunday were the latest to go on record against the "Steiger plan" for Congressional reapportionment in Wisconsin. Delegates said the plan, drafted by Rep. William Steiger, R-Wis., and introduced as a bill in the legislature, would make the 9th district more Republican in character than it already is. Area Democrats strongly oppose altering the district's boundaries at this time because of reports incumbent Republican Congressman, Glenn Davis, will be appointed a federal judge, thus forcing a new election. Davis beat Democrat Fred Tabak by a surprisingly small margin in last year's election.

R. Buckminster Fuller to Bring Philosophy of Hope to Green Bay

GREEN BAY — The world has been a while catching up with R. Buckminster Fuller, 75, but lately it has begun to run faster. The small, white-haired man who terms himself a "comprehensive anticipatory design scientist" will give the University of Wisconsin-Green Bay commencement address May 30 at the Brown County Veterans Memorial Arena. The event begins at 2:30 p.m. and is open to the public. Worldwide interest in "Bucky" Fuller has come almost suddenly, with recognition of the architect-synergetic thinker as one of the most creative minds on the planet. When Fuller was a young man in 1927 he made a vow with himself to discover the "principles operative in the universe and turn them over to my fellow man." For almost 50 years he has been doing exactly that, thinking, originating ideas, projecting solutions to world problems. Recognition, however, has been relatively recent. "It is my lifelong resolve," he says, "to accomplish tasks by reforming the mechanics of the physical environment rather than by trying to reform man." Fuller is essentially a scientist, mathematician, architect, inventor, cartographer, and engineer. Nearly all of his inventions and discoveries (he has patented more than 150 patents in 59 countries) relate to his comprehensive studies in experimental mathematics. He is perhaps best known for his Fuller geodesic domes that now dot the earth and are considered to be the strongest, lightest, and most efficient shelters yet devised by man. An optimist who bases his philosophy on firm mathematical principles rather than rosy pipe dreams, he foresees that man, in the next 10 or 15 years, "will attain complete freedom from the struggle to survive, and that technology will eliminate scarcity." Young people hang on his every word as though a 50-year generation gap never existed. By the beginning of this year, Fuller—who (now and then) resides in Carbondale, Ill., as a distinguished professor at Southern Illinois University—had made 450 visits to 271 colleges and universities around the world. He thinks nothing of traveling over 200,000 miles a year to fulfill his various speaking engagements. "There is a new dedication on the part of the young in the world," Fuller wrote in his book "Ideas and Integrity." "This young world is about to take over to help us design ourselves to make man a success on earth. If this is successfully done the Malthusian and Darwinian frustrations—that there is not enough in the world to go around—will be completely irrelevant." More With Less The full and rich life, Fuller says in his speeches, will one day be for everyone because "the universe is not running down, but regenerating itself."

UW Slips on Scale Of Faculty Salaries

MADISON — The University of Wisconsin ranked 157th in the nation in average total compensation for full-time faculty members for 1970-71, and 135th in the Big Ten, while the average cash salary was $14,090, ninth in the Big Ten, with Ohio State further down the list. The UW rating in average faculty compensation slipped from 96th in 1968-69 to 118th in 1969-70, to the current position of 157th. The rating is based on averages from 1,345 institutions throughout the United States. Average compensation (salary plus benefits) on a nine-month basis for the entire UW system was $15,578, lowest in the Big Ten, while the average cash salary was $14,090, ninth in the Big Ten, with Ohio State further down the list.

Among the Big Ten universities, Northwestern headed the list, in average total compensation with $19,843, followed by Michigan (Main Campus), $18,798; Indiana (Bloomington), $17,441; Purdue (Lafayette), $17,432; Iowa, $17,264; Minnesota and Michigan State, $17,159; Illinois, $16,610; Ohio State, $15,639, and Wisconsin, $15,578. Relating the figures to the national ranking, Northwestern was 20th, Michigan, 35th; Indiana, 59th, Purdue, 60th; Iowa, 64th; Minnesota and Michigan State, 68th; Illinois, 85th; Ohio State, 151st, and Wisconsin, 157th.

Heading the nationwide average total compensation list, which included 1,345 institutions—those universities with at least 25 full-time faculty members—was the City University of New York's Graduate Division ($27,594), followed by Claremont Graduate School ($22,955), Harvard University ($22,300), Brooklyn College of City University of New York ($22,270), and the California Institute of Technology ($21,962).

Comparing the increase in faculty salaries this past year with the rise in the cost of living, the AAUP concluded that the results of its 1970-71 survey reflected "a bad year for the academic profession." This past year, on the average, was a year of "standstill," it said. The survey showed that at more than half the institutions with professorial ranks, average salaries were raised less than the six per cent increase in consumer prices.

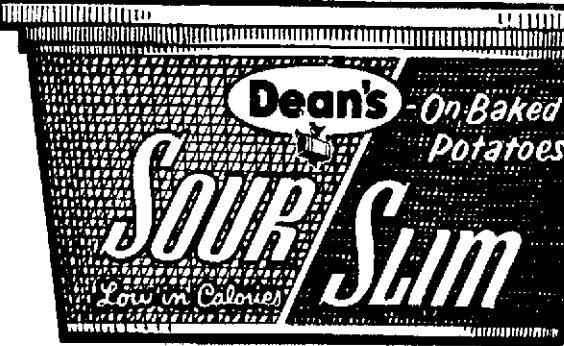

He received a bachelor's degree from the University of Chicago in 1921 and a doctorate from the same university in 1929. Open House Thursday An open house will be held from 8:30 a.m. to 2:30 p.m. Thursday at Sacred Heart School. Student work will be exhibited and teachers will be available to answer questions.

Money for Retarded

More Bike Riders Wanted

Hundreds of local bicycle riders money raised will be used to provide facilities and services for the mentally retarded and for Saturday and hundreds more developmentally disabled in are expected. Applications may be obtained at the junior and senior high schools, Xavier, Fox Valley Lutheran, and the bi- (NCF) and the Wisconsin Youth Association for Retarded Children (Youth-ARC). NFC will use its share to finance the building of residential facilities for the retarded so that they can live in their own communities. The Youth-ARC share will go toward community services and programs for these handicapped persons. Ihm pointed out that all 129 such activities that are being coordinated into one massive statewide effort on May 22 by the New Concepts Foundation. Ihm said, "We're delighted with the response so far, but here in Outagamie County we're still looking for a good many more riders and sponsors." The bikers will begin their 5,250 mile ride at 9 a.m. from Einstein, Madison, Roosevelt, and Wilson junior high schools and travel as far as their stamina and determination can take them: in case of rain, Ihm said, the ride will take place the following day.

Warren Accused of Solon Surveillance

MADISON, Wis. (AP) — A legislator has accused Atty. Gen. Robert W. Warren of setting up a spy network in the Wisconsin Justice Department and of compiling secret dossiers on members of the legislature.

The department's computers, Rep. Frederick Kessler declared, are being stocked with rumor information, not objective information.

Kessler, a Milwaukee Democrat, made his remarks about the Republican attorney general while urging the Assembly's Judiciary Committee to support a bill which would restrict a state agency's collection of data.

"The Justice Department is using the techniques of record-keeping to develop a spy system equal to the U.S. Justice Department and the discredited military-intelligence complex," Kessler said.

A deputy attorney general, Arvid Sather, accused Kessler of making a "very political statement." Sather drew a parallel between Kessler's statement and the congressional complaints about FBI surveillance of government officials.

"Obviously he is trying to drag us into the FBI controversy," Sather said.

Kessler said the legislature should enact measures to assure rights of privacy. The state has no right-of-privacy statutes, he said.

Committee members questioned Kessler about his allegations. He said he doesn't know how many dossiers are being kept, or how long they've been kept. He declined to say who supplied him with the information.

Six departments, Kessler said, are making heavy use of computer data. Careless exchange of the data, he said, is "a danger to the people of Wisconsin."

Tax Redistribution Defeat Is Predicted

Y JOHN WYNGAARD Post-Crescent Madison Bureau

MADISON — The legislature's best informed and most influential specialist in financial affairs as predicted defeat for Gov. Patrick Lucey's major proposal for the redistribution of local shares of state-collected taxes, which is a revised and supposedly more palatable version of the so-called Tarr redistribution plan advanced by the Knowledge Administration two years ago.

Sen. Walter Hollander of Rosendale, a Republican power in the Republican-controlled state senate and co-chairman of the legislature's joint committee on finance, made the forecast in a statement prepared for the Wisconsin Towns Association and published in its newsletter distributed to town board officers.

The Association is among the leading opponents of redistribution, largely because it will tend to give Milwaukee money that other communities, notably those in the rural areas, feel is disproportionately high.

To some degree, complain the opponents, such gains for Milwaukee will be at the expense of other and smaller localities.

Seek Modification

Hollander in effect endorsed at objection when he said he will ask for lesser gains for Milwaukee through a modification of the 20 mill property tax apportionment rule suggested by the Democratic governor for the redistribution of shares from the state shared tax fund.

"Without this suggested change, this proposal for redistribution of state aids and shared taxes is doomed to defeat," he wrote.

The Lucey plan asks for a $35 per capita distribution from the state money pool, without qualification, plus remainder shares to those municipalities that have local levies in excess of 20 mills on equalized valuation.

Hollander said the minimum tax rate must be reduced if the measure is enacted.

The effect of a lower qualifying rate would be to spread the money more generally, thus reduce the gains planned for Milwaukee and some of the other larger cities.

"Punitive"

Hollander said the Lucey bill is so "punitive," and it would provide such generous assistance to Milwaukee, that "it cannot possibly pass in its present form."

The legislature has not yet had a test vote on the redistribution idea which has been tossed around in legislative politics for a decade. The measure remains before the finance committee, and presumably won't be reported out until that committee completes work on the state general budget.

Lucey anticipated rural and small town objections about favoritism toward Milwaukee when he asked for a "sweetening" of the fund by the addition of new income tax receipts, but the Hollander prediction suggests strongly that the governor's expedient won't be sufficient to win majority votes in both houses.

Hollander in effect endorsed at objection when he said he will ask for lesser gains for Milwaukee through a modification of the 20 mill property tax apportionment rule suggested by the Democratic governor for the redistribution of shares from the state shared tax fund.

"Without this suggested change, this proposal for redistribution of state aids and shared taxes is doomed to defeat," he wrote.

The Lucey plan asks for a $35 per capita distribution from the state money pool, without qualification, plus remainder shares to those municipalities that have local levies in excess of 20 mills on equalized valuation.

Hollander said the minimum tax rate must be reduced if the measure is enacted.

Explosive Restriction Defeated

MADISON, Wis. (AP) — A bill designed to discourage militants from using nitrogen fertilizers as explosives was defeated in the state legislature Tuesday.

The Assembly killed on a voice vote a proposal to require ammonium nitrate fertilizer sold in the state to be desensitized to render it unexplosive when mixed with organic material.

An explosion of ammonium nitrate, fuel oil mixture and dynamite last summer killed a young researcher and destroyed Sterling Hall at the University of Wisconsin.

"We were bombed," Rep. Gerald A. Greider, R-La Crosse, told the Assembly. "Wouldn't we look silly if next week they do the same thing, and we vote against the bill?"

Opponents to the bill argued that altered ammonium nitrate could easily be transported from other states to Wisconsin.

Other potentially explosive materials are readily available, the lawless element, and the proposal's major effect would be to force higher costs onto the farmer, they said.

"Farming is tough enough as it is without adding an additional cost to fertilizer," Rep. Cletus Vanderperrin, D-Green Bay, said.

The vote ran along straight party lines with the exception of one Democratic representative who said his decision was more that "of a Catholic than a legislator."

Assembly Wants Truth In Markdown Pricing

MADISON, Wis. (AP) — A bill to forbid retailers from representing a product as "marked down" unless they have actually sold it at a higher price was passed Tuesday by the Wisconsin Assembly 61-35.

The measure, which would also forbid retailers when advertising sales from using a "regular price" higher than they had sold the goods.

Rep. Donald Helgeson, R-Manitowish, urged rejection of the bill. He said it was "too broad, too general," and did not adequately define a bargain sale.

"This bill goes a long way toward eliminating a very shoddy practice in many parts of the state," Rep. Edward Nager said, adding the expression "sale" as use in common parlance adequately defined.

"When they say they have a sale, let's make them mean it," Nager said.

The measure goes to the Senate. It provides a penalty of up to three months in jail and a $500 fine.

Turning its attention to other consumer proposals, the Assembly passed 75-19 a bill which would allow bakers to sell half loaves of bread.

The present Wisconsin statute, which prohibits half loaves is broad, too general," argued Rep. Dennis Conta, D-Milwaukee, because other businesses are allowed to market such goods as beer, milk and soft drinks in smaller than standard quantities.

The measure also must go to the Senate.

Parochial Passage Recommended

MADISON — Parochial, or state support of private schools. Tuesday was recommended for passage but no provisions for funding in the legislature's Joint Finance Committee.

The committee voted 9-4 to support a tuition grant proposal that would provide grants of $75 for elementary school children and $138 for secondary school students attending private schools. Although it is estimated the program would cost nearly $40 million for the 1971-73 biennium, the committee made no specific recommendation for funding. But, it did provide by a 7-6 vote the mechanism necessary for funding to be approved in advance of a vote on the state budget.

In announcing an already made decision that the bill, one of five proposals, would be the recommendation, Sen. Walter Hollander, R-Rosendale, senate chairman of the joint committee said, "If we're going to adopt any, this is the one." He said the committee would not recommend financing but would "let them fight out financing on the floor."

Both the rapidity of the action — taking only five minutes — and the vote split among committee members indicated the members considered the highly controversial proposal either too highly charged to review thoroughly and pointlessly to discuss since discussion on the floor is likely to be considerable.

The favorable vote was weakened by splitting the question and different vote lineups on each of two issues.

The emergency funding clause, which was approved 7-6, normally is attached when the committee recommends a funding plan, but in this instance it provides a mechanism whereby the legislature can set its own level of support without returning to the joint finance committee, that clearly does not want to tangle with the issue.

The committee's position was not strong enough for its supporters to rejoice.

Rep. Anthony Earl, D-Wausau, indicated the mixed views when he cast his vote on passage. "This is the least offensive amendment to an offensive bill," he said, and voted with the majority. But, when the emergency clause vote was taken, he voted no.

Sen. Jack Steinhilber, R-Oshkosh, held to his conviction that the state should not support private institutions. "This is bad public policy, unconstitutional and unwise," he said.

Sen. Nile Soik, R-Whitefish Bay, told the committee he had supported a measure in the 1969 session that would have provided $50 and $100 grants on the understanding the state would save money by preventing the closing of private schools and the resulting shift of students to public schools. But he was wrong, he said, and voted no.

As the issue now stands, the committee has recommended only that state policy be established to support tuition grant payments, and that a court case be initiated in the state Supreme Court to test the constitutionality.

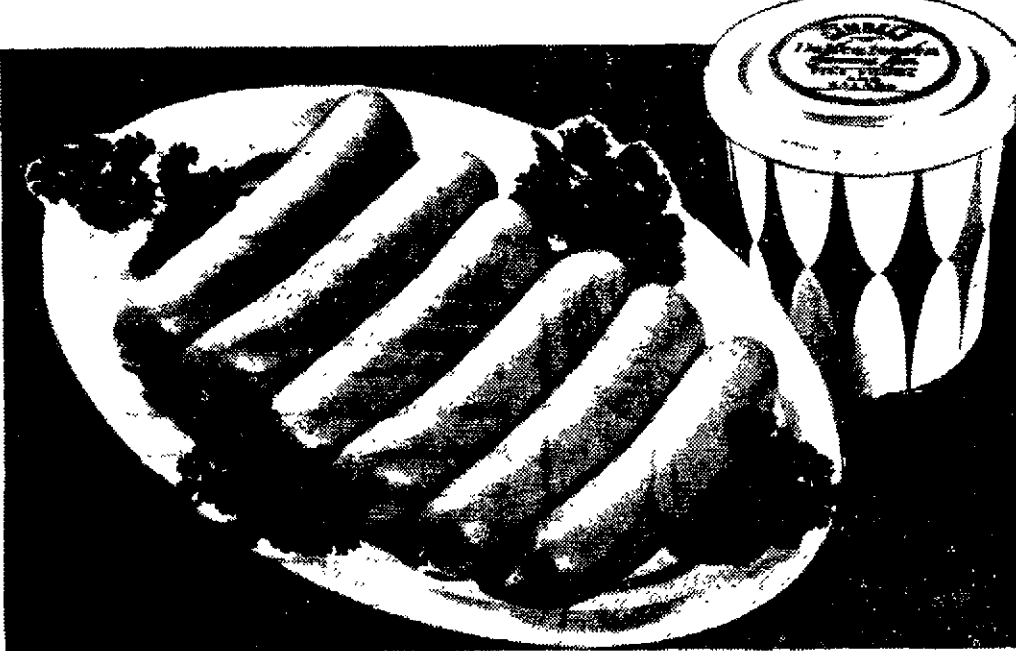

Funding now will be a separate issue despite the fact it is the key issue. Separated from the bill, funding faces the considerable obstacles of an economic recession that is resulting in a lot of talk about austerity budgeting and the possibility the concept would be adopted without the funds.

Since the Senate is weeks behind on its calendar and most efforts to bring measures up ahead of schedule have been defeated, it will be some time before the issue is considered on the Senate floor and longer before the Assembly acts on the Senate bill.

Wycislo Sets Policy Against Legal Abortion

'If Principle of Life Is Attacked, All Mankind Is in Peril'

GREEN BAY — "Whenever the principle of life is directly attacked, all mankind is in danger," Bishop Aloysius J. Wycislo stresses in his position paper on abortion, which will be the official policy for the Catholic Diocese of Green Bay.

Tackling the problem of abortion on demand, he said that it must be carefully noted that an action can be legal and immoral at the same time. "Christian and civil obligations demand that no one infringe upon the right to life, especially when that life is defenseless."

The position paper and policy, entitled "Statement Concerning Abortion on Demand," are the result of months of work by the bishop's Medical-Moral Resource Committee composed of physicians, hospital administrators, nurses and theologians.

Hearings Set
Legislative hearings on changing Wisconsin's abortion laws will be held in Madison on May 25.

The text of Bishop Wycislo's statement follows:

"The value of life for the human person and the way in which that value is both protected and promoted is a responsibility of every individual. Our response to the gift of life must involve a profound concern from the first moment of life to its conclusion. As is well known, there has been a conflict over the problem of the right to life throughout most of history, but men have maintained that the right to life of each individual is sacred and is the basis of most other rights.

"Abortion, a moral act which confronts the right to life, raises many problems. In the case of herapetic a b o r t i o n , there have been attempts to protect the right to life of both mother and child but at the present time there is a strong social and legal pressure to permit abortion on demand, for such reasons as stress, inconvenience or the prevention of hardship. To infringe upon the right and freedom of the child for the reasons just stated is a form of violence so great in itself and its effect that humanity is offended.

Abortion on Demand
"Rather than taking the position that abortion is to be absolutely prohibited, we address ourselves to the problem of abortion on demand. Present medical research indicates that human life begins with the fertilization of the egg by the sperm. Even as the definition of death has changed and been clarified with the acquisition of more advanced knowledge, we can foresee that the definition of the onset of human life might change with further medical information. With our present knowledge, however, the process by which the two-cell product (egg-sperm) is rendered nonviable is nothing else than the taking of human life.

"The Church has always maintained that the taking of human life for reasons other than those of legitimate self-defense (private or social) is gravely wrong and the Church.

Central County Landfill?

Rural Waste Pickup Plan Presented

BY DAVID WEITZ
Post-Crescent Staff Writer

Rural residents of Outagamie and Winnebago counties eventually may dump wastes in roadside containers to be emptied in central county landfills.

The container pickup plan was proposed by Department of Natural Resources engineers Tuesday during a meeting with Outagamie and Winnebago county leaders in the Outagamie County courthouse annex.

At the same time Thomas Kunes, DNR solid waste disposal engineer, told town officials the agency will get tougher on landfill regulations.

— Sites must fully comply with state standards, unless specific exemptions are granted, or licenses will not be renewed Oct. 1.

— Each disposal site will be checked twice by the DNR before October to measure compliance.

— Site not in compliance must be abandoned.

— This year some exemptions may be granted if "reasonable justification" is shown. Populations served by the site will be of major consideration.

— Large county or regional sanitary landfills now are the most feasible disposal programs.

— Large landfills provide potential collection points for future waste recycling systems.

— Container collections can be combined with central landfill systems to replace open dumps in rural areas.

— Container pickup provides better service for rural users.

"More Economical"

Rural towns simply may not be able to afford adequate landfill operations, said Kunes.

A regional or county plan can cut costs. "If this waste is brought to a centralized site, it will be more economical."

Container pickup is modeled after a Chilton County, Ala. plan. There, county and municipal officials organized a joint landfill. A packer truck was purchased by the county and bursed throughout the county along roads as collection points.

Now there are 90 containers serving the rural Chilton County area which is similar in size to Outagamie County. Each container is emptied by a packer truck every other day.

Ninety-five per cent of the rural residents live within 4.8 miles of a container.

Waste from the containers is emptied into a landfill near Clanton, the county's largest municipality. Clanton presently operates the same municipal collection system which existed before the landfill was started.

Higher Costs

There were 40 open dumps and roadside dumps in the county before the landfill was started.

Kunes estimated cost of the Alabama operation at $4 per person per year. Costs would be higher here, he said, because of increased wage levels, land values and a larger metropolitan area.

Chilton County is a rural area containing only about 26,000

Sunday Parade OK Asked

The City Council will be asked tonight to revise the permit issued last month for Appleton's Memorial Day parade, to change the date from Monday, May 31, to Sunday.

City Clerk Elden Broehm was told this morning that while the original application sought the Monday date, the committee organizing the parade has changed the date to Sunday because Wisconsin so far has failed to adopt the federal Monday holiday law.

In states that have adopted the new law, Memorial Day is among the holidays that now fall always on a Monday. In Wisconsin, May 30 remains the official date, which this year falls on Sunday.

Local clergymen reportedly have raised objections to the date. The parade is scheduled for 9 a.m., starting at Oneida Street on College Avenue and proceeding east to Rankin Street, north to Pacific Street, and east on Pacific to Riverside Cemetery.

The route passes at least three churches.

The parade was held on Sunday several years ago.

Holding the parade on Sunday without council approval of the date change would violate the city's parade ordinance. The same ordinance also requires applications for parade permits to be filed 30 days before the parade is held, which the council also will have to waive in order to allow the change. The council has bent the rules set down in the ordinance before, how-

Commission Votes for Filling Bay

Appleton Parks and Recreation commissioners voted Tuesday for filling rather than cleaning up the Fox River bay below Telulah Park.

The commission rejected the advice of Conservation Warden Dale Morey, who urged "an objective plan and study of this area."

Instead, commissioners accepted the view of the city park supervisor, Roger Rindt. "I can't see that there is any wildlife there. All I can see is a sludge bed," Rindt said.

Morey told the commission that while the bay is "an abused area," it could be dredged and improved with riprap islands to harbor water fowl and other creatures, and serve as a nature study area for school children.

Ralph Gertsch, commission chairman, advocates putting boat docks and a launching site in the area once it is filled, primarily to serve "transient boaters" who wish to put their boats in the river downstream from the Appleton series of locks, so they can cruise to Green Bay faster.

The city already has been turned down once by the Department of Natural Resources (DNR) in a request to establish a bulkhead line at the outer edge of the bay along the main channel of the river.

Morey has said his advice may have been the deciding factor in the departments's decision.

Now the commission is asking the DNR to hold a public hearing on the request, a procedure that is available despite the initial refusal.

If the bulkhead line is established, the city and neighboring private property owners will be permitted to fill the bay out to the line, and they will own the new land that will be created. The city recently bought an old home and surrounding land, which gives Telulah Park direct access to the river bank.

Approval From Corps
Gertsch pointed out that the city also sought approval from the U. S. Army Corps of Engineers. "We got approval from the corps, but we got stopped by the state," he said.

Morey said that is because the corps is concerned with the impact of the request on navigation, rather than wildlife and

Panel Favors Northeastern County Urged to Keep Membership

BY DON CASTONIA
Post-Crescent Staff Writer

The policy and finance committee of the Outagamie County Board has recommended that the county remain a member of the Northeastern Wisconsin Regional Planning Commission but that legislation be sought to change the commission's board makeup.

The motion, which was adopted 5-1, also called for inviting other counties to join the commission.

The recommendation came after nearly seven hours of debate between members of the committee and representatives of Northeastern and the Fox Valley Council of Governments (COG).

Supv. Edward Spierings, Little Chute, failed in an attempt to have action on the motion delayed until the June 1 policy and finance committee meeting. He was joined by County Board Chairman Russell DeLaHunt, Kaukauna, in that attempt.

Spierings cast the only "no" vote on the recommendation motion which was made by Supv. G. Allen Bubolz, Appleton. Joining Bubolz in supporting the recommendation, besides DeLaHunt, were Supvs. L. O. Woodard and John Screiter of Appleton, and Joseph Kasperek, rural Black Creek.

Bubolz's motion, similar in wording to a resolution passed earlier in the day by the Winnebago County Board, requested that "no action be taken at this time on the chambers of commerce proposal to withdraw from the Northeastern Wisconsin Regional Planning Commission and to allow for political self-determination on the part of the planning agency, the county board encourage legislation to allow elected officials to serve as commissioners and that other counties be invited into the existing agency for SMSA purposes."

Under existing commission laws, each county has two representatives on the commission, one county board member and one citizen.

Earlier, Northeastern representatives raised the interests of the merger majority and unless Allen feels he is capable of voting fairly and intelligently on planning, I feel he should, in the interest of good government, abstain from that agency's endorsement of a voting or debating the issue."

Charles Hervey, executive director of Northeastern, repeated that agency's endorsement of a voting or debating the issue."

Bubolz defended his right to combination of two operational participate in the issue and agencies under one control. He said, "Both the chairman of the commission (Gordon Bubolz) and I have offered to resign if that stands in the way of a merger."

G. Allen Bubolz said much of the problem blocking merger was an emotional one involving personal personalities. He asked Eugene Franchett, executive director of COG, if he could also make the offer to resign in view of Hervey's statement.

Franchett replied, "I am not a policy maker. My personal opinions have not been expressed. I work for a policy making body and if COG felt it was in the best interest, I could be released tomorrow. I think I have been able to get along with elected officials. If there is a problem elsewhere I am not a part of it."

Franchett said that COG's official position was that the planning agency area should be the three county Standard Metropolitan Statistical Area (SMSA) as a minimum and the eight-county Lake Winnebago administrative district as a maximum, with elected officials making up at least two-thirds of the governing body.

In reply to a question from Bubolz, Franchett said that COG had nothing against the Mayor Gilbert Anderson, charged Anderson with having a "double standard which he is using to cover up his highly emotional involvement in personalities."

Bubolz, who is vice chairman of the policy and finance committee and of the county board, said "I feel it an honor to be able to deliberate in discussions involving planning and I feel able to make independent judgments since I serve on neither planning agencies governing body."

"All the mayor has done is point to a situation where father and son are working together to protect the environment. If everyone in the Fox Valley did the same thing our community would be an even better place to live in future generations."

Bubolz contended that "to carry Anderson's charges to the logical conclusion would prevent even Supvs. Ed Spierings, Harold Miller, Joe DeBruin and George Kroes, who serve on the Board of the Fox Valley Council of Governments, from voting."

Miller and Spierings also are members of the county board's policy and finance committee.

Bubolz, referring to Tuesday's action by the policy and finance committee endorsing Northeastern, said "under our democratic process they (COG) lost in the balloting and the Northeastern

Man Badly Hurt In Hit-Run Accident

A 21-year-old man was in critical condition this morning, units were alerted to be on the at Appleton Memorial Hospital with injuries sustained just before midnight Tuesday when he was struck by a hit-and-run driver while leaving the Appleton Coated Paper Co., 825 E. Wisconsin Ave.

Richard Carlson, 120 E. Wisconsin Ave., was in the intensive care unit of the hospital. Police said he suffered a fractured skull, possible internal injuries and a broken left leg.

The driver, who telephoned police about half an hour after the accident from an E. Wisconsin Avenue service station where police found him, pleaded innocent today to hit-and-run charge with personal injury.

Outagamie County Judge Nick F. Schaefer set a July 15 trial for Robert M. McCullough, 30, Milwaukee. Bond was set at $1,500.

The charge is a felony and, on conviction, carries a maximum of a year in prison, McCullough, who was represented by the attorney, waived a preliminary hearing on the count this morning.

Police said Carlson had just left work and was crossing E. Wisconsin Avenue from south to north when the auto struck him in the pedestrian crosswalk 425 feet east of Meade Street.

Little Chute Overwhelmingly Defeats Bonding for School

BY ED VAN BERKEL
Post-Crescent Staff Writer

LITTLE CHUTE — School district voters overwhelmingly defeated a proposed $350,000 bond issue with which to finance construction of a new elementary school here Tuesday by a vote of 862 to 232.

The school, initially designed for 250 students, would have been constructed on land near the public high school and been of a design to permit expansion to accommodate 500 students in the future.

Supr. of Schools Leo Bronkalla and members of the board of education expressed disappointment in the vote, pointing to the children as the ones who will suffer because of the defeat.

Bronkalla noted that fewer than 200 people appeared at three informational meetings held by the board of education in an effort to explain to people the need for a new facility. A concerted telephone campaign opposing new school construction was held in the district, according to Bronkalla.

Large Turnout

He said that if fewer than 500 voters had gone to the polls, a new school could have been a possibility, but when it was apparent the voter turnout was relatively large, he was not surprised that the bond issue proposal was "clobbered"

"It is a sensitive problem with the parochial school in the village, a matter hard to assess particularly in this period of tough economy," he said. With the substantial opposition to building, the school board now is obliged to take a new approach, he added.

He said he would recommend discontinuing grade school physical education classes so that the elementary gym could be used for team teaching classes.

Some unfinished areas in high school may have to be opened to elementary students and thought given to rental classrooms if any can be found, on taxes," Mrs. Vanden Heuvel said.

He said, "I feel sorry for the kids and in the long run, both the public and parochial schools may be affected by this vote."

Best for Children

Board member Mrs. LeVerne Vanden Heuvel feels that "voters were not considering what was best for the children." She pointed out that 509 children between the second and eighth grades were directly affected by this decision, as they currently are in crowded rooms.

"People voted purely on the basis of what they felt would be an increase in taxes whereas construction of the school would have had very little if any effect on taxes," Mrs. Vanden Heuvel said.

"It's a shame that only 232 people care for the future of the children, but the vote has been taken and we must live with it," Mrs. Vanden Heuvel added. She indicated that school officials and board members would have to take a long hard look at the future educational picture and attempt to take steps in the best interest of the students.

School district clerk Miss Helen Koehn expressed disappointment in the vote and said that board members would have to take immediate steps to attempt to find a solution to the overcrowded conditions.

Winnebago to Remain in Northeastern

OSHKOSH — The rural bloc of supervisors and like-thinking city cohorts joined to defeat a motion to drop out of Northeastern Wisconsin Regional Planning Commission at Tuesday's County Board meeting. The vote: 15 to drop, 29 to stay, 3 absent.

This means the county will stay in Northeastern until Jan. 1, 1973.

It also means that Winnebago County does not meet federal requirements for a large number of grants, including those which Neenah-Menasha officials are hoping will come down for the $17 million sewage plant expansion.

Back in January, area officials, including a number of supervisors heard Harlan Hirt, water resource planner for the Chicago office of the Environmental Protection Agency (EPA), tell them that planning city cohorts joined to defeat a motion to drop out of Northeastern Wisconsin Regional Planning Commission at Tuesday's County Board meeting. The vote: 15 to drop, 29 to stay, 3 absent.

Specifically, he talked about the Lower Fox River Basin and the standard metropolitan statistical area (SMSA) of Winnebago, Outagamie and Calumet counties. "In the case of the Fox Valley, it certainly meets the requirements of an urbanized area, and we are considering it as to have to qualify under this requirement." (The one to have SMSA metro plan.)

Calumet County has repeatedly said it wants nothing to do with Northeastern. The county has its own planning department.

Fond du Lac County, a political part of the Lake Winnebago-

Appeal Made to Keep 2 Planners

The Northeastern Wisconsin Regional Planning Commission has petitioned the U.S. Bureau of the Budget to permit two planning agencies to exist in the Appleton-Oshkosh standard metropolitan statistical area (SMSA).

Charles Hervey, executive director of Northeastern, said the commission has filed an appeal with the bureau to separate the rural and urban areas for planning purposes.

The Bureau of the Budget is the governmental agency which formally designates an area as an SMSA. Outagamie, Winnebago and Calumet counties have been joined as one area.

Under the Department of Housing and Urban Affairs (HUD) only one planning agency will be recognized for receiving urban grants in the area.

At the present time, the Fox Valley Council of Governments is certified for HUD funds while Northeastern is not. However, Northeastern receives planning funds for smaller communities through other government agencies.

Hervey said Northeastern's petition is to designate the area now served by COG as the planning area to receive HUD funds and the remaining area of the three counties be under Northeastern for planning purposes.

This, Hervey said, would not disturb the tri-county SMSA designation.

Lower Fox Basin, also has said it wants nothing to do with Northeastern.

If nothing further is done, and if the federal people keep to the guides they have consistently laid down, there will be no federal grants for projects in the county from either the Department of Housing and Urban Development or the EPA.

One Planner

The board set up no machinery to work on the problem. Planning for the area remains split between feuding Northeastern and the Fox Valley Council of Governments. The federals have asked local people to get one planning agency.

The motion to withdraw from Northeastern and set up a committee to study and recommend a course of action by August was sponsored by Supvs. Goff, King, Sherman, Sitter, Nolan, Greiner, Seefeld and Thomson.

COG Withdrawal

He said the city would withdraw from COG at the next council meeting if the board withdrew from Northeastern. "We will then have a three-month period to work together with other governments in forming a regional planning agency to meet the needs."

Oshkosh prefers an agency that matches the eight-county state administration district first, then a four-county district made of the counties surrounding the lake and lastly, a district made of the three SMSA counties.

Jaeger reminded supervisors that deciding to stay in merely put the problem off until next year.

Arguments to stay in Northeastern centered around the good job it has been doing for local governments and COG's tight-jawed refusal to talk about merging the two. Supvs. Kamp, Pitz, Carpenter and Becher lead the stay-in majority.

A motion made by Supv. Kenneth Seefeld, Oshkosh, to delay the decision until the June meeting was defeated 26 to 19. To drop out of Northeastern, two-thirds of the supervisors would have had to be in favor of the move.

He said that as the metropolitan area grew, additional towns could be switched to COG jurisdiction as the need arose.

Leave Two Agencies

The proposal would, in effect, leave the two planning agencies as they now exist but would add most of Calumet County to Northeastern. The Village of Sherwood and the Town of Harrison are the only Calumet County communities now in COG.

The chambers of commerce of the area communities have proposed that both existing agencies be phased out and replaced by a new single agency.

This proposal, however, was rejected by the Winnebago County Board and has been recommended for rejection in Outagamie County.

Hervey said there has been no indication given by the Bureau of the Budget when an answer will be given on their request.

Science Exhibit Sunday At Combined Locks

COMBINED LOCKS — Jansen School fifth and sixth graders will present a science exhibition from 10 a.m. to 4 p.m. Sunday. The free display is open to the public.

There will be up to 40 exhibits in zoology, botany, astronomy and chemistry, according to Robert Johnson, director.

Heated Phone Call Cause of Death?

Attorneys for the widow of a former Menasha employee argued Tuesday before a state hearing examiner that she should receive $22,572 in death benefits because of her contention that a heated phone conversation between her husband and a former mayor helped cause his death.

The city was represented before Examiner Robert Collins by an attorney representing its insurance carrier which would have to cover the claim if it is awarded.

The hearing lasted all day. Collins said it was the first time in his nine years of experience as an examiner for the Department of Industry, Labor and Human Relations that a workman's compensation hearing has lasted that long.

Collins said he would issue a decision within three to six weeks. His decision can be appealed all the way to the state Supreme Court.

Mrs. Earl Kohler, the wife of a former city street superintendent who died in April, 1970, after suffering a heart attack, claimed she should receive benefits plus medical expenses because of her contention that a heated phone conversation between Kohler and former Mayor John Klein minutes before he was taken to the hospital helped set off the fatal heart attack.

Mrs. Kohler's attorneys argued that because Kohler was carrying out his duties as street superintendent at the time of the conversation with Klein, which they claim was a cause of the heart attack, Mrs. Kohler should qualify for death benefits because her husband died from an injury received while in the employ of the city.

Atty. Jerome Bomier of Neenah, arguing for the Employers Mutual Casualty Co. headquartered in Des Moines, Ia., contended through his chief medical witness that Kohler's heart and circulatory system was already in bad shape before his attack, and the phone conversation had nothing to do with it.

The phone conversation and its effect on Kohler was the main basis for Mrs. Kohler's claim, argued by Appleton Atty. Samuel Sigman and Thomas Janssen.

Dumped Chemicals

During the phone conversation, reference was made to the dumping of chemicals from the Brighton city garage in the Brighton Beach dump in July, 1969. A report from Kohler to Fifth Ward Ad. Herbert Batley, who testified at the hearing, said the chemicals were worth $4,838.50.

Alfred Voelker, Jr., city bookkeeper, testified that Kohler told Klein over the phone on the morning of April 10 that "I'm well aware of what's going on and I'm going to take this to the proper authorities so it can be straightened out."

Kohler died at 11:05 p.m., April 11.

Sigman asked Voelker if the "chemical matter" had been of "continuous interest" among city officials.

"This, sir, is a very delicate matter," Voelker replied. He was asked again, and following objections from Bomier that were overruled by Collins, Voelker said it was a concern.

"Yes, very much so," he said. "In fact, it is still a concern of city officials right now."

Menasha Downs Primaries

MENASHA — Less than a majority of the city's 12 aldermen put an apparent end to efforts aimed at establishing primaries for crowded local elections Tuesday.

The vote was 7-5 in favor of the change at the common council meeting Tuesday night. The proposal, because it is a charter ordinance, required a two-thirds, or 8-4 vote for passage.

That was the only proposal shot down Tuesday, however, in separate votes, aldermen lengthened the assessor's term of office from two to four years and upped his salary from $9,300 to $9,900. They also approved unanimously an ordinance designed to rid the city of junked and abandoned autos.

The vote on primaries was the second time a minority of aldermen have defeated the proposal submitted by Mayor James Adams. Adams, and most of the aldermen, felt the ordinance would end situations like that on April 6, when seven candidates ran for Third Ward alderman and the winner got far less than a majority of the votes cast.

That winner, Third Ward Ald. Joseph VanLieshout, cast his vote along with the unsuccessful majority Tuesday. Others voting for the change were Alds. Charles Heinz, Walter Remmel, Summer Parker, Ernest Koer-

Branches Cause Power Outage

Tree branches blown by a gust of wind onto power lines on Reeve Street late this morning caused a 10-minute power outage that affected about 200 homes and businesses on Appleton's west side.

A Wisconsin Michigan Power Co. spokesman said the felled branches tripped a circuit breaker at a substation at about 11:50 a.m., but that power was restored within 10 minutes.

The area affected was bounded by Winnebago and Spencer streets and Badger and Linwood avenues.

Sixth Ward Alds. Robert Winarski and Hugh (Bud) Geibel teamed up with Alds. Erwin Rookes, Raymond Zielinski and Richard Heindl to defeat the proposal.

Rookes, like he did before the proposal was defeated last November, said it would be "extremely costly, both for the candidate and the taxpayer."

City Clerk Hubert Nelson said the average aldermanic candidate spends about $50 to get elected, and may go as high as $80 to win.

"I don't call that overly expensive for getting elected to public office," Batley said.

Summer Driver Course Slated In Kaukauna

KAUKAUNA — High school students in the Kaukauna School District planning to take the summer driver education course must file signed parental consent slips with the driver education supervisor, William F. Mitelstaedt, by Friday.

The course is open to any student who will be 16 by Oct. 31, 1971. The classroom phase of the program will begin at 6:30 p.m. June 8 at which time a fee of $5 must be paid. Students will attend classroom sessions from 6:30 to 9 p.m. on Tuesdays and Wednesdays to complete the 30 hours of instruction required by state law.

Absence from any classroom instruction disqualifies a student from the driving phase of the program which includes six hours of behind-the-wheel training and six hours of observation. Driver phase of the program will be scheduled on an individual basis.

June 1 Is Target For Advertising Jail Building Bids

Advertising for bids on the new Outagamie County jail building is expected to be done on June 1.

Eugene Boldt, of Sauter, Seaborn, Paynter and Duszak Architects, told the county boards' special building committee that their latest cost estimates on the project remain unchanged from the original $2.2 million figure.

Ben Seaborn said there have been numerous inquiries from contractors and active bidding is expected.

After reviewing the security monitoring system proposed for the building, the committee decided it wanted to consult with Sheriff Calvin Spice on how elaborate of system was needed.

As a proposed add-on alternate in bidding, the system calls for eight stationary television cameras to monitor the doors coming into the building, the security area and the elevator.

Central Control
The radio dispatcher, located in the second floor security area, would control the television scanning, either looking in on one camera or rotating between cameras.

Locks on all doors on the second and third floors will be controlled from the control center and, after 5 p.m. doors in the basement and first floor also would be controlled from that point. Any time a door would be opened with a key a signal would register in the control center.

A combination speaker-listening system also is incorporated in the plan. The fire alarm system also would run through the control center so the operator would know which alarm in the building has been tripped.

A constant-running tape recorder also is proposed which would record all incoming and outgoing telephone calls from the control center, plus all radio transmissions between the center and the squad cars. The tape recorder would automatically record the time of each telephone call or radio transmission.

Committee members also learned that the present tape machine, which is supposed to record incoming telephone calls, hasn't worked for a considerable period of time.

Ed Slezewski, electrical consultant on the project, estimated the cost of the television camera installation at about $10,000. He said both that system and the special tape recorder system were being put in the specifications as alternates.

County Executive Alvin Woehler questioned whether the proposed systems would actually eliminate the need for hiring additional men. "When you go to this sophisticated equipment and it doesn't work you decide its too costly to maintain and end up hiring the extra men anyway."

Slezewski said the systems were not as complicated as they sounded. The present radio system is actually as complicated as this, he said. "We feel this is a good, conservative system."

Defeats Grade School Bonding

the school building, we must re-evaluate the situation and come up with the best possible alternatives to continue to provide a good education for the kids," said Miss Koehn.

It was noted that the present elementary classrooms are exceptionally small compared to state standards, yet many house up to 40 students when the state recommends a maximum of 25. The elementary school has 13 classrooms and continued overcrowding could result in action against the district by the state, particularly in financial aids, board members said.

Board members agreed that a serious problem existed, but since they were elected by the people, they would continue to attempt to find a solution acceptable to the majority even though below the ideals for providing a good education.

Frank Charlesworth, Outagamie County coordinator of public services, said a county with 100,000 population may reduce per person costs because of increased efficiency.

"You're still going to have to buy that landfill site," said Kurt Koletzke, second district supervisor in Outagamie County.

Kenneth Heinz, Town of Neenah chairman, objected to high prices necessary to secure approved landfill sites and challenged the DNR representatives to choose several alternate sites for landfills to ease prices.

"Land isn't cheap around here," said Koletzke.

Kunes countered by saying that landfill will be required whether or not central collection systems are used.

"Consider the advantages of cooperating with your neighbor," he said.

northern counties which are members of Northeastern except that they had nothing in common with this area except the watershed. "Oshkosh is closer to Chicago than it is to the northern end of Northeastern," he said.

Franchett said the biggest fear of COG members is that they could lose their eligibility for federal Housing and Urban Development funds if the agency is dissolved or merged with Northeastern. COG is now certified for HUD funds and Northeastern is not, Franchett said.

Hervey said the fear that Northeastern would ignore the urban areas was unfounded. He noted that Northeastern is involved in two councils of government (Waupaca and Shawano) and does all of the planning for both.

"Northeastern is doing urban planning as well as environmental planning," Hervey said. He indicated that there was sufficient planning work to keep the staffs of both agencies busy. He also said that Northeastern had no objections to elected officials sitting on the policy board.

Wisconsin Regional Planning Commission was sustained and strengthened. Mayor Anderson should now accept that verdict. To do otherwise is to sidestep and bypass the democratic system."

In a separate action, the Kaukauna City Council endorsed a move by Anderson to request that Kaukauna not be assessed in the future for its share of county membership costs in Northeastern.

In a letter to County Executive Alvin Woehler, Anderson said that since Kaukauna does not benefit from Northeastern it should not have to contribute to the support of the agency.

Retired Shawano County Judge May Assist in Outagamie Courts

MADISON — Retired Shawano County Judge Charles Dillett will be assigned to assist in the disposition of juvenile cases in Outagamie County under a recommendation that is expected to be acted upon today by Chief Justice E. Harold Hallows of the State Supreme Court.

State Court Administrator Edwin Wilkie told The Post-Crescent today that he made the recommendation after talking with Outagamie County judges Monday.

If Hallows approves the proposal, Dillett, who has done some reserve judge work in the county, will start working with Judge Raymond P. Dohr Monday. The temporary assignment would run through June.

Wilkie said Dillett will work primarily on juvenile matters in Dohr's court, but also would be expected to help out with other cases, mostly of a civil nature, if the need arises.

The Post-Crescent this month carried an article in which it was revealed that there was a delay of several months in getting some juvenile matters into Dohr's court. In some of those cases, the youngsters had been accused of serious offenses.

Wilkie said he found there were some juvenile cases that should be attended to now rather than a couple of months from now. He said there did not appear to be any serious problems in the manner in which small claims and more significant civil cases were being handled in Dohr's court.

"He's probably going to be in good shape by the commencement of his fall term," Wilkie said of Dohr's court calendar.

Wilkie's attention was called to delays in Dohr's court through a letter from Circuit Court appointed for another six months to assist Judge Nick F. Schaefer in criminal court. Kel-med in part by the temporary appointment of Reserve Judge Gustave J. Keller, who has been assisting with criminal court cases for several months.

"It's a good thing we were advised of this when we were," Wilkie said. But he added it might have been better if notice had been given "a month or so ago."

Wilkie said Dillett and Dohr will have to work through the clerk of courts office in getting adequate clerical and reporting facilities and personnel for Dillett.

As reserve judge, Dillett will be paid $50 per diem and necessary and reasonable expenses.

Wilkie also said today he has recommended to Hallows that Keller, formerly an Outagamie County criminal court judge, be appointed for another six months to assist Judge Nick F. Schaefer in criminal court. Keller's present temporary appointment expires in July.

other environmental aspects.

The warden said if the request for a hearing is held, he will testify. "I'm still going to object as far as filling it in," he said, adding he has "no objection to improving it."

"In this day and age we are preaching ecology constantly, and we give up on these things very reluctantly," he said of DNR attitudes.

The warden blamed filling done years ago along property of Consolidated Papers, Inc., for creating a backwater in the bay. "You don't kill a bay because of poor practices upstream," said Morey.

Health Hazard

Gertsch said the commission must "do something," and he spoke of possible health hazards now that the bay is public land and open to youngsters. Gertsch also said the boating facilities are "a request that a lot of boaters make."

Morey said a group of both health hazard will be any greater now than before, and added that as the local boating law enforcement officer he is unable to see the need for a facility there.

Asked whether his testimony at a hearing would be decisive, he said the decision would be up to the hearing examiner.

After Morey had left the meeting, Rindt told the commission that "a wildlife area is not compatible with the public." He and Gertsch cited incidents this year and a few years ago when ducks nesting in the Lutz Park area were molested by youngsters and either killed or driven away.

He said he visited the Telulah bay recently with a group of adults and they pelted turtles sunning on a log with stones. "And these are adults," said Rindt.

Morey also had said the bay is a spawning area for fish. "Fish can spawn anywhere along the river bank," Rindt said.

One commissioner, former chairman Arthur Jones, opposed developing a boating facility at the site. He ridiculed the plan, originally proposed by a firm of planners to be located across the river at Bellaire Park. It is now suggested for Telulah, according to Gertsch, because the Bellaire side of the river has been found too shallow.

"To spend a lot of money on a boat ramp to me is nuts," declared Jones.

Gertsch said following Morey's cleanup plan would cost money, while filling the bay would be free. No cost estimate for the boating facility was available, however.

Ald. Orville Strutz (17th) said, "The best thing that can happen to that bay is to be filled in." He moved for taking "the necessary steps we have to take to get it filled in." The motion passed without an opposing vote.

The chorus and Triple Trio, under the direction of Richard Nelson, will perform. Members of the 1971 graduating class are:

has consistently held this strong position. Regardless of the fact that a legal system would endorse certain forms of behavior, it does not follow that the legalized action is morally correct. It must be remembered and carefully noted that an action can be legal and immoral at the same time. The wanton disregard of life, so obvious in the current policy of abortion on demand, could pave the way for other convenient and perhaps more subtle forms of terminating life.

Effect on Another

"The Christian ethic of loving our neighbor challenges all of us to consider not only an action itself, no matter how 'right' one thinks it is, but also the effect that such an action may have on another. If the effect of an action directly attacks a basic human right, such as life, no amount of thinking that it is 'right' can morally justify that action, even if the law permits it. If abortion on demand has as its effect the direct violation of the right to life, and we maintain that it has, this must be considered an act of violence against the defenseless freedom and life of the child and an act of violence toward the community. Regardless of legal sanction, regardless of popular opinion or attitudes, regardless of the frequency of such acts, in an abortion an individual human being, the fetus, is forced to succumb to the will of another.

LU Names New Librarian From Indiana

Dennis N. Ribbens, an assistant professor with the Graduate Library School at Indiana University, has been appointed associate professor and librarian at Lawrence University.

Ribbens' appointment was approved Tuesday at a meeting of the university's Board of Trustees and was announced by Pres. Thomas S. Smith. The appointment becomes effective in July.

Ribbens also is library development coordinator for the Indiana State Library. He holds a bachelor of arts degree in humanities from Calvin College, Grand Rapids, Mich., and master of arts degrees from the University of Wisconsin in both English and library science. He received his Ph.D. degree in library science from the University of Wisconsin in 1969.

Ribbens was director of the Waupun Public Library from 1964-67, while completing the initial phases of his library education and teaching library science courses for the Extension Division of the University of Wisconsin. While Waupun Library director, he introduced new library services to the community and planned and carried out the building of a $250,000 facility.

Ribbens is a past member of the Wisconsin Library Association and an active member of the Library Development and Legislation Committee, whose work made possible the library legislation soon to be taken up by the Wisconsin Legislature.

He is a member of the American Library Association and is chairman of the association's Publication Advisory Committee of the Adult Services Division. He is acting director of the Adult Services Division Newsletter and coresearcher on a project to measure the relationship between library education and early job experience.

First English Lutheran Church to Dedicate New Fellowship Hall

Members of the First English Lutheran Church will hold a dedication dinner at 6 p.m. today in the newly remodeled Fellowship Hall.

The congregation also will be observing the 57th anniversary of its organization, the 39th anniversary of the building of the present church and the 12th anniversary of the construction of the educational building.

Lester Muenster is chairman of the Project Forward Committee which was in charge of the remodeling work. Dedication Committee co-chairmen are William Boettge, Robert Hurlbutt and Pastors Leonard Zeimer, Martin S. Bredow and Douglas MacGinn.

Water Rescue Study Eyed

Appleton officials may conduct a study of the city's water rescue service, under a proposal endorsed Monday by the public safety committee and sent to the City Council.

The action stems from a series of difficulties encountered recently when policemen rescued a girl who had jumped into the Fox River from the College Avenue bridge.

Admitting that there had been problems in carrying out the rescue, Police Chief Earl

O. Wolff told the committee that the city's boat "was never intended to be a rescue boat."

Dragging Operations

He contended that instead it was bought several years ago for use in dragging operations after drownings, and for a short period was used to patrol the river against speeding.

Wolff suggested turning the boat and other equipment over to the fire department. Fire Chief Roland Kuehni interrupted committeemen as they were about to vote on the proposal, however, suggesting a study instead.

The committee assigned the two chiefs and Traffic Engineer Walter Johnson to make the study. Kuehni also suggested other committee members who might contribute.

The chiefs agreed that one problem in providing a river rescue service is the shortage of launch sites, which is complicated by the segmentation of the river by dams and locks.

Police & Fire Beat

Two years' probation was directed Tuesday for Byres Babbitt, 48, Milwaukee, on a worthless check charge. He pleaded guilty last week.

Babbitt wrote a bogus $1,345 check to H. J. Jennerjohn, route 1, Appleton, at an auction April 17. The check was drawn on the West Bend Marine Bank in that city. Babbitt had been held in the Outagamie County jail pending sentencing.

County Judge Nick F. Schaefer, who directed the probation, withheld a prison term. Babbitt, however, must make restitution to Jennerjohn and pay court costs.

A second man was charged Tuesday with the Friday burglary of Garson's tavern in the Town of Oneida.

James Skenadore, 22, route

1, Oneida, requested a preliminary hearing on the felony charge. Outagamie County Judge Nick F. Schaefer set the hearing for this afternoon for Skenadore and Allen Metoxen. Babbitt wrote a bogus $1,345 check to H. J. Jennerjohn, route 1, Appleton, at an auction April 17. The check was drawn on the West Bend Marine Bank in that city. Babbitt had been held in the Outagamie County jail pending sentencing.

The Appleton fire department late Tuesday night went to the Shop-Ko store in the Northland Avenue Shopping Center on an apparent false alarm.

John W. Geenen, 604 E. Third St., Kimberly, reported the burglary of a vacant home in Appleton where he used to live to police Tuesday. In the past several months, he said, drapes valued at $500, had been removed from three rooms in the unoccupied home. Police found no sign of forced entry.

KAUKAUNA — Vandals caused an undetermined amount of damage at Victor Haen Elementary School between 9 a.m. and 4 p.m. Sunday by pouring paint on new carpeting in various rooms and using a steel reinforcing rod to tear carpeting in others.

The school, scheduled to open in fall, was checked by a custodian at 9 a.m. and nothing was amiss, but at 4 p.m. when Supt. of Schools Julian Bichler visited the building, the vandalism was noted. No sign of forced entry was found.

KAUKAUNA — Firemen were called to transport Mrs. Art Lemke, 108 E. Tobacco St., to Kaukauna Community Hospital in the city ambulance about 11:10 a.m. Monday after she fell and broke her hip at Main Street store.

Stockbroker Sentenced in Fraud Cases

De Pere Man Gets 2 Years at Waupun, Duped Appleton Pair

Outagamie County Judge Nick F. Schaefer Tuesday sentenced a former De Pere stockbroker to two years in the State Prison at Waupun on five counts of theft by fraud because of the "amount of money involved, the period of time and the people hurt."

John Van Dree, 37, previously pleaded guilty to the felony charges. A presentence investigation had been ordered after Van Dree was found guilty. He had been free on a $1,500 signature bond.

One charge was brought in Outagamie County on the complaint of an Appleton couple. Four other counts, lodged under a section of the American Securities Law, were consolidated here from Brown County.

Van Dree took and used for himself $2,000 of $2,500 he received from the Appleton couple, Mr. and Mrs. Tony Diedrich, 1212 E. Woodland Ave., on the pretense that he would invest it for them. Detectives said the money was given to Van Dree in three installments for mutual funds between Dec. 19, 1969 and March 11, 1970.

No Mutual Funds

The couple brought the matter to the attention of authorities when Van Dree failed to produce the mutual funds or return the money.

Four Brown County residents charged that Van Dree defrauded them using similar methods. Two of the offenses occurred in the Town of Holland in March, September and October of 1969. The other two incidents took place in Wrightstown in January of 1970.

The court learned Tuesday that Van Dree garnered $7,000 from the five families involved over the year period.

Van Dree faced a maximum of 13 years in prison. The Outagamie County court carried a maximum penalty of five years, a fine of $5,000 or both. The four other counts carried maximums of two years each, and a fine or both. Schaefer imposed a two-year prison term on each of the five counts, but ordered them to run concurrently.

Sentencing for Van Dree was delayed three times pending the completion of the presentence investigation. He was to have been sentenced in late April.

Students Prepare for Spring Graduation

Students from throughout the Fox Valley will graduate from colleges, universities and other schools in spring commencement exercises.

Charles F. Bohl, Appleton, recently was recognized by the International College of Dentists for showing the greatest development and growth during his four years at Marquette University's School of Dentistry of anyone in his graduating class. He received a plaque.

Master's degrees will be conferred on 18 area students at commencement exercises May 23 at Oshkosh State University.

The degrees and graduate students are:

- MA in library science — Mary M. Bayoregon, Appleton; Yung O. Hong, Neenah; and Roland Jahns Jr., Hilbert.
- MS in biology — Vincent Galassie, Menasha.
- MS in education-reading — Merton Fulwiler, Appleton, and Edwin Schaefer, Kaukauna.
- MS in education-guidance — Martha Bolick, route 1, Neenah; Helen L. Brown, Combined Locks; and Pierce Giffey, Appleton.
- MS in teaching-chemistry — Larry Lemmert, Jeannette Fitzgerald, Edward Hins, and Evelyn O'Neill, all of Neenah; Rox Wentzel, Kaukauna; and Barbara Kirby and Robert Lindner, both of Menasha.
- MS in teaching-history — William Heckner, Menasha, and Paul Vanevenhoven, Kimberly.

Cheryl Wilke, Appleton, a mathematics major, will receive a BS degree May 30 at Bucknell University in Lewisburg, Pa.

On May 23, River Falls State University will confer bachelor's degrees on Kenneth Brown, Appleton, agricultural business; Lynn Szulczewski, route 1, Bear Creek, broad area agriculture; Judith Lerum, route 1, elementary education-music, and Carl Schaumburg, route 3, agricultural business, both Seymour; and Loren Grosskopf, Neenah, accounting.

Dianne Borden, Neenah, will graduate summa cum laude and Evelyn Myers, Appleton, will graduate magna cum laude from Edgewood College, Madison, on May 29.

Miss Borden received the college's top honor, the college key, for sustaining the highest grade point average for the past seven semesters.

Rudolph Kundert and Thomas Schouten, both Appleton, received bachelor's degrees in arts and business administration, respectively, Sunday at the College of Santa Fe, Santa Fe, N.M.

Kundert majored in social welfare, Schouten in general business.

Roger Klein, route 1, Neenah, Gary Kuehn, Appleton; and Debra Caskey, Clintonville, received BA degrees Sunday in commencement exercises at Carthage College, Kenosha.

Mrs. Mary Ann Wavernek, the former Mary Ann Roegner of Appleton, will graduate June 3 from Columbia Hospital School of Nursing in Milwaukee.

Sakdikul Inthuputi, Appleton, and Terry Vindhurst, Menasha, have earned certificates of achievement from Herzing Institutes, Appleton.

VTE-12 Gets Federal Grant For Minorities

$30,000 Would Help Educate Indians, Mexican Americans

NEENAH — The Vocational, Technical and Adult Education District 12 (VTE-12) has received a $30,000 federal grant to provide training for minority groups in the district.

The program of basic adult education, occupational training and guidance is geared to Mexican-Americans and Indians in the Wautoma, Shiocton-Bear Creek, Appleton and Oneida areas, board members learned Monday at the monthly meeting at the district office here.

Because no formal notification had been received from the Outagamie county board on a first-purchase option for county land for the new vocational school, the district board took no action on the issue.

Approval of first-refusal options for the district recently was recommended by the county board's public property and parks committee.

The options, if approved by the county board June 8, would give the district a three-year first-refusal option on 40 acres of land on the east side of Bluemond Drive and a one-half-acre first-refusal option on 103 acres on the west side of U S 41.

The state board of Vocational, Technical and Adult Education has approved new courses for VTE-12. They include occupational therapy assistant, ward clerk, operating room assistant and a production agriculture program.

An associate degree program in interior design has received preliminary approval but needs coordinating council final approval.

The board accepted for payment bills totaling $387,442 for construction at the new Fox Valley Technical Institute (FVTI).

Various bids for the new FVTI were awarded at the meeting. They include: School Equipment Consultants, Milwaukee, $36,000 for library furniture; Buckstaff Co., Oshkosh, $7,000 for lounge and library equipment; Valley School Suppliers, Inc., Appleton, $5,464 for cafeteria equipment; and Valley Recharging Service, Appleton, $1,852 for fire extinguishers.

In other action, the board authorized employment of a maintenance engineer for the new FVTI and authorized a change order for Hutter Construction Co. to install carpeting in the student services area for an additional $1,934.

Break-in Loss Is Over $9,000

An inventory of missing photography equipment, listing items worth a total of $9,198, has been filed with the Appleton, Wis., Police Department by the owner of Ideal Photo Inc., 222 E. College Ave., which was broken into last week.

Police said that they still have no solid leads in the burglary.

The stolen items, according to the inventory, included 31 cameras, 20 lenses, 2 pair of binoculars and a light meter.

Telephoto and zoom lenses were among the 20 reported stolen.

John Tarr, 222 N. Outagamie St., speeding Sept. 20, 1965, dismissed on payment of costs.

Thomas G. Fassbender, 313 Forest St., Neenah, illegal turn Feb. 25, 1967, fined $25 and costs.

Ralph Gertsch, 1633 N. Mason St., speeding Sept. 7, 1969, fined $25 and costs.

Mrs. Ralph Gertsch, same Appleton address, traffic signal violation Feb. 1, 1969, dismissed by Dilleit after a trial.

7 Old Traffic Cases Disposed of by Judge

Seven more traffic and misdemeanor cases that were pending in Outagamie County courts for one year or more have been cleared up.

The cases were among 28 removed from the court of Outagamie County Judge Raymond P. Dohr and assigned to Reserve Judge Charles Dilleit of Shawano. The state court administrator's office ordered the reassignment because of a reported case overload in Dohr's court.

Most of the reassigned cases involved arrests made by Appleton police.

Dismissals were granted for 15 of the defendants. Fines have been paid by three motorists and two cases are still pending.

Dilleit disposed of most of the cases at pre-trial conferences last month. More recent court proceedings involving others of the 20 defendants resulted in the following action:

John Tarr, 222 N. Outagamie St., speeding Sept. 20, 1965, dismissed on payment of costs.

Thomas G. Fassbender, 313 Forest St., Neenah, illegal turn Feb. 25, 1967, fined $25 and costs.

Ralph Gertsch, 1633 N. Mason St., speeding Sept. 7, 1969, fined $25 and costs.

Mrs. Ralph Gertsch, same Appleton address, traffic signal violation Feb. 1, 1969, dismissed by Dilleit after a trial.

Assembly Passes Joint Tenancy Transfer Bill

MADISON, Wis. (AP) — The Wisconsin Assembly has passed a bill proclaimed as a probate reform measure designed to obviate the necessity of an attorney's services in termination of joint tenancies.

The lower house passed the measure 87-10 despite warnings that it would really accomplish little real probate reform.

The bill, which now goes to the Senate, allows one spouse's interest in a home, checking account, savings account or

U.S. savings bond to be transferred to the survivor upon his or her death through the filing of documents with the county register of deeds, and without the necessity of hiring an attorney and going through probate court.

It would "in effect use public funds for private purposes, and create an unfair distinction" between estates, charged Rep. Norman Anderson, D-Madison.

Its author, Rep. William A. Johnson, D-Milwaukee, called the bill "a step in the right direction."

- MS in education-guidance — Martha Bolick, route 1, Neenah; Helen L. Brown, Combined Locks; and Pierce Giffey, Appleton.
- MS in teaching-chemistry — Larry Lemmert, Jeannette Fitzgerald, Edward Hins, and Evelyn O'Neill, all of Neenah; Rox Wentzel, Kaukauna; and Barbara Kirby and Robert Lindner, both of Menasha.
- MS in teaching-history — William Heckner, Menasha, and Paul Vanevenhoven, Kimberly.

Cheryl Wilke, Appleton, a mathematics major, will receive a BS degree May 30 at Bucknell University in Lewisburg, Pa.

On May 23, River Falls State University will confer bachelor's degrees on Kenneth Brown, Appleton, agricultural business; Lynn Szulczewski, route 1, Bear Creek, broad area agriculture; Judith Lerum, route 1, elementary education-music, and Carl Schaumburg, route 3, agricultural business, both Seymour; and Loren Grosskopf, Neenah, accounting.

Dianne Borden, Neenah, will graduate summa cum laude and Evelyn Myers, Appleton, will graduate magna cum laude from Edgewood College, Madison, on May 29.

Miss Borden received the college's top honor, the college key, for sustaining the highest grade point average for the past seven semesters.

Rudolph Kundert and Thomas Schouten, both Appleton, received bachelor's degrees in arts and business administration, respectively, Sunday at the College of Santa Fe, Santa Fe, N.M.

Kundert majored in social welfare, Schouten in general business.

Roger Klein, route 1, Neenah, Gary Kuehn, Appleton; and Debra Caskey, Clintonville, received BA degrees Sunday in commencement exercises at Carthage College, Kenosha.

Mrs. Mary Ann Wavernek, the former Mary Ann Roegner of Appleton, will graduate June 3 from Columbia Hospital School of Nursing in Milwaukee.

$30,000 Would Help Educate Indians, Mexican Americans

NEENAH — The Vocational, Technical and Adult Education District 12 (VTE-12) has received a $30,000 federal grant to provide training for minority groups in the district.

The program of basic adult education, occupational training and guidance is geared to Mexican-Americans and Indians in the Wautoma, Shiocton-Bear Creek, Appleton and Oneida areas, board members learned Monday at the monthly meeting at the district office here.

Because no formal notification had been received from the Outagamie county board on a first-purchase option for county land for the new vocational school, the district board took no action on the issue.

Approval of first-refusal options for the district recently was recommended by the county board's public property and parks committee.

The options, if approved by the county board June 8, would give the district a three-year first-refusal option on 40 acres of land on the east side of Bluemond Drive and a one-half-acre first-refusal option on 103 acres on the west side of U S 41.

The state board of Vocational, Technical and Adult Education has approved new courses for VTE-12. They include occupational therapy assistant, ward clerk, operating room assistant and a production agriculture program.

An associate degree program in interior design has received preliminary approval but needs coordinating council final approval.

The board accepted for payment bills totaling $387,442 for construction at the new Fox Valley Technical Institute (FVTI).

Various bids for the new FVTI were awarded at the meeting. They include: School Equipment Consultants, Milwaukee, $36,000 for library furniture; Buckstaff Co., Oshkosh, $7,000 for lounge and library equipment; Valley School Suppliers, Inc., Appleton, $5,464 for cafeteria equipment; and Valley Recharging Service, Appleton, $1,852 for fire extinguishers.

In other action, the board authorized employment of a maintenance engineer for the new FVTI and authorized a change order for Hutter Construction Co. to install carpeting in the student services area for an additional $1,934.

Break-in Loss Is Over $9,000

An inventory of missing photography equipment, listing items worth a total of $9,198, has been filed with the Appleton, Wis., Police Department by the owner of Ideal Photo Inc., 222 E. College Ave., which was broken into last week.

Police said that they still have no solid leads in the burglary.

The stolen items, according to the inventory, included 31 cameras, 20 lenses, 2 pair of binoculars and a light meter.

Telephoto and zoom lenses were among the 20 reported stolen.

John Tarr, 222 N. Outagamie St., speeding Sept. 20, 1965, dismissed on payment of costs.

Thomas G. Fassbender, 313 Forest St., Neenah, illegal turn Feb. 25, 1967, fined $25 and costs.

Ralph Gertsch, 1633 N. Mason St., speeding Sept. 7, 1969, fined $25 and costs.

Mrs. Ralph Gertsch, same Appleton address, traffic signal violation Feb. 1, 1969, dismissed by Dilleit after a trial.

7 Old Traffic Cases Disposed of by Judge

Seven more traffic and misdemeanor cases that were pending in Outagamie County courts for one year or more have been cleared up.

The cases were among 28 removed from the court of Outagamie County Judge Raymond P. Dohr and assigned to Reserve Judge Charles Dilleit of Shawano. The state court administrator's office ordered the reassignment because of a reported case overload in Dohr's court.

Most of the reassigned cases involved arrests made by Appleton police.

Dismissals were granted for 15 of the defendants. Fines have been paid by three motorists and two cases are still pending.

Dilleit disposed of most of the cases at pre-trial conferences last month. More recent court proceedings involving others of the 20 defendants resulted in the following action:

John Tarr, 222 N. Outagamie St., speeding Sept. 20, 1965, dismissed on payment of costs.

Assembly Passes Joint Tenancy Transfer Bill

MADISON, Wis. (AP) — The Wisconsin Assembly has passed a bill proclaimed as a probate reform measure designed to obviate the necessity of an attorney's services in termination of joint tenancies.

The lower house passed the measure 87-10 despite warnings that it would really accomplish little real probate reform.

The bill, which now goes to the Senate, allows one spouse's interest in a home, checking account, savings account or

U.S. savings bond to be transferred to the survivor upon his or her death through the filing of documents with the county register of deeds, and without the necessity of hiring an attorney and going through probate court.

It would "in effect use public funds for private purposes, and create an unfair distinction" between estates, charged Rep. Norman Anderson, D-Madison.

Its author, Rep. William A. Johnson, D-Milwaukee, called the bill "a step in the right direction."

Dean's Vim is the one for everyone. It has milk's good rich flavor... but more minerals and protein for youngsters... fewer calories for grown-ups. Costs less, besides.

Bill Blass Collection—A Blaze of Classics

By ANN HENCKEN
AP Fashion Writer

NEW YORK (AP) — Designer Bill Blass turned out a classic collection, ablaze with blazers. But in some circles, the classics haven't hit yet.

London designer Thea Porter's opening of her New York branch brought a gathering that looked like something from Delacroix's "Death of Sardanapalus," with plenty of exotic-looking women and lush fabrics.

Blass liked suits this year and showed them tailored to perfection. Some had a back-to-school look in plaids with white blouses and pussy cat bows. He did the same idea with a long skirt.

Then he switched to the soft tweedy, elegance of slim coats and matching dresses.

For evening, he showed everything from a "stick little black wool and satin job," long and cut out in back, to a "long slink—the 30s—" in light shimmer material.

Blass said his couture collection was made of the "finest fabrics I could find the world over," subdued tweeds and patterned wools, challis, chiffons and suedes.

burst of fox tails for a cape to midcalf fur capes, long at the sides, like swept wing airplanes.

His new Blassport sportswear line is severely tailored and all business—like blue and brown plaid pants and jacket with suede vest and cape.

At the other end of the spectrum was Thea Porter's fall offering at her new boutique. She opened it with partner Michael Butler, producer of "Hair."

Butler describes Thea's designs as "the ultimate in female dramatics, Scheherazade up in lights." Her dresses in pale, patterned chiffon run about $300. Most are floor length, sometimes trimmed in velvet.

"One must reflect one's time," as Klee said. Hot pants are fine, but you have to get into something flattering too," said Miss Porter, wearing a long, flattering, black and silver dress. Her customers include actress Elizabeth Taylor Burton and Mrs. David Bruce.

She greeted guests who arrived in a startling array of get-ups. There was "Baby Jane" Holzer in a white and silver dress trailing a short train.

In one corner, talking quietly, was pop-artist and film maker Andy Warhol, wearing a striped sweater, plaid shirt and brown coat and pants.

Several women were draped with fringed silk shawls. And the variety of hot pants included crochets, knits and a short suede outfit, cut jagged like Tarzan's Jane would wear.

Miss Porter's clothes are sold throughout Europe and South America. At her New York store, she will carry custom-made models, already-to-wear boutique collection and a wholesale division for stores across the United States.

Have American Women 'Come a Long Way'?

National Firm Polls The 'Average' Woman

Though most women have some grievances against the men in their lives — and a few have serious gripes — they generally don't rebel. Instead, they use "underground tactics" to "handle" their men. And, according to the Virginia Slims American Women's Opinion Poll, females take great pride in their somewhat devious methods of coping with a man's world —

— Eighty-four per cent say that "women really have more power than they're given credit for because they know how to work behind the scenes," and — An equal number believe that "when a woman wants something, she generally knows how to get it."

The recently-released study, the most thorough survey of women's attitudes ever undertaken, was conducted by Louis Harris and Associates in the fall of 1970 among a representative cross-section of 3,000 American women.

Feminine Wiles

The survey probed the reasons why women resort to feminine wiles and "subtle techniques." It found that women are dependent upon men. Men look upon them, women feel, as the "weaker sex" and, because of the ensuing unequal treatment, more than two out of three (68 per cent) find that they "have to be more clever than men" to improve their lot in life. Yet almost as many (67 per cent) feel that "for a woman to be truly happy, she must have a man around."

The study maintained that women believe strongly in marriage. Although almost three-fourths (73 per cent) of American females agree that the institution of marriage is weaker now than it was 10 years ago, they still believe in it overwhelmingly.

The new study shows that: 65 per cent of American women think that premarital sexual intercourse is immoral; 77 per cent say that trial marriages — in which couples live together for a certain period of time without legally getting married — would not lead to better marriages; almost nine out of 10 (89 per cent) say that marriage is the cornerstone of American life; 85 per cent feel it should not be legal for adults to have children without getting married.

Women lack self-confidence was another polled opinion. Another reason why women "adjust to their alleged unequal role," says the study, is that most females do not believe "they can do the same things that men can." Seventy per cent of the women agree that "men get on far better with other men than women get on with other women." Close to three out of five (58 per cent) believe that "women will always be more emotional and less logical than men," while exactly half find that "men enjoy action and excitement more than women do."

Two-thirds of American women (67 per cent) agree that "there won't be a woman President of the U.S. for a long time and that's probably just as well."

Wives Top Survey

In the same vein, when given a list of 21 prominent women and asked how much they respected each, women most often chose to respect "a great deal" those not known for accomplishments in their own right, but rather women who rose to prominence as the wives of famous men. First choice was Mrs. Dwight Eisenhower, named by 65 per cent, while most female authors, performers, scholars and political figures fell to the middle or bottom of the list.

No Bed of Roses

Although life with men generally is no "bed of roses," most American women say they are satisfied with their sex lives.

According to the recently-released opinion poll, nearly four out of five women (79 per cent) say they feel "sexually fulfilled," and fully four out of five claim to be bothered "hardly at all" or "never" by sexual problems. Yet, women do have complaints about the opposite sex, in such areas as: Male infidelity. A plurality, 45 per cent of American women agree that "men are more unfaithful than women," while 38 per cent disagree. Self-interested motives. To two out of five, "most men are more interested in their own, rather than a woman's sexual satisfaction." (An equal number of women find that statement inaccurate.); Pre-occupation with sex. Two-thirds feel annoyed if a man "looks upon a woman as a sex symbol." Four in 10 (41 per cent) complained that "most men look at a woman and immediately think how it would be to go to bed with her."

The study also shows that a majority of women — 62 per cent do not feel that "most men get real pleasure out of taking advantage of women." However, one out of four women (26 per cent) including more than half of the black women (52 per cent) feel that men do reap pleasure from taking advantage of women.

In spite of these grievances, only 15 per cent of U. S. women say they feel bothered by sexual problems. Those who admit to sexual difficulties cite problems ranging from a "lack of sex" (18 per cent), to poor timing or coordination (14 per cent) say they are "not ready when their husband is"), to a lack of understanding or romance on the part of men (10 per cent). Only 8 per cent say their husbands "want sex too often," resulting in sex as an obligation or duty, rather than a pleasurable experience.

Some 7 per cent of women blame their sexual problems on the fact that they are not married.

Grievances Not Aired

The study also shows that, while some women admit to having sexual problems, and many voice grievances against aspects of male sexuality, few are willing to air these views with men. Three out of four women (76 per cent) say they do not discuss personal sexual matters as freely with men as with other women. Yet only one out of three women has talked to a woman friend about her sex problems — and one out of four has discussed sexual matters with a female relative.

An equal number (26 per cent) say they have consulted a doctor about their sex problems. One-fifth have talked things over with a male family member. Just 13 per cent have talked with a male friend about sexual problems.

Of the 11 per cent of women who say they do discuss sex as freely with men as with women, only 3 per cent explain they do so because "sex should be discussed with a man... men have problems too."

Appleton Woman Named To Dance Council Board

MEQUON — Mrs. Evelyn Mischel, Appleton, was recently appointed to the board of directors in charge of promotion of the Milwaukee Modern Dance Council.

The annual meeting of the Council is scheduled for Saturday in Madison. Major interest focuses on helping local groups form dance councils.

A varied schedule for members and guests will begin with 9:30 a.m. registration and a 10 a.m. workshop taught by Duwayne Caddock, Orif specialist, whose area is of prime interest to classroom teachers, music specialists and recreational personnel who work in the dance field.

Caddock, who learned the Orif method in Germany, obtained a bachelor of science degree from Northwestern University. His interest in children and their instruction he explains as a continuing process from early childhood, from three to four years on into adulthood.

At 11:30 a.m. the Madison Dance Council Performing Group will present a program of dances which have been presented to the Madison area school children. Luncheon will be followed by election of officers.

A panel discussion on the topic "So You Want to Form a Council?" will serve as a stimulus for community dance groups. A final presentation of "Concert Pieces," choreographed by Barbara Petersmeyer will be danced by the Performing Group. All members and guests may attend the University of Wisconsin Dance Division to the Spring Concert in the Union Theater at 8 p.m. Saturday.

Reservations should be sent to Mrs. Mary Crosby, 4002 County Trunk M, Middleton, Wis. 53562.

Couple Marks 50th Wedding Anniversary

NEENAH — Mr. and Mrs. Charlie Carlson, 641 Wilson St., observed their 50th wedding anniversary at an Open House for friends and relatives Sunday at the YWCA Community Center.

The couple was married May 18, 1921, at the home of the bride's parents at Navarino. She was the former Ida Lindsten.

Mr. and Mrs. Carlson lived in Wittenburg until moving to Neenah in 1942. Mr. Carlson was employed by Menasha Woodware Corp. until his retirement in 1962.

The Carlsons have four children: Mrs. Willard Smith, Clifford and Philip, all of Neenah, and Mrs. Russell Hansen, Rothschild. They also have 11 grandchildren.

Everything's Roses for Red Beret Chorus

"Everything's Coming Up Roses" is the song and fashion show theme of the annual springtime finale to the Red Beret Girls' Chorus year. The first part of the show will feature the chorus singing selections from Gypsy and folk and patriotic songs. The second part will be a fashion show with some of the members as models and some as narrators. Director is Mrs. Clifford Vincent who is being assisted by members of the mothers' committee: Mrs. Dewain Lacey and Mrs. Earl Verkins, models; Mrs. Alfred Ebben, tickets; Mrs. Dennis Herring, narration, and Mrs. William Bayer and Mrs. Jean Pierri, refreshments. Fashions will be from Shirley's Youngtime Fashions. The event is scheduled at 2 p.m. Saturday in the West Shell at the YMCA. Tickets may be purchased at the door. Proceeds will be used for the annual camp Nan-Abo-Sho Day for the girls.

Your Problems

Two-Bit Details Turn Her Into a Shrew

BY ANN LANDERS
DEAR ANN LANDERS: May I say a word in behalf of a segment of society of whom you have neither patience nor sympathy? I refer to the Nagging Wife. I can speak authoritatively because I am one.

I did not get this way by accident. Naggers are made, not born. When I married, I was a young, naive, romantic girl. Today I am a nag. Why? Because I married a man who sincerely believes that one day he will replace the missing light bulb in the nursery.

put a screw in the basement door knob, install a dozen cup hooks in my pantry, tighten the kitchen drawer handles, bleed the upstairs radiators, etc. etc. He started a wall cabinet three years ago. It still isn't finished.

My husband works hard. He is home every night, loves his children and is good to me. But, he has turned me into a shrew simply because he is too lazy to do small things.

In closing I would like to say a word to all husbands who have this problem: Don't be ashamed to call a carpenter, a painter or a handyman. Your wife will not respect you less for it. Undone chores can make a wife irritable. It can transform her into the kind of ter, a painter or a handyman. Your wife will not respect you less for it. Undone chores can make a wife irritable. It can transform her into the kind of Landers woman she doesn't want to be. I know because I'm an — Unwilling Screamer in Monticello, NY.

Dear Screamer: Bolderdash, dearie. If you didn't enjoy screaming you'd put in the light bulb yourself, install your own cup hooks, etc. If you're so lame-brained that you cannot do these things, you can, I trust, use a telephone. So why don't you call the carpenter or the handyman? By your own admission you have a husband who is home every night, loves the children and is good to you. Yet you let a few two-bit details spoil your marriage. You make me sick, kiddo.

DEAR ANN LANDERS: That fellow who is "healthy as a horse" but falls asleep in movies, at the poker table and in the middle of conversations might have narcolepsy. His wife reported that he had undergone stomach x-rays, thyroid tests, and so on and the doctor gave him a clean bill of health. Narcolepsy would not show up in these tests. The man should be seen by a neurologist.

I hope you can get the word to them. — Memphis Neurosurgeon similar letters from dozens of other physicians (three from the Mayo Clinic) and I am grateful to all who wrote. You have reminded me once again the importance of urging people to seek a second medical opinion if they fail to get satisfaction from the first. A competent general practitioner should be able to recognize the symptoms of narcolepsy. That patient should have been referred to a neurologist.
Dear Doctor: I received

DEAR ANN LANDERS: I have a small problem that bothers me maybe more than it should. I am 24. My steady girl is 23. Lena is very lively and vivacious, which I am not. Whenever we go anywhere, like to a ball game or a movie, or even to a restaurant, Lee starts up conversations with strangers who are sitting close by — usually men.

I don't think this is right. She says, "I am an outgoing person and I mean no harm." What do you think? — Gerry

Dear Gerry: Your girl's "outgoing personality" should not be going out to people she doesn't know. I agree, Lee should knock it off — lest she be misunderstood.

Modeling a patchwork western outfit is Julie Diedrick. In a cool summer outfit is Debbie Gebheim and in country shorts is Jenny Walter. (Post-Crescent Photo)

Legion Auxiliary Tells Plans

Poppy princesses Martha Hemling and Diana Schmidt were on hand Monday at the meeting of the Appleton American Legion Auxiliary when plans were completed for Poppy Day on Friday.

During the meeting Auxiliary officers were named for the year. Mrs. Arlin Schnell will assume the presidency with Mrs. John Driessen, first vice president; Mrs. Harry Cunningham, treasurer; Mrs. George Fitz, poppy chairman; Mrs. Raymond Stickney, chaplain; Miss Mary Hamlin, historian; Miss Joyce Jahnke, sergeant at arms, and Mrs. Sherman Kapp, secretary.

It was also announced that Mrs. Roger Rusch, Mrs. Fred Gehrke, Mrs. Fitz and Mrs. Kapp will attend the department convention in Wausau July 10 through July 16, as delegates.

During their meeting auxiliary members voted donations to the Valley Forge Freedom Foundation scholarship fund for a Wisconsin teacher, 11 women's bowling balls to be given to the Tomah Veterans' Hospital, the ending of clothing to King Grand Army Home and continuing a newspaper subscription to Wood Veterans' Hospital. The junior auxiliary presented a donation to Southern Colony at Union Grove.

A memorial service for the unit's deceased members was conducted by chaplain, Mrs. Alvin Nymoen who was assisted by the Harmonettes.

Plans for Auxiliary activities include attending the 10:30 Sunday memorial service at St. Therese Church, participation in the Memorial Day parade and service May 30 and the June 12 Flag Day parade. Badger Girls' State delegates and their mothers will meet with Mrs. Schnell on May 26 for a briefing on the Madison sessions set for June 20 through June 26.

Plans presented by the junior group include a program on Panama at the June 21 auxiliary meeting. The unit also contributed to the CARE fund. The juniors' next meeting will consist of a June 13 picnic at Pierce Park.

Gossip Runs Up Food Bills

BY ERMA BOMBECK

A survey shows that I add an extra half dollar to my grocery bill every minute over 30 that I hang around the supermarket.

Since it usually takes me 55 minutes to do my weekly marketing, that means my mouth costs me on the average of $12.50 a week. Last week, I decided to change all that. When I ran into Mayva over Dog Food I said, "Hello. Goodbye. Mayva. I can't afford you this week."

"Have you seen Phyllis Krick's hair?" she asked.

"What's the matter with it?" I said throwing five cans of cat food into the basket. (We don't have a cat.)

"She looks like the Osmond Brothers."

"Which one?"

"All of them," she said. "Of course, the big news is Elsie."

"You know something, don't you?" I said. "Follow me around and talk to me while I shop." (I absentmindedly grabbed a breakfast cereal designed for older people with irregularities.)

"Only that she is having a thing with her son's orthodontist."

"You're kidding," I said, my jaw dropping. (A woman in the aisle stuck a sample piece of sausage on a toothpick into my mouth and I threw two packages into my basket.)

"And she acts like such a Miss Goody Two Shoes. She's the one who suggested you have to have a prescription to buy 'The Sensuous Woman!'"

"Still water runs deep," I said, loading my basket with dishwasher detergent. (I don't have a dishwasher.)

"Of course you heard the Trexlers are moving," she said.

I gasped again and a demonstrator pushed a paper cup of prune juice in my hand. "But why?" I asked, grabbing for a bottle.

"You haven't heard the trouble they were having with the schools? Good grief. You don't know anything. I suppose you haven't even heard about Juanita going back to work."

"Put that 48-ounce bottle of catsup in my basket," I said excitedly.

"I can't. It's a display," said Mayva. "Oh and have you talked with Cindy since her operation?"

"No," I said, tossing a ream of carbon paper into the cart along with a flea collar and a surgical mask.

"Well, I don't have time to talk right now," she said. "Call me."

When I got home and tallied up my purchases, I figured Mayva's big mouth cost me $22.33. She expensive, but she's worth it.

Kalaniot Dancers Entertain At Hadassah's Don or Event

The Kalaniot Israeli Dance Group of Milwaukee, above, entertained Saturday evening at the annual donor event for eligible members and their families at Moses Montefiore Synagogue. Performed by the group were folk dances of Israel which are as old as the Bible and as new as modern day Israel.

Their name was derived from the beautiful Kolanot which blooms in spring and provides a multi-color floral carpet over the hills and valleys of Israel. Composed of people from all nationality backgrounds, the group is much like the people of the country they represent.

After the performance, a late supper was served.

At right, Dr. and Mrs. Sumner Richman and Mr. and Mrs. Joseph Shiff relax for a moment before dinner. Mrs. Richman has been elected president of Hadassah and Mrs. Shiff served as general chairman of the donor affair.

Working with her were Mrs. Hal Abramson and Mrs. Dennis Bahcall, invitations; Mrs. I. J. Krichmar and Mrs. Joseph Bailey, reservations. Serving with Mrs. Richmond during the coming year will be Mrs. Don Garelick, vice president; Mrs. Sam Salan, Waupaca, recording secretary; Mrs. Abe Burstein, corresponding secretary, and Mrs. Dennis Bahcall, treasurer.

Students Get Honors At Appreciation Dinner

Appleton High School-East students in commercial knitting, distributive education, food services, office education and power mechanics courses and their employers were honored last week at an appreciation dinner.

Students and employers involved in the various training sessions include:

Schmalzes Wed For 60 Years

KAUKAUNA — Mr. and Mrs. Ray Schmalz, 411 W. Division St., celebrated their 60th wedding anniversary Tuesday at a dinner at Oakwood Hills Supper Club for members of the immediate family. The couple was married May 18, 1911 at Holy Cross Catholic Church.

In attendance at the observance were Mr. and Mrs. A. M. Schmalz and Mrs. Joseph Kerry, attendants at the wedding.

The couple has two children: Mrs. Harold Jacobson and Mrs. Victor Nettekoven, both of Kaukauna. There are six grandchildren and 10 great-grandchildren.

Mr. Schmalz spent his working years in the paper industry employed six years at the Union Bag Mill and 47 years at Thilmany Pulp and Paper Co. He was superintendent of converting at the time of his retirement in January, 1960.

White Weddings Still Most Popular

White remains the favorite choice for summer wedding gowns, but bridesmaid's dresses are checking out as the most colorful in many a season.

The National Cotton Council reports that old-fashioned fabrics like checked cotton gingham are suddenly the newest looks of them all. They promenade down the aisle in such colors as green, lemon yellow, blue, or pink.

Most are styled with full-blown sleeves, flounced hems, and rickrack trim. Instead of conventional headpieces, the bridesmaids wear kerchiefs or large hair-bows in the same gingham checks as their dresses.

The heavy satin dresses with trailing ten-foot trains that once typified the traditional wedding dress have been set aside as museum-pieces. More in favor with today's bride are youthful wedding dresses of filmy cot-

GAA Banquet Set Thursday

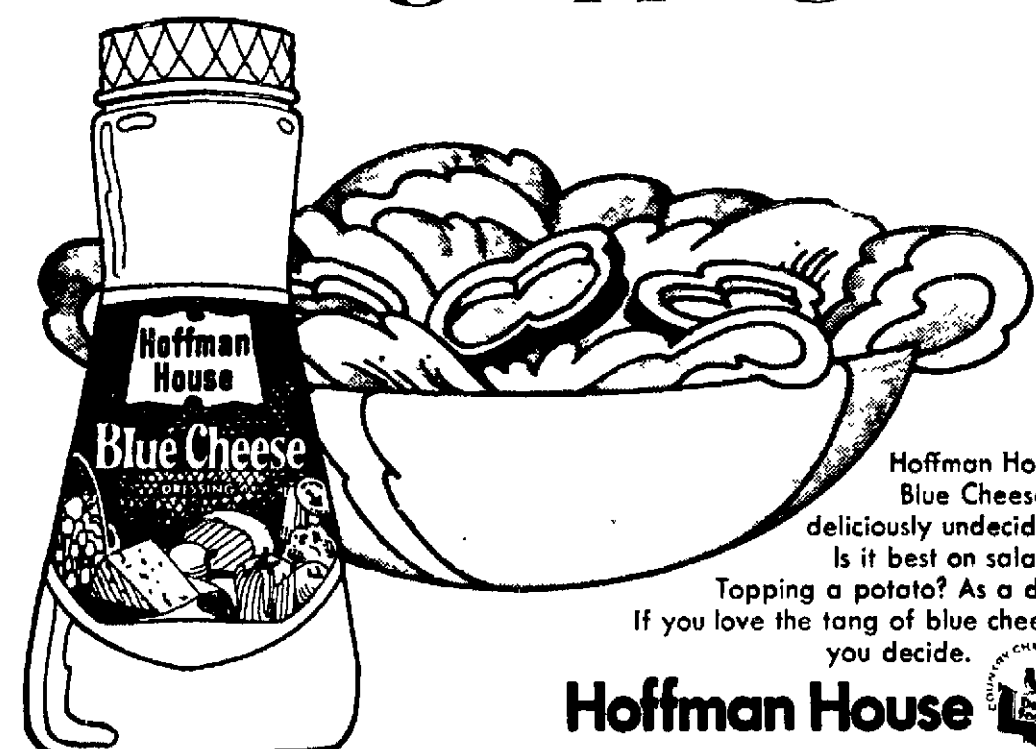

KAUKAUNA — Members of the Girls Athletic Association of Kaukauna High School and their mothers will meet at 6 p.m. Thursday in the school cafeteria for a banquet. Most valuable players for each sport will be announced, new officers introduced and names of intramural winners and camp delegates told.

Correction

AMHERST — Mr. and Mrs. Emmanuel Bartel, rural Waupaca, recently observed their 60th wedding anniversary at the home of their daughter and son-in-law, Mr. and Mrs. Donald Peters, Amherst. It was incorrectly reported as their golden wedding anniversary.

Montreal Rally Tips Hawks

Richard Goal Decisive

By JOE MOOSHIL

CHICAGO (AP) — "We've done it again, we've done it again," shouted the Montreal Canadiens Tuesday night before breaking into the song "Les Canadiens Sont La."

The song means "We're there we've won our spurs" and that's exactly what the Canadiens did with a resurging 3-2 victory over the Chicago Black Hawks to capture their 15th Stanley Cup in modern history and their third in the last four years.

It was a tremendous comeback for the team which failed to make the playoffs last year and had to defeat Boston, the winners of the Eastern Division of the National Hockey League and then Chicago, the champion of the West.

Henri Richard, the 16-year veteran who last week blasted Coach Al MacNeil as "incompetent" and "the worst coach I've ever played under" turned the tide by scoring the tying and winning goals.

Celebration

It was bedlam in the Canadiens' dressing room with Champagne, French variety speeing all over the place and the players hugging and kissing each other.

"It was the biggest goal of my life," said Richard. "I've been on nine winners before but I never felt like this."

Then to questions of his emotional outburst against MacNeil, Richard grunted and said "I should have kept my mouth shut."

footer at 14:18 of the second period and Richard tied it at 18:20 of the second period. Then Henri scored at 2:34 of the third period and the Canadiens and goalie Ken Dryden took care of the lead.

Dryden won the Conn Smythe award as the most valuable player in the playoffs.

Bad Timing

Asked if he thought MacNeil would be back next season, Henri replied "I don't know but I hope so. I should have kept my mouth shut. My timing was wrong. But it sure is a relief we won tonight."

MacNeil overcame by emotion, kept repeating "I don't know what to say. I'm not worried about next year. I'm just too happy right now."

Captain Jean Beliveau was holding the glistening Stanley Cup over his shoulder and taking swigs of Champagne from obliging teammates.

Beliveau, who reportedly had announced his retirement, re-neged and said "There's a 50 per cent chance I might retire and there's a 50 per cent chance I'll be back."

The Black Hawks, naturally, were despondent and Coach Billy Reav gave a wry smile and said "Now, Henri can say MacNeil is a great. It was a shame to lose after the series we played but our guys have nothing to be ashamed of. That's two good seasons in a row and now we've got to look forward to another."

Gains Third in Class A

Mittlestadt Crashes 938

By JIM HARP

Post-Crescent Staff Writer

"Our sponsor said we had so much fun a couple of weeks ago he decided to enter our bunch again. I'm sure glad he did."

This was the reaction of Appleton's Dick Mittlestadt after he pounded a 938 in the Bowl-O-Rama at the 41 Bowl Tuesday night to take over third place in Men's Class A.

"Boy, two weeks ago I had just over 800," Dick offered as he checked over the carbon copy of his four game total in the fourth annual tournament.

In hitting the high count, Mittlestadt jolted 886 scratch and carried only 13 pins per game handicap. This gave him a scratch average of just over 221 per game.

Had 246 Game

After opening with a 224, Mittlestadt cracked a 246 and slammed 205 in his third game for a 675 threesome. In his last line he ripped a 211. Dick had a total of 25 strikes in the four games including nine in his big 246. He also had 13 spares.

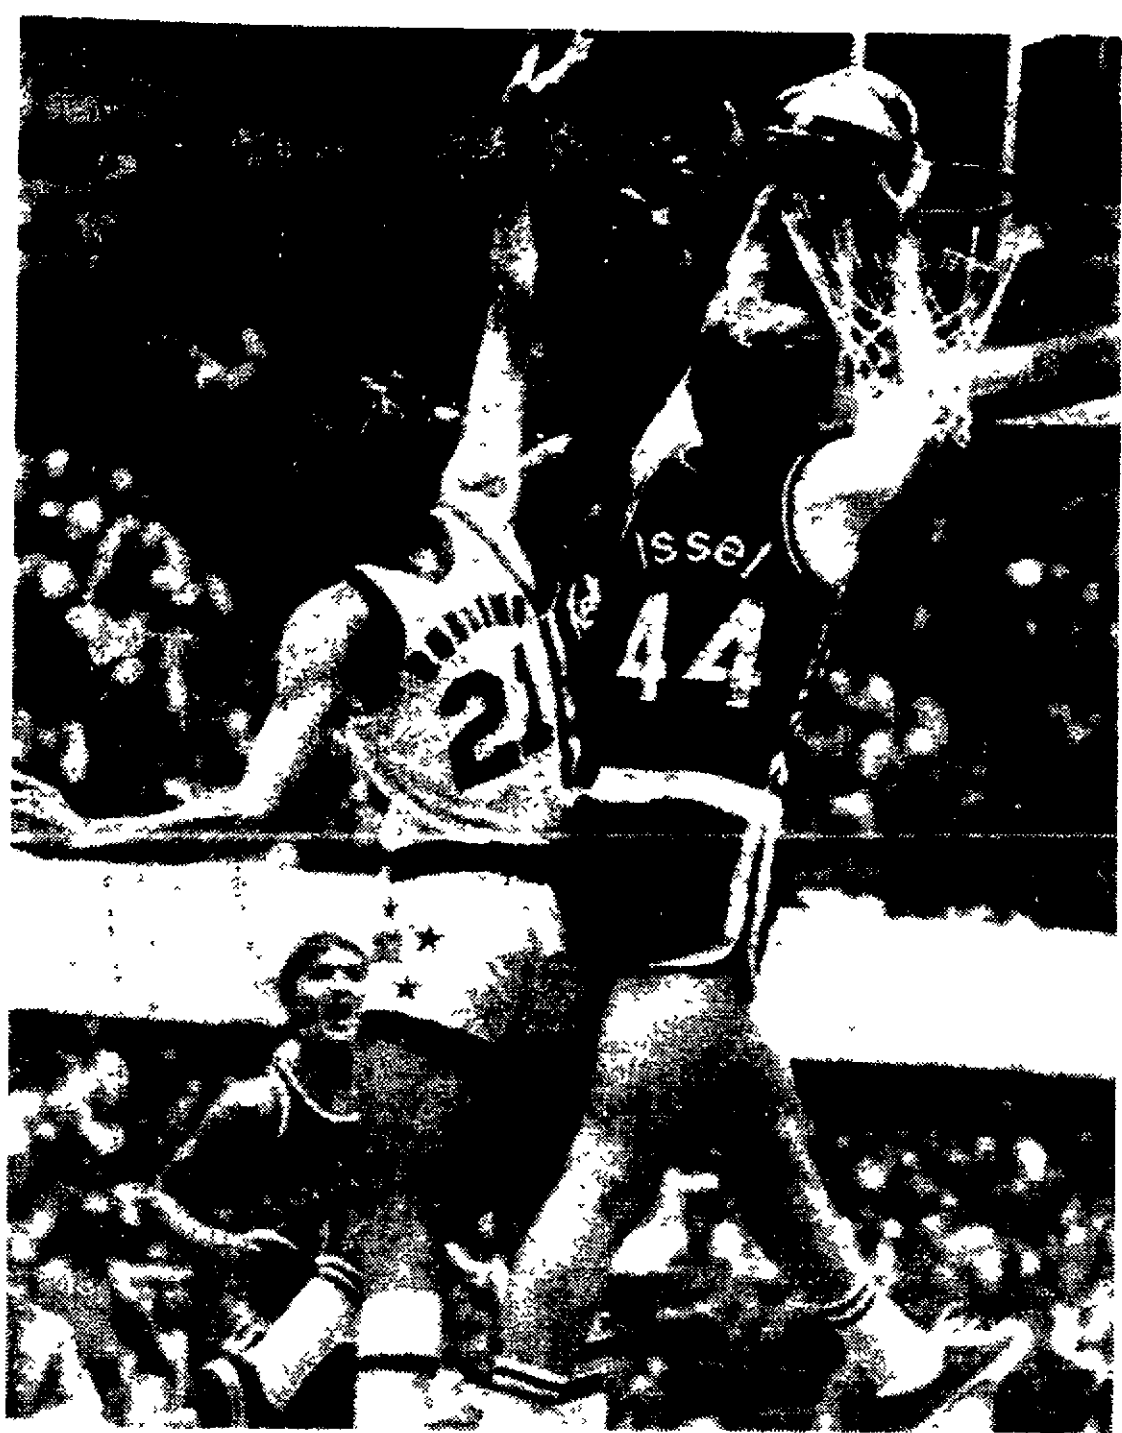

Next best performance in Class A last night was 858 turned in by Dave Voss of Menasha. Dave's scores included scratch games of 217 and 222.

In Class B for the men, Jack Gregg of Green Bay slammed a 287 to go into ninth place. After she hit 201 with 40 pins for a 148 in his first game, Gregg unloaded a 237 scratch and then followed with 190 and 176. His high game, plus handicap, and 13 pins for a 259 while high. The women's squad, Mittlestadt topped the men with 246 and 13 pins for a 259 while high. The women's squad, Mittlestadt topped the men with 246 and 13 pins for a 259 while high. For the women bowlers last night it was another Green Bay kegler who took the spotlight. Dorothy Elard fired 871 to go into third place. She had 691 scratch and 180 pins handicap. Dorothy hit 167 then 145 and climbed to 195 and 184 in her last two games. She had 11 strikes and 19 spares in the four games.

There were no changes in the top standings for women's Class A. Best score Tuesday night was 786 rolled by Beverly Wilfuer, Appleton.

Dorothy School Appleton took the women's squad prize on the first shift last night when she hit 201 with 40 pins for a 148 in his first game, Gregg unloaded a 237 scratch and then followed with 190 and 176. Championships were decided in the American Basketball Association and National Hockey League Tuesday night, and the action in both final playoff games was fast and furious. At the top, Kentucky's Dan Issel beats Utah's Red

ABA Title to Stars After 131-121 Win

By JIM CHURCH

SALT LAKE CITY (AP) — Utah Stars' coach Bill Sharman, wading through a jubilant crowd and shaking hands like a presidential candidate, laughed and said, "I think we've found a home."

The Stars, transplanted to Utah from Los Angeles this season, had just whipped the Kentucky Colonels, 131-121, Tuesday night to win the seventh and final game of the American Basketball Association championship playoffs.

"It was a fantastic year," Sharman said, "especially when you consider we started with 10 almost unknown players. It was a great team effort. Like it was all year."

"But Kentucky, with Artis Gilmore, will be the team to beat next year."

"We just didn't hit the hoop when we should have," said Kentucky coach Frank Ramsey, walking alone through the Salt Palace Parking lot. "Our boys don't have to hang their heads all summer thinking about what they didn't do," Ramsey said. "We played a good game, but Utah played great."

Utah, on the shooting of Zelmo Beaty, who finished with 36 points, led all the way after going on top 41-40 in the first half on Glen Combs' basket.

The Stars, shrugging off Dan Issel's 41-point scoring pace, pulled away to an 11-point advantage with two minutes left after Darel Carrier's three-point pull pulled the Colonels to within four at 116-112 with five minutes to go.

Utah's Mike Butler came off the bench and made every shot he took in the last minute, hitting a three-pointer, a two-pointer, and two free throws.

More Help

Cincy Powell backed up Issel for Kentucky with 19 points and 20 rebounds Carrier, who hit four straight shots late in the third quarter, including three for three for three points each scored 31.

Willie Wise scored 22 and grabbed 20 rebounds, including 17 off the defensive boards. Combs added 20, all in the first half when Utah took a 61-54 lead.

Kentucky forward Jim Ligon fell in the first half and injured his back. From there on, Utah commanded the boards, out-rebounding the Colonels, 71-59. Kentucky, which faltered after

Packer Veteran Wants Explanation

Roster Omission Stuns Jeter

By LEE REMMEL

Post-Crescent News Service

GREEN BAY — Bob Jeter is "stunned" . . . and "amazed." The veteran defensive back, speaking from his Pittsburgh home Tuesday, so described his reaction to the apparently deliberate omission of his name from the 1971 Packer roster and

"Two or three weeks ago I received a letter from Don Doll, new defensive backfield coach." The 34-year-old veteran informed "He listed some drills he wanted me to do and asked if I was doing my running . . . That was the last word I had from the Packers."

Declaring himself "in good shape," Jeter admitted, "I was not in shape down at Arlington, but I've been running three or four miles a day ever since. In fact, I'm down to my playing weight right now."

His reference to the special camp held in Texas last month, may have touched upon a partial explanation for his conspicuous absence from the roster.

Devine, who insists his players be in optimum physical condition, was not overly enchanted when Jeter retired to the sidelines after finishing only one lap of the required two-mile run at Arlington.

That afternoon, the Packers' new leader called him aside for a lengthy, private "conversation" in a corner of the practice field, after which the former University of Iowa athlete appeared somewhat chastened.

Jeter said Tuesday, however, that he had been given no indication at that point that his Packer future was in peril. But on at least two public occasions in the interim, Devine has listed 1970 rookie Al Matthews as the likely starter at Jeter's right.

Wants to Play

Then following a dry chuckle he added, "I want to play football somewhere this year."

Efforts to secure an explanation have thus far proved fruitless, Jeter said. "I tried to reach Coach Devine yesterday but he was out of town and isn't expected back in the office until Thursday morning . . . and Pat Peppier (Packer personnel director) was in conference."

"I plan to call Coach Devine Thursday morning and try to find out just what plans he has for me."

Jeter said a recent community-daughter of Devine, the Packers' head coach and general officer served to increase his puzzlement, in view of the latest happening.

cornerback station and has signed my contract last year which means they still have an option on my services through the 1971 season . . . So I couldn't very well talk to anyone else any way."

Jeter said, in this connection that he had given no thought to playing elsewhere, but added dryly "Evidently if I'm not on the roster, they don't have a place for me."

In a way, I would like to know. I felt kind of bad, getting it second hand. I would think they owe me the courtesy of telling me personally.

Bucks' Contract Pleases MU's Brell

By BOB GREENE MILWAUKEE (AP) — The

champion Milwaukee Bucks
small, quick forwards Tuesday when they signed their third-round draft choice, 6-foot-6 Gary Brell of Marquette.

"I don't think you have to have a tall forward when you have a 7-2 center (Lew Alcinder) and Oscar Robertson playing guard," Brell, who also played his high school basketball in Milwaukee, said.

"They do need another rebounding forward, but you don't have to be big to rebound," he said. "You just have to have the desire and the ability to jump."

Brell became the Bucks' first college draft choice to sign this season.

Although he refused to disclose the terms of his contract,

Brell said he was "very happy

Better Than Expected

"I got a very substantial contract," he said. "It was even better than I thought I would get."

Brell also was chosen in the 12th round of the American

Basketball Association draft by the Denver Rockets.

"Denver couldn't come close to the Milwaukee offer either in terms of convenience or economics," he said. "I'm very happy to be playing in Milwaukee where my friends and family are, and playing in the NBA is a very big plus."

Brell acknowledged it would be hard to break into the starting lineup with the NBA champions.

German Born

"It's an established team, but I think I have a shot at the third forward. If I get a few breaks, I might start somewhere along the line," he said.

Born in Witten, West Germany, Brell and his family moved to Milwaukee in 1956 where he did not play organized basketball until his senior year at

Plus High School when he averaged 18 points and 19 rebounds.

Master Angler Contest Off to Fast Start
Big Walleyes Take Fishing Spotlight

Post-Crescent Outdoor Editor

Three walleyed pike, two of which were larger than the winning entry last year, have taken the early spotlight in the ninth annual Master Angler fishing contest, sponsored by The Post-Crescent.

Gary Mytton, 804 Shuoncton St., New London, has taken the walleye division lead with a 10-pound, 8-ounce walleye at Big Twin Lake. The pike took a minnow.

Other Catches

Currently in second place is Bob Treiber, 1332 W. Spring St., Appleton, who registered a 10-pound, 5-ounce walleye which he caught at Butternut Lake. Treiber also was using a minnow for bait.

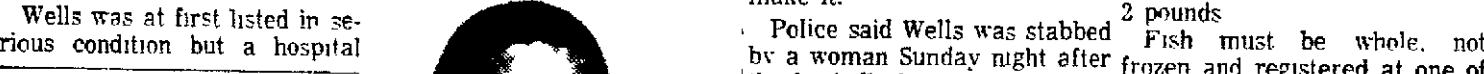

The third place spot is held by Dick Stern, Oshkosh St., New London, who was fishing with Mytton when he latched onto a 8-pound, 8-ounce walleye at Big Twin Lake. The pike took a minnow.

A number of other fish catches were reported to The Post-

Olivares Stops Mineyama in 3rd

TIJUANA, Mexico (AP) — World bantamweight champion Ruben Olivares of Mexico City stopped Tuguo Mineyama of Tokyo Tuesday night in the third round of their non-title match scheduled for 10 rounds.

Boxing for the first time since he redeemed the 118-pound division crown April 2 from Chucho Castillo, Olivares floored the dancing Japanese early in the third round with a solid left hand smash to the head, then finished him off a few minutes later with a crushing left hook to the body.

Olivares weighed 125 and Mineyama 125.

Smith, Jende Lead Cyclone Netters to 2nd in WCC

The No. 2 doubles team of Jim Smith and Mike Jende captured a title, leading the Fox Valley Campus tennis team to a second-place finish in the Wisconsin Collegiate Conference at Waukesha over the weekend.

The Cyclones scored 15 points, one less than champion Waukesha. Twelve teams competed in the meet.

The Smith-Jende combination won over duos from Richland Center, 10-2; Barron County, 10-3; Sheboygan, 10-8, and Waukesha, 6-2, 6-4, en route to the championship.

Jende took second place in the No. 2 singles. He lost to Sheboygan's Mark Bredeck, 7-5, 6-2, in the finals after defeating Richland Center's Ed Doerman, 10-0; Waukesha's Dick Ruder, 10-6, and Manitowoc's Bob Bohnke, 12-10.

Terry Stillman, No. 5 singles, was another runnerup for the Cyclones. After drawing a bye in his first round match, Stillman beat Sheboygan's Ken Christus, 10-6, in the quarterfinals and Waukesha's Jim Hensel in the semifinals before losing to Marathon's Ken Delisle in the finals.

Notching victories in preliminary rounds were Karl Gruetzman at No. 3 singles (two); Smith at No. 4 singles, and the duo of Craig Freund and Gruetzman in the No. 1 doubles.

Three Indians Recuperating After Collision in Outfield

WASHINGTON (AP) — Left-clipped Pinson, who had stooped fielder John Lowenstein and to pick up the ball, with his foot shortstop Jack Heidemann of the Cleveland Indians were reported to be doing fine Tuesday after the three-player collision in Monday night's game with Washington.

Dr. George A. Resta, Sena-Hospital for further observation and tests.

Lowenstein, Heidemann and centerfielder Vada Pinson col-lided in the fourth inning when they went after a looping ball hit by Tom McCraw into short-

Pinson said, and pictures indi-cated that Lowenstein dived for the ball, slid into Heidemann, who flipped over his body and said.

After Triple Crown Trainer Likes Citation Better Than Canonero

OCEANFORT, N.J. (AP) — Citation would beat him by 20 Citation, in his race, and Canonero II to race each other.

H.A. "Jimmy" Jones spoke with pardonable pride today in discussing an imaginary race between the last winner of race-lengths, replied Jones who won the Triple Crown in 1948 and trained Citation for Calumet Canonero II who seems destined to become the first 3-year-old to win the Triple Crown after nearly a quarter of a century.

Canonero II, a Kentucky-bred, but Venezuelan-owned colt, startled the experts by coming from far back to win the Kentucky Derby, then taking the Preakness after a front-running duel with Eastern Fleet, a recognized speed horse.

Next Jewel
The Belmont Stakes, at a testing half and one-mile, will be raced at Belmont Park in New York on June 5.

What do you think would

Jones saw both the Kentucky Derby and the Preakness and will be on hand for the Belmont.

Told that Johnny Campo, trainer of Jim French and Good Behaving plans to run both in the Belmont, Jones commented that it would be "hard to set a trap for Canonero."

Jones noted that the Belmont has been "a killer of potential champions. There's been many an upset. As of now I think Canonero II would win, but you never know what will happen."

Perhaps he had in mind how Citation, the 1-5 favorite, stumbled at the start of the 1948 Belmont, but fortunately recovered and went on to win by eight lengths in 2:28 1-5.

Xavier finishes with a 4-8 record, while Fond du Lac is 8-4.

Gene Jenkins pitched and batted the Hawks to victory in the opener against previously unbeaten Ron Matteis. Jenkins' seventh inning triple plated the deciding runs. He led the 12-hit assault against Matteis with a 3-for-4 day.

Xavier tallied three runs in the fifth frame of the opener and three more in the seventh.

Appleton errors proved costly in the finale as all Fondy runs were aided by Hawk miscues.

er taking a 32-28 first quarter lead, retained its record of never having won in the Salt Palace. The Colonels squeaked by in three playoff games in Louisville, and Utah took the other four by comfortable margins.

3-Time Loser

The Colonels, a division runner-up like Utah, lost to the Stars three times in Utah during the regular season. Kentucky got by Miami and Virginia in Eastern division play, while Utah breezed by Texas in four games before meeting Indiana.

Dinner will be served at 7 p.m. in the junior high school ball attendance record for a first-year franchise, averaging cafeteria and the program will follow in the auditorium.

A limited number of tickets remain available for the affair.

Todd Nordwig, a freshman at the UW and probable starting outside linebacker, will accompany Jardine.

Webster State's Johnson Named Assistant by Chicago Bulls' Motta

CHICAGO (AP) — Phil Johnson, basketball coach at Weber State College in Ogden, Utah, was named assistant coach of the Chicago Bulls, second-place finishers in the Midwest Division National Basketball Association, Tuesday.

With the Bulls Johnson will assist Head Coach Dick Motta who coached at Weber State before moving into the pro league. Motta recently signed a five-year contract that the Bulls management termed the best in the history of sports.

Berlin Defeats Hortonville, 3-2

BERLIN — Bill Coats fired a 3-hitter at Hortonville Monday as Berlin retained its fading hopes in the East Central Conference baseball chase with a 3-2 triumph.

The Indians, 5-1, have been unable to catch Ripon since an opening loss to the Tigers.

Hortonville is 0-6.

Randy Mulroy was ticketed with the loss as he went the distance for Hortonville striking out eighth and walking just two.

Berlin rapped five hits off Mulroy paced by Jim Haase who collected a double and triple and tallied two runs.

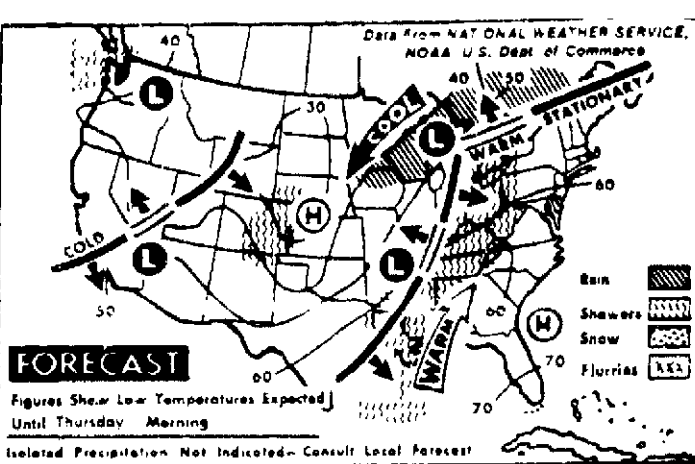

Tom Dorn brought in both Hortonville runs with a single in the sixth inning. Mark Everts and Rob Pankow collected the other Polar Bear hits.

Coats struck out 11 and issued one walk.

Allergies Can Cause Vasomotor Rhinitis

BY G. C. THOSTESON, M.D.
Dear Dr. Thosteson: What is vasomotor rhinitis and can it be cured? — M.U.

It's an ailment that primarily bothers folks with a predisposition to allergies. It somewhat resembles hay fever — a boggy swelling of the membranes of the nose and a watery discharge.

But while hay fever is due to various pollens, and therefore occurs at certain seasons, vasomotor rhinitis drags on and on. Since it is a matter of something irritating the membranes, it often takes considerable detective work to discover what. Household dust is a common offender. Pets can be responsible. Some others are cosmetics (powders and perfumes) or industrial or household chemicals.

Foods are not a common offender in this type of allergy, but there are cases of it. But because there are so many possibilities, the quickest way to find out is to take the long way around — go to an allergist and let him run series of tests, to rule out innocent materials and — we hope rapidly — find out what is offending.

A little-suspected cause — little suspected by patients but very much suspected by physicians — is the persistent use of nose drops or inhalants. These materials shrink the nasal membranes, temporarily, and the patient, noting this relief, keeps on using them.

The trouble is that there is a "rebound" effect. After the nose drops have worn off, the membranes become more watery than ever, so the patient is trapped in an endless circle.

It is often difficult to persuade a patient to stop using the nose drops, yet giving them up sometimes can show improvement in as little as a week. Obviously it's well worth a try.

Until the materials that cause the irritation are identified, the congestion and drippiness can be reduced by the use of antihistamine preparations taken by mouth.

Keep in mind that the dosage should be regulated carefully, because antihistamines can cause drowsiness, and that can interfere with your driving, perhaps with your work.

Alcohol can intensify the drowsiness — another point worth bearing in mind.

Dear Dr. Thosteson: You said

a vasectomy operation is regarded as permanent. Would it be possible for this tube or duct to grow back again in a few years? In other words, would it be possible to have this operation, then 10 years later father a child? — R.L.

There is such a thing as "recanalization," meaning that nature recreates a passageway, so what you suggest is possible.

As the operation is done these days, a sufficient gap is made, and the ends of the duct are tied off, so the prospects of recanalization are mighty slim indeed, however.

When I wrote that the operation should be "regarded as permanent," I meant that people shouldn't have this surgery with the expectation that they can have it "undone" later. At times this can be done, but since in so many instances the duct cannot be reconstructed, nobody should have the surgery unless he is thoroughly willing to accept it as permanent.

Dear Dr. Thosteson: After extensive treatment for "calcaneal apophysitis," my 10-year-old son's heels are starting to hurt again. What can I do to relieve his discomfort without going back to a podiatrist? Is there much therapeutic value in whirlpool foot baths and ultrasound heat, or is rest the only cure? — Mrs. H.S.

Translated, that means he has an irritation in the area of the heel bone and one of the tendons attached to it — probably a form of bursitis in that area.

Rest is necessary, but heat and physical therapy should be beneficial. I would consider it wise to continue to have supervision from the podiatrist, at least periodically.

"You Can Stop Sinus Trouble!" is the title of my newly revised booklet explaining what sinus trouble really is and encouraging sinus sufferers to do something about it. For a copy write to Dr. Thosteson in care of The Post-Crescent, enclosing a long, self-addressed, stamped envelope and 25 cents in coin to cover cost of printing and handling.

Ex-Convict Dad Pleads for Son

POINT OF THE MOUNTAIN, Utah (AP) A Nebraska father, himself an ex-convict, has successfully pleaded with the Utah Board of Pardons to release his son from prison so he could help him start a new life.

Ronald Clements, of Junita, Neb., appeared before the board on behalf of his son, Jay, who was serving a term of one to 20 years for burglary.

Clements said he had served two terms in the Utah prison but since his release in 1957 had made an honest living. He said he had a job for his son and would help him go straight.

The board immediately ordered Jay Clements paroled in the custody of his parents.

What Are Job Chances For Current Cop-Outs

BY SYLVIA PORTER

How many middle-upper class kids — including perhaps your own — do you know who are now choosing such careers as farming, or a n i c gardening, leatherworking, running natural foods stores, weaving and wool spinning?

How many bright young Americans do you know who have dropped out of college — even in their junior-senior years — to work in a Greenwich Village coffee shop, drive a taxi in San Francisco, deliver newspapers in Denver?

Mounting numbers — maybe millions — of our young people are rejecting our long-standing, occupational values of money, security, success, challenge, position. They are turning their backs on the standard careers which are listed in the vocational counselors' handbooks and the employment service card files. They are trading well-paying jobs they would be quite capable of performing excellently for non-paying volunteer work of all kinds, in save-the-earth groups, political campaigns, consumer organizations.

In fact, a recent study of college students cited by Peter Sandman, a young Los Angeles author of "The Unabashed Career Guide," reveals this astounding (to old-fashioned me) downgrading of the importance of an "occupation" among life's great satisfactions:

(Choice-Percent)
Source of Satisfaction	1st 2nd
Family	55 35
Leisure	23 20
Occupation	14 37
Other	8 8

It is barely possible that inventor Buckminster Fuller will be on target with his forecast that "Just 50 years from now, the word 'worker' will have disappeared from the American language."

It is conceivable that within 25 years, working solely to earn a paycheck won't even be on the list of reasons young Americans choose a trade, skill, profession.

Long before any of these far-out possibilities even peeks over the horizon, though, will be the here-and-now — more specifically, the summer of 1971 — when the job market for youngsters will be the tightest in many years.

And because this will be the

economic background, this will be the summer when countless hundreds of thousands of young Americans will be performing non-jobs and services of every description — without the usual rewards of paychecks, fringe benefits, other customary offshoots of "work."

Available Jobs
In a forthcoming article in "Playboy," Sandman will offer a deadpan list of alternatives for young humanists who can't bear competition, machines, computers, executive authority, the profit motive. Among them: (a) become a hippie; (b) become a revolutionary; (c) become an emigrant to backward lands where computers are rare; (d) become a craftsman and go back a few hundred years to beading, leatherwork, subsistence agriculture;

(e) become a recreation worker, a caddy, if you can, or get any job so long as the hours are short and you can then look to your private life for real satisfaction.

But surely there are other more down-to-earth alternatives for the young humanists — in blending such fields as engineering with social consciousness, technology with ethics, the like.

Perhaps you remember the old vocational aptitude tests on which you found such questions as "Would you rather read novels to a blind old lady or repair a broken garbage disposal unit?" If you checked the former, you were classed as preferring the social service type occupations; the latter, as a budding scientist.

Today's new choice, suggests Sandman, may turn out to be: scientific social service or "repairing a garbage disposal unit for a blind old lady."

Council Votes Against Forced Arbitration Plan

Proposed state legislation to require binding arbitration to settle labor disputes between municipalities and policemen or firemen drew opposition of Appleton City Council finance committee members Monday.

The committee endorsed and sent to the council a resolution opposing the measure, stating that "an itinerant arbitrator with no responsibility to the taxpayers of Appleton would have the power to make awards for increased salaries and fringe benefits which could require the local governing authorities to levy additional taxes."

The committee was told the measure is expected to come before the Assembly in the next few days.

In a similar action, the committee recommended council support of establishment of a state boundary review commission which would rule on local annexations.

Patterned after a similar measure recommended by the Tarr Task Force on local government, the proposal is designed to overcome what are seen by urban interests as weaknesses in the present annexation statutes.

Young Hobby Club Name Candy to Win Rotary Printing Press

BY CAPPY DICK
What is the name of the candy spelled by the letters in the adjoining picture?

WIN THIS FLASH PRINTING PLANT

Five plastic boat whistles, each four and one-fourth inches long, will be awarded one each of the five nearest and most original contest entries received from boys and girls in the Fox Cities area. These whistles, which look like steamships, will float and are red and white in color. The really important thing about them is that the entries which win them are thereby qualified to be reconsidered for one of the five national grand prizes. The printing plants, manufactured by the Superior Marking Equipment Company, consist of a miniature rotary printing press, a selection of 200 pieces of rubber type, illustrations to be used in printing menus, cards, family newspapers, etc., plus supplies of ink, paper, tools and, of course, a booklet of instructions and printing tips. All entries winning boat whistles in all cities where this column appears will be reviewed by the judges to find the five nearest and most original of all. These will win the national awards.

The puzzle is a clutch to solve. After you have juggled the letters around to spell the candy name, clip out the picture, paste it on a piece of paper, print the deciphered candy beneath it along with your name, age, address and zip number, and decorate the entry in any neat, original way with paints, crayons or cutouts.

Mail address the entry to Cappy Dick's Midweek Print and Contest at The Post-Crescent and mail it before midnight of day after tomorrow.

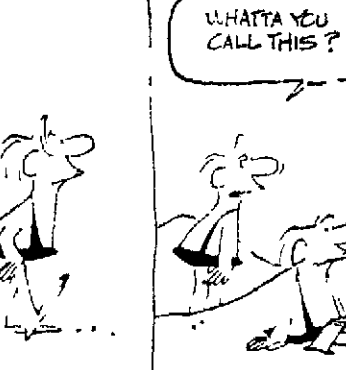

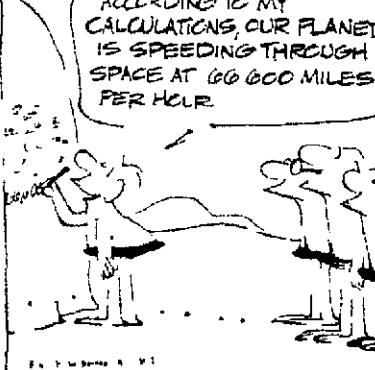

Names of the prize winners will be published here and their awards will be sent to them by mail. Judges' decisions will be final. Entries become Cappy Dick's property; none can be returned. Tomorrow: How to draw funny pictures of "long" people.

The Chancel Players of Green Bay will perform at 8 p.m. Thursday and Friday in Stansbury Theater of Lawrence Music-Drama Center under the direction of its co-directing team, Beverly and Stuart Smith, above. Formed in 1963, the Green Bay group always has been a theater of social concern, organized to confront today's audiences with the human condition — "life as it is" — through the use of many dramatic materials and techniques.

Quiz for TV Fans, Smarty Gets 'em All

Don't Peek at Answers Below, Unless You Just Can't Quite Remember Who

BY CYNTHIA LOWRY

NEW YORK (AP) — Almost anybody can discuss this past season's shows, but a real television fan, like a baseball addict, knows something about the history of his hobby.

Herewith, then, is a TV fan's quiz.

1. Who were Shirley Dinsdale and Judy Splinters?
2. Who were the original four panelists on "What's My Line?"
3. Who played Lt. Tragg in the "Perry Mason" series?
4. Name the actress, later star of a series, who was "George and Gracie's neighbor in 'The Burns and Allen Show.'"
5. Who played Danny Thomas' wife in the original "Make Room for Daddy?"
6. Snooky Lanson was: (a) host of a kiddie show, (b) a character in "The Hustler," (c) a singer on "Your Hit Parade."
7. Name the first hit doctor series and the star of the show.
8. What actor, in a supporting role in a comedy series, has accumulated the largest number of Emmy awards?
9. What costar of the first tongue-in-cheek Western moved into motion pictures and became a top box office star?
10. Identify Steve Allen's three original "Mad Men" in his NBC variety hour.

Answers Below

1. Shirley, a ventriloquist, and Judy, her dummy, were the winners of the first (1949) Emmy for "most outstanding television personality."
2. Arlene Francis, Bennett Cerf, Dorothy Kilgallen and Hal Block.
3. The late Ray Collins.
4. The late Bea Benadaret, who later starred in "Petticoat Junction."
5. Jean Hagen, who also served once as the mother of a family that owned Lassie.
6. Pop Singer
7. Lanson was a singer on the "Hit Parade," along with Dorothy Collins, Russell Arms and Gisele MacKenzie.
8. Art Carney of Jackie Gleason's "The Honeymooners," with five.
9. James Garner, who with Jack Kelley played the "Maverick" brothers.
10. Tom Poston, Don Knotts and Louis Nye. Bill Dana was a writer who made an occasional appearance.

Total possible correct answers: 17. Score one point for every correct answer.

A total score of 10 is excellent and better than that is marvelous.

Man's Friends Find Mailbox Surprises

PINE BLUFF, Ark. (AP) — Friends of Charles E. McCollum received a surprise when they looked in their mailboxes Monday.

McCollum mailed about 30 Christmas cards Saturday in envelopes marked "do not open until Christmas."

Inside each card was a message explaining the cards were mailed early to avoid the increase in postal rates that went into effect at midnight Saturday.

Glad You Asked That!

Q: My wife's anxious to get our beautiful baby on one of those TV soap commercials. I claim it's not easy to get picked. She thinks otherwise. Who's right? — Henry J. R., San Antonio.

A: You are. Usually some 200 boy and girl babies, 4 to 12 months old, are auditioned. The producers look for babies with expressive eyes, nicely-shaped faces, nice legs. Several dozen are asked to return a second time and meet the sponsor's own pediatrician. He teaches them to test reaction, calmness, and tranquility. If he sits the baby up, he must stay that way. When he's handed to a nurse or doctor, his reaction is studied. Each test passed scores a point. Eventually the two "best qualified" baby actors are hired from 15 to 18 survivors. They go on location for the actual shooting and receive $70 per day whether the spots are used or not. If cast as principals, they're paid the regular scale of $136 a day plus residuals for reruns.

Q: We've missed singing star Alfred Drake. What's he doing these days? — J. Morton Bobb, Jr., Columbus, Ohio.

A: The star of many Broadway musicals, Drake has been the artistic director of the National Lyric Arts Theater Foundation for the last 2½ years. "My job," he explains, "is to dig up fresh talent, composers, lyricists, book writers, and put them together. I've done that. The next step is to see if we can scratch enough money together to give those talented people a showcase. For me, a new musical is being written and if it, please God, turns out as good as we all hope, I may be back on stage next season."

40 et 8 Promenade Is Planned Wednesday

NEW LONDON — The Wau-paca County 40 et 8 will hold their promenade at 7 p.m. today.

Election of officers for the coming year will be held at this time. The promenade will be at Don's Supper Club.

Students Succeed in Battle to Save Trees

WHITEWATER, Wis. (AP) — A Whitewater State University spokesman said four students and a professor won permission Monday to preserve seven large, old trees which were to be removed for a parking lot.

Permission was granted by the state universities system in Madison, the spokesman said. Construction work on the parking lot halted last Friday when about 75 students demonstrated in support of saving the trees.

The parking lot, originally designed to hold 254 vehicles, will be reduced by 40 spaces.

Trains Again Operate Under Federal Order

WASHINGTON (AP) — The giant U.S. rail system began shrugging off effects of a two-day paralysis today and started moving tired commuters to their jobs and materials to the nation's factories.

Members of the 13,000-member AFL-CIO Brotherhood of Railroad Signalmen, which had immobilized the rail system before Congress broke the coast-to-coast strike, began removing pickets from terminals and freight yards shortly after President Nixon signed legislation ending the walkout.

Union President C. J. Chamberlain notified strikers shortly before midnight Tuesday the walkout was over and ordered them back to their jobs.

The Penn Central reported freight trains were rolling again within an hour of Nixon's decree. Other railroads said they would resume service as the day progressed.

Passenger Service
Amtrak, the national passenger rail system, announced all trains except four would operate on schedule today. The four, which run from San Diego to Los Angeles, Portland, Ore., to Seattle, and Carbondale, Ill., to Chicago, will be in service Thursday.

The Postal Service lifted its limited mail embargo. The embargo applied only to bulk mail going more than 300 miles.

Labor Secretary James D. Hodgson said it probably would be 24 hours before full service was in effect, but Chamberlain said restoration "should be well underscores the need for the Congress to consider immediately the permanent legislation which I have twice proposed for resolving such disputes without separate congressional action in each instance."

Nixon's proposal would abolish the 45-year-old Railway Labor Act and bring rail and airline disputes under the Taft-Hartley law. It also would allow the president to extend for 30 days the 80-day Taft-Hartley cooling-off injunction; set up a panel to determine whether selective strikes were feasible, or name a neutral party to choose either a union's or management's last offer as a binding settlement.

Sen. Harrison A. Williams, D-N.J., chairman of the Senate Labor Committee, pledged to begin hearings on various proposals for permanent strike legislation next month.

Chamberlain criticized Congress for its action, saying, "We regret that Congress has once again felt it necessary to intervene in a railroad labor-management dispute."

"This is another case where the railroad industry was rescued by Congress," he said.

And he said the strike could be renewed Oct. 1 "if the railroad industry does not fulfill its responsibility during the extension period."

Asst. Secretary of Labor W. J. Usery Jr. planned to call the signalmen and rail negotiators back into session today to discuss procedures for continued bargaining.

"I believe," he said, "with some hard collective bargaining, it can be settled."

The retroactive wage hike voted by Congress covers the 16 months the signalmen have been without a contract during negotiations under the Railway Labor Act.

The period until Oct. 1 will be used to negotiate the rest of a 42-month contract. The union is asking for a total of 51.8 percent in pay hikes above the current $3.78 average hourly wage. Other rail unions have received 43 percent in recent negotiations.

The congressional end-the-strike legislation came after the Senate agreed to the House wage-hike figure of 13.5 percent instead of its 17 percent. The House, in turn, took the Senate's Oct. 1 date in place of its July 20 proposal.

Mercury Poisoning Recovery

A Long, Painful Road

ALAMOGORDO, N.M. (AP) — Amos Huckleby celebrates his 15th birthday today but the lad, stricken by mercury poisoning in 1969, won't be able to see the young friends his mother has invited to the party.

After 17 months in hospitals and the state rehabilitation center at Roswell, Amos is learning to walk again and his speech is returning. But he is still blind.

The mercury poisoning came from pork from a home-butchered hog which had been fed seed grain treated with a mercury compound fungicide.

Amos and two sisters, Dorothy Jean and Ernestine, were virtually paralyzed. A brother born to their mother three months after the contaminated pork was eaten, Michael, is blind.

Dorothy Jean, now 21, has made a substantial recovery and is planning to enter college. Ernestine, now 10, is still in an Alamogordo hospital.

"I walk him quite a bit," Mrs. Huckleby said of Amos Tuesday. "He has his exercises and other things to do. He's so glad to be home."

"We're having some of his old friends over for the birthday."

Troop Cuts Compromise Offered

WASHINGTON (AP) — Senate efforts to force a 50 per cent reduction of U.S. troops in Europe headed toward a compromise today that—if successful—would phase the cuts over three years and tie them to future U.S.-Soviet talks on mutual withdrawals.

Senate sources said Democratic Leader Mike Mansfield of Montana, author of the troop cut proposal, is throwing his support behind the revised proposal by Sen. Gaylord Nelson, D-Wis. Mansfield said he is still studying the Nelson amendment which earlier he called "the most attractive of all" alternatives.

Mansfield's comments, as the Senate met for a long day of showdown action on Mansfield's proposal for a 50 per cent cut in this country's 300,000-man troop strength in Europe, marked the first break in his "no compromise" position on substitute proposals.

Soften Position
It raised a strong possibility that Mansfield would agree to soften his position—and thereby increase the chance that the Senate might enact a European troop cut proposal.

Nelson's revised proposal, due for the day's first vote, was introduced late Tuesday night, and Democratic sources indicated Mansfield's supporters were involved in its preparation.

It substitutes a gradual reduction over the next three years for Mansfield's proposal to require a cut in troop strength to 150,000 on Dec. 31, 1971, and provides that the first reduction, to 250,000 by June 30, 1972, would be suspended if East-West talks on mutual reductions begin by the end of 1971.

Additional reductions in U.S. troops would be to 200,000 by June 30, 1973, and to 150,000 by June 30, 1974.

Most Attractive
"I am studying it along with the others," Mansfield told reporters. He added that, "on the basis of my cursory examination of it and the others, it's the most attractive of all."

"I'm still staying with my positions," Mansfield said, adding "I may have to say later in the day."

Republican sources, confident of beating Mansfield's original amendment if it comes to a vote, said Nelson's revised proposal plus Mansfield's support for it could produce an extremely close vote.

In its original form, the Nelson amendment kept Mans-field's troop reduction schedule but provided that they would not be put into effect Dec. 31 if East-West talks began by Sept. 30.

Too Steep
The new version attempts to deal with the proposal last week by the Soviet Union for troop reduction talks as well as with criticism that a 50 per cent cut less than eight months from now would be too precipitate.

Whatever the outcome, Mansfield said, "I have no alibis." He said if he loses this time he will raise the issue again, "sometime in the future."

"The issue is on the table and the cards are face up," he said.

President Nixon's supporters in the Senate appeared to have the votes to block Mansfield's original amendment.

Before the vote, an Associated Press count showed 42 senators opposed to the Mansfield amendment, 36 firmly for or leaning toward it, and 22 undecided.

Mansfield's plan and the alternatives were offered as amendments to a bill extending for two years the draft law due to expire June 30.

Draft Extension
After the troop question is decided, the Senate turns to an amendment by Sen. Richard S. Schweiker, R-Pa., extending the draft just one year.

The same draft bill also is expected to be the vehicle for the year's major debate on U.S. policy in Indochina. Antiwar senators plan to offer an amendment cutting off funds for U.S. participation in the war at the end of the year.

In his all-out effort to stop the Mansfield proposal, Nixon had reached into the ranks of the Democratic party for help, including former Presidents Harry S. Truman and Lyndon B. Johnson. Joining the fight on the Nixon side were former top U.S. diplomats and military officials.

Both sides wheeled up the heavy ammunition Tuesday in day-long debate on the European troop question before putting it aside to deal with the nationwide rail strike.

Sen. Margaret Chase Smith of Maine, ranking Republican on the Armed Services Committee, said adoption of the Mansfield amendment would "be a giant step backward for both mankind and the nation because it would signify the relinquishment of United States leadership in the free world."

She said the amendment "already produced remarkable results," such as Soviet Communist party Chairman Leonid Brezhnev's bid for East-West talks on mutual troop withdrawal from Europe, and Western Europe's recognition "that we mean it when we say our patience is at an end."

Manpower Bill Gets Coalition Backing

WASHINGTON (AP) — President Nixon's special revenue-sharing bill for manpower has been given new life in a surprise show of strength by House Republicans and Southern Democrats.

The coalition overrode the Democratic leadership Tuesday and forced the manpower measure onto the floor after many Democrats thought it had been safely pigeonholed.

Some Democrats promptly charged the Southerners traded their votes on the manpower bill in return for later GOP help in trying to kill a civil rights bill. The Republicans denied knowledge of any such arrangement.

The successful maneuver made the administration bill a substitute for a $4 billion public service employment bill that is a keystone of the economic program being developed by congressional Democrats.

Increase Support
Unwilling to risk a vote on either bill at this time, the Democratic leadership laid them both aside indefinitely in that hopes that a delay will lead to increased support for the jobs bill.

With unemployment remaining high, Democrats thought the time was ripe for passage of their bill. It would create 150,000 jobs in such fields as education, health care, conservation and pollution control. A similar bill already has passed the Senate.

The coalition took the bill's managers by surprise and opened up the rule so the manpower bill could be considered. The vote on the procedural motion was 210 to 182, with 46 Democrats—all but one from the South—joining 164 Republicans in voting for it.

Rep. William D. Ford, D-Mich., a sponsor of the jobs bill, said it was widely rumored on the House floor during the vote that the Southern Democrats were trading for later Republican votes in trying to kill a bill that would strengthen the Equal Employment Opportunity Commission.

The EEOC bill is now in the House Rules Committee, whose chairman, Rep. William M. Colmer, D-Miss., is believed by supporters of the jobs bill to have masterminded the sudden coalition move.

Ford said he would urge that the House Education and Labor Committee hold hearings on the manpower revenue sharing bill before it is brought back to the House, a process that could take several weeks.

The manpower bill is one of six special revenue sharing plans Nixon has proposed in addition to his $5 billion general revenue sharing. The Education and Labor Committee defeated it during earlier consideration of the jobs bill.

Stricter Standards Asked

More Ecology Funds Urged

WASHINGTON (AP) — A presidential advisory committee, calling air pollution "our most immediate health hazard," says environmental programs deserve a bigger cut of the federal budget.

The Citizens' Advisory Committee on Environmental Quality, in a report to President Nixon Tuesday, also said the government should raise its sights on water quality and trash accumulations.

It said the attack on air pollution should include "a compulsory but phased program" of fitting old cars with antipollution devices over the next few years. Federal regulations require new cars to meet strict emission standards by 1975.

The committee said administration efforts to increase water pollution control funding was a step in the right direction but more steps were needed.

The administration has proposed increasing the federal grant for water treatment facilities to provide the matching half of a $12 billion national investment over three years. The aim is to achieve secondary treatment of waste water. Current treatment removes most biological waste but leaves a wide variety of pollutants.

Warren Accused of Solon Surveillance

MADISON, Wis. (AP) — A Republican attorney general while urging the Assembly's Judiciary Committee to support a bill which would restrict a state agency's collection of data.

"The Justice Department is using the techniques of record-keeping to develop a spy system equal to the U.S. Justice Department and the discredited military-intelligence complex," Kessler said.

A deputy attorney general, Arvid Sather, accused Kessler of making a "very political statement."

Sather drew a parallel between Kessler's statement and the congressional complaints about FBI surveillance of government officials.

"Obviously he is trying to drag us into the FBI controversy," Sather said.

Post-Crescent Madison Bureau

MADISON — The legislature's best informed and most influential specialist in financial affairs has predicted defeat for Gov. Patrick Lucey's major proposal for the redistribution of local shares of state-collected taxes, which is a revised and supposedly more palatable version of the so-called Tarr redistribution plan advanced by the Knowles administration two years ago.

Sen. Walter Hollander of Rosendale, a Republican power in the Republican-controlled state senate and co-chairman of the legislature's joint committee on finance, made the forecast in a statement prepared for the Wisconsin Towns Association and published in its newsletter distributed to town board officers.

The Association is among the leading opponents of redistribution, largely because it will tend to give Milwaukee money that other communities, notably those in the rural areas, feel is disproportionately high. To some degree, complain the opponents, such gains for Milwaukee will be at the expense of other and smaller localities.

The effect of a lower qualifying rate would be to spread the money more generally, thus reduce the gains planned for Milwaukee and some of the other larger cities.

"Punitive"

Hollander said the Lucey bill is so "punitive," and it would provide such generous assistance to Milwaukee, that "it cannot possibly pass in its present form."

The legislature has not yet had a test vote on the redistribution idea which has been tossed around in legislative politics for a decade. The measure remains before the finance committee, and presumably won't be reported out until that committee completes work on the state general budget.

Lucey anticipated rural and small town objections about favoritism toward Milwaukee when he asked for a "sweetening" of the fund by the addition of new income tax receipts, but the Hollander prediction suggests strongly that the governor's expedient won't be sufficient to win majority votes in both houses.

Illicit Purposes

The Justice Department dossier, he said, are kept for "illicit purposes" and involve matters other than criminal investigation.

Sather called the statement "totally untrue," and accused Kessler of "despicable and irresponsible" remarks.

Kessler's bill would outline restrictions on gathering and exchanges of agency data.

It calls for a legislative commission to set up guidelines and allow citizens to inspect files being kept about them.

The committee took no action on the bill.

Sather said Kessler's speech could be damaging to the law enforcement agency.

Assembly Wants Truth In Mark down Pricing

MADISON, Wis. (AP) — A lance adequately defined. "When they say they have a sale, let's make them mean it," marked down unless they Nager said.

The measure goes to the Senate. It provides a penalty of up to three months in jail and a $500 fine.

Turning its attention to other consumer proposals, the Assembly passed 75-19 a bill which would allow bakers to sell half loaves of bread.

The present Wisconsin statute which prohibits half loaves is broad, too general, and did not adequately define a bargain sale, Rep. Donald Helgeson, R-Manitowoc, urged rejection of the bill. He said it was "too broad, too general, and did not adequately define a bargain sale."

"This bill goes a long way toward eliminating a very shoddy practice in many parts of the state," Rep. Edward Nager said, adding the expression "sale" as use in common parlance.

Explosive Restriction Is Defeated

MADISON, Wis. (AP) — A bill designed to discourage militants from using nitrogen fertilizers as explosives was defeated in the state legislature Tuesday.

The Assembly killed on a voice vote a proposal to require all ammonium nitrate fertilizer sold in the state to be desensitized to render it unexplosive when mixed with organic material.

An explosion of ammonium nitrate, fuel oil mixture and dynamite last summer killed a young researcher and destroyed Sterling Hall at the University of Wisconsin.

"We were bombed," Rep. Gerald A. Greider, R-La Crosse, told the Assembly. "Wouldn't we look silly if next week they do the same thing, and we vote against the bill?"

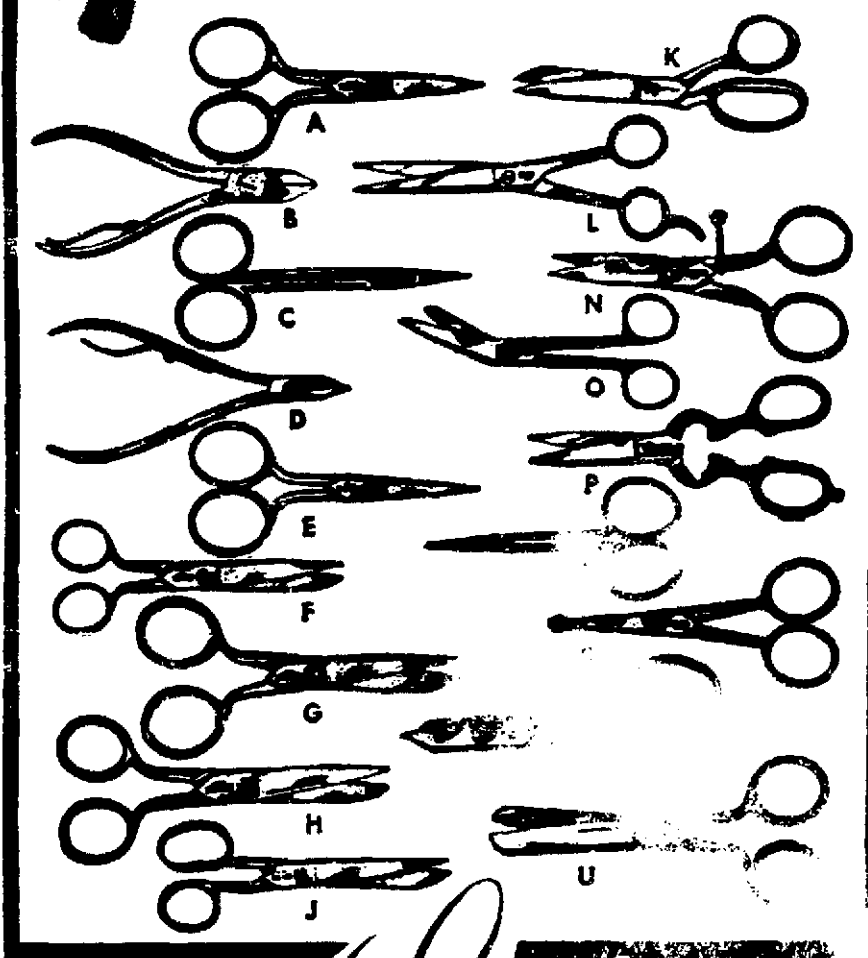

Opponents to the bill argued unaltered ammonium nitrate could easily be transported from other states to Wisconsin.

Other potentially explosive materials are readily available to the lawless element, and the proposal's major effect would be to force higher costs onto the farmer, they said. "Farming is tough enough as it is without adding an additional cost to fertilizer," Rep. Cletus Vanderperrin, D-Green Bay, said.

Illinois Abortion Bill Defeated in Committee

SPRINGFIELD, Ill. (AP) — A bill to make abortion legal in Illinois within the first 12 weeks of pregnancy has been defeated in the Illinois House Judiciary Committee on an 11-7 ballot, with one member voting present.

The vote ran along straight party lines with the exception of one Democratic representative who said his decision was more that "of a Catholic than a legislator."

Parochial Passage Recommended

Post-Crescent Madison Bureau

MADISON — Parochial, or state support of private schools. Tuesday was recommended for passage but no provisions for funding in the legislature's Joint Finance Committee.

The committee voted 9-4 to support a tuition grant proposal that would provide grants of $75 for elementary school children and $138 for secondary school students attending private schools. Although it is estimated the program would cost nearly $40 million for the 1971-73 biennium, the committee made no specific recommendation for funding. But, it did provide by a 7-6 vote the mechanism necessary for funding to be approved in advance of a vote on the state budget.

In announcing an already made decision that the bill, one of five proposals, would be the recommendation, Sen. Walter Hollander, R-Rose Dale, senate chairman of the joint finance committee, "If we're going to adopt any, this is the one." He said the committee would not recommend financing but would "let them fight out financing on the floor."

Both the rapidity of the action — taking only five minutes — and the vote split among committee members indicated the members considered the highly controversial proposal either too highly charged to review thoroughly and pointlessly to discuss since discussion on the floor is likely to be considerable.

The favorable vote was weakened by splitting the question and different vote lineups on each of two issues.

The emergency funding clause, which was approved 7-6, normally is attached when the committee recommends a funding plan, but in this instance it provides a mechanism whereby the legislature can set its own level of support without returning to the joint finance committee.

ing shift of students to public schools. But he was wrong, he said, and voted no.

As the issue now stands, the committee has recommended only that state policy be established to support tuition grant payments, and that a court case be initiated in the state Supreme Court to test the constitutionality.

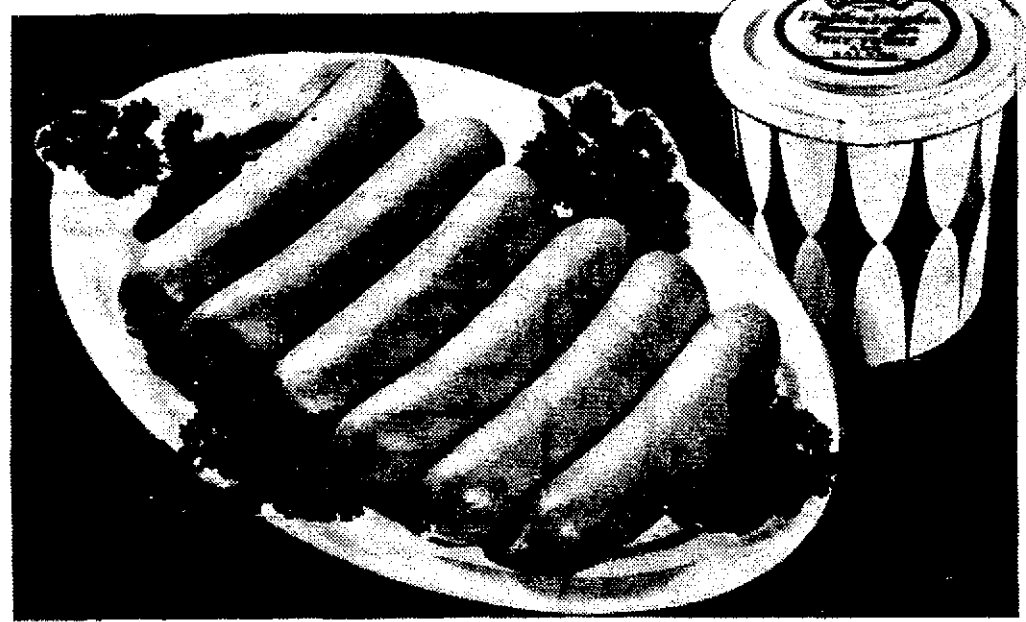

Funding now will be a separate issue despite the fact it is the key issue. Separated from the bill, funding faces the considerable obstacles of an economic recession that is resulting in a lot of talk about austerity budgeting and the possibility the concept would be adopted without the funds.

Since the Senate is weeks behind on its calendar and most efforts to bring measures up ahead of schedule have been defeated, it will be some time before the issue is considered on the Senate floor and longer before the Assembly acts on the Senate bill.

Waupaca to Have New Well in June

WAUPACA — The City Council had good news Tuesday on its water supply which was so critical last summer.

City engineer Iver Oerter reported to the aldermen that Well No. 5 will be in operation by June 15. The pump is in the city shops, the control valve is at the pump site, the shell of the pump house is built, the transmission lines are nearing the south edge of the Crystal River, city crews are getting ready to lay the transmission line on Berlin Street and the auxiliary motor will be shipped on Friday, Oerter said.

With the water supply predicted to be ample this coming summer season, the question of sprinkling and water rates was again reviewed at Mayor Edward Kramer's request.

Charges in Operation
Oerter announced that, as it agreed at budget time last fall, the water and sewer charge adjustments have been made. Residents of the city are billed quarterly for water and sewer, and bills have been established to give everyone the benefit of the south edge of the Crystal River, city crews are getting ready to lay the transmission line on Berlin Street and the auxiliary motor will be shipped on Friday, Oerter said.

Residents billed in January, February and March will be billed for June July and August. Those billed in February, April will be billed for July, August and September, and those billed in March to May will be billed for August, September and October.

There is no perfect way to do it, Oerter added, except to change to monthly billing and this would require two extra men for reading meters and plan than this one. I'll support it," he said.

Oerter added, "If wells are going to be dug all over town, the whole ball of wax out the window," commented Ald. Edsall Hunt (1st). It's the damnest thing I ever heard of, and if you buy, the higher the taxes will be that's the case I'm going to put in a well.

Wells Installed

Two public hearings were set by the council, one at 7 p.m. on June 1 to consider radically wrong with the sewer and water arrangements."

Kramer suggested that if the 1st Ward alderman had an alternative he present it to the board of public works. "If it's a better plan than this one, I'll support it," he said.

Oerter added, "If wells are going to be dug all over town, the whole ball of wax out the window," commented Ald. Edsall Hunt (1st). It's the damnest thing I ever heard of, and if you buy, the higher the taxes will be that's the case I'm going to put in a well.

Two public hearings were set by the council, one at 7 p.m. on June 1 to consider widening of Larson Street, between Seventh and Eighth streets; and a second for 7:15 p.m., June 1, to hear the request for rezoning 22 acres belonging to Mrs. Frank Radloff from residential to plan commercial.

Zoning Change
Two acres of Mrs. Radloff's property have been purchased with the intent to build a bowling lane. If it is rezoned plan commercial, the City Council will have the final word on what kind of commercial businesses can go onto the land, located north of U.S. 10 and

Chilton Will Annex Carnation Co. Plant

BY ALICE CONNORS
Post-Crescent Correspondent
CHILTON — A resolution calling for the annexation of the Carnation Co. property in the Town of Charlestown to the city has received City Council approval.

The company, which is adjacent to the eastern edge of the city, has been ordered by the Department of Natural Resources to be attached to a sanitation system for all company purposes by June. The company took its problem to town officials who agreed to after several meetings that it would be too costly to form their own sanitary district (to include Gravesville and Hayton).

The company made a request to the city two weeks ago and aldermen expressed the opinion that it should be annexed to the city for this service. The company has an assessed value of approximately $300,000 for the hearing on a request to change town, it will have to be reappraised for city purposes.

Bids for the construction of the incinerator also now, said the residence and were received from seven adjoining office on the property companies; five companies of always had been used as a fered bids for the electrical professional building. Zoning work in operation of the municipal incinerator.

Bids for the construction of the incinerator ranged from a high of $297,000 to a low bid of $244,700. Two of the companies did not bid for an alternative in the construction which called for a crusher-conveyor. Companies who did asked for an additional range of $32,000.

Electrical bids ranged from a high of $34,400 to a low of $23,380 which also carried alternatives for power to the crusher-conveyor for an additional cost of a high of $4,100 to a low of $2,717. Awarding of the bids will take place at the June 1 meeting, after they are tabulated by McMahon Engineers of Menasha.

A resolution also was passed calling for special assessment for sewer and water on Memorial Drive to U.S. 151 for approximately 550 feet.

The purchase of the Masonic Temple was referred to the public property committee to work out negotiations with the lodge. The city has been considering buying the 40-by-90-foot building has been used as a youth center for a number of years. The committee also was instructed to have the State Industrial Commission check the building.

Zoning Change

No one appeared at the public hearing on a request to change a residential 1 property to residential 2. Donald Bonk, applicant, said the residence and were received from seven adjoining office on the property companies; five companies of always had been used as a fered bids for the electrical professional building. The council instructed the attorney to prepare a preliminary resolution calling for the construction which called for a crusher-conveyor. Companies who did asked for an additional range of $32,000. Obey Slaps SST Action, Subsidies

WASHINGTON — It Congress, revives the SST and provides $250 million in loan guarantees for Lockheed Aircraft Corp., it amounts to nationalizing the aircraft industry by subterfuge, according to Rep. David Obey, D-Wis.

The Wausau congressman said in a weekly newsletter for publication in Seventh District newspapers that he hopes the Senate "holds fast against the SST," following the recent House vote to revive the government's participation in the project. Most observers expect the Senate to again defeat the measure.

Obey said, "In effect, the House is saying that it wants to provide socialism for risks in the aircraft industry, but free enterprise for the profits."

"If this action is followed by a bail-out of Lockheed, we might just as well face the question of nationalizing the entire aircraft industry. That would be unfortunate, but it is really what is being done by subterfuge."

Obey termed the 201-197 House vote "an incredible flip-flop" and asked how the project "that was economically and environmentally unacceptable in March had suddenly become a good deal for the taxpayer in May."

Remain In Northeastern, County Urged

The policy and finance committee of the Outagamie County Board has recommended that the county remain a member of the Northeastern Wisconsin Regional Planning Commission but that legislation be sought to change the commission's board makeup.

The motion, which was adopted 5-1, also called for inviting other counties to join the commission. The recommendation came after nearly seven hours of debate between members of the committee and representatives of Northeastern and the Fox Valley Council of Governments (COG).

Supv. Edward Spierings, Little Chute, failed in an attempt to have action on the motion delayed until the June 1 policy and finance committee meeting. He was joined by County Board Chairman Russell DeLaHunt, Kaukauna, in that attempt.

Spierings cast the only "no" vote on the recommendation that the county remain a member of the Northeastern Wisconsin Regional Planning Commission but that legislation be sought to change the commission's board makeup.

The motion, which was adopted 5-1, also called for inviting other counties to join the commission. The recommendation came after nearly seven hours of debate between members of the committee and representatives of Northeastern and the Fox Valley Council of Governments (COG).

Under existing commission laws, each county has two representatives on the commission, one county board member and one citizen.

Earlier, Northeastern representatives raised the merger proposal which has been rejected by COG.

Charles Hervey, executive director of Northeastern, repeated that agency's endorsement of a single agency for the area or a combination of two operational agencies under one control. He said, "Both the chairman of the commission (Gordon Bubolz) and I have offered to resign if urban areas was unfounded. He stands in the way of a merger."

G. Allen Bubolz said much of the problem blocking merger was an emotional one involving personalities. He asked Eugene Franchett, executive director of COG, if he could also make the offer to resign in view of Hervey's statement.

Franchett replied, "I am not a policy maker. My personal opinions have not been expressed. I work for a policy making body and if COG felt it was in the best interest, I could be released tomorrow. I think I have been able to get along with elected officials. If there is a problem elsewhere I am not part of it."

Franchett said that COG's official position was that the planning agency area should be the three county Standard Metropolitan Statistical Area (SMSA) as a minimum and the eight-county Lake Winnebago administrative district as a maximum, with elected officials making up at least two-thirds of the governing body.

In reply to a question from Bubolz, Franchett said that COG had nothing against the northern counties which are members of Northeastern except that they had nothing in common with this area except the watershed. "Oshkosh is closer to Chicago than it is to the northern end of Northeastern," he said.

Franchett said the biggest fear of COG members is that they could lose their eligibility for federal Housing and Urban Development funds if the agency is dissolved or merged with a Northeastern COG is now certified for HUD funds and Northeastern is not, Franchett said.

Clintonville Hospital's Budget Tops $1 Million

CLINTONVILLE — An operating budget of $1,015,167 for the year beginning Oct. 1, 1971, was approved Monday by the Clintonville Community Hospital's board of directors.

This represents an increase of 17.2 per cent in hospital expenditures and financial activities and reflects expanding medical services of the hospital in relation to the growing and changing medical needs of the community.

The rental and remodeling of the Bohn Building on the city's south side was approved by the hospital board to accommodate Dr. Reuben Solidum, who will start to practice here July 1.

Solidum is an internist in internal medicine. He previously has practiced in Warwick, R.I.

Whole Building
The whole building will be remodeled to provide space for two doctors.

The hospital board is continuing the feasibility study with architects in regard to the location of the Behling Home for the Retired and a medical clinic. According to projected plans the building would be attached to the hospital.

The proposed clinic, not yet off the drawing board, would provide ample facilities for the medical people who want to take advantage of its location, parking, and record keeping facilities and its contiguous laboratory, X-ray and therapy facilities of the hospital would be employed.

Project plans also call for the elimination of the Main Street entrance to the hospital when the new wing is completed. The main entrance would be located on Anne Street.

Proposal Attacked

New London Gives Utility Problem to Works Board

NEW LONDON — For the first time that many aldermen could remember, a City Council meeting was delayed for the lack of a quorum Tuesday night.

Aldermen discussed whether a utility pole should be moved, at $1,500 expense to the city, or a gas main at $600, necessary for construction of curb and gutter on Douglas and Mill streets.

The council questioned if the city should be charged at all but Director of Public Works Robert Martin said, "We can't get either utility to do anything unless the city pays for it."

The utility department wants the main moved so that they just have to slide the pole, instead of having to pick it up and move it. The gas company does not want to change the main, because it is a main one and the alteration would interrupt service.

Meeting Planned
Mayor S. W. Krostue pointed out that the city never had to pay for moving poles in the past. He instructed the department of public works to meet with the utilities involved and resolve the problem.

The issue of street oiling was resolved with city approval to purchase a wagon to haul the 500 gallon oil tank and pump for the new oiling system.

Aldermen voted unanimously to oppose compulsory binding arbitration for law enforcement officers, firemen, and the municipality. It was noted that the measure was supposed to prevent strikes and didn't but did take some control away from the city.

Sewer Costs
They also opposed bills that forced overtime pay after 40 hours and gave the payment of worker's compensation over to the state.

The city soon will be presented with change orders on the sewer separation work for the amount of $32,000, which should give the community 100 per cent separation of storm waters from sanitary sewers.

In its contract with DeVlee Construction Company, the city can include change orders to the amount of $62,000. The council took a firm stand on a sewer problem in the Radtke-Dobberstein plat, giving the contractor and plat owners two weeks to complete sewer work or the city will take over the project, and charge the cost plus a penalty to the owners.

Delay Causes Problem
The city had turned the construction over to the plat owners, with the agreement that the city would pay a portion of the costs. The sewer is not going in on time, and the delay is creating a problem for the city on another project.

Krostue complimented the citizens of New London for their patience on the traffic problems created by the citywide construction projects. He noted that the police department was doing a fine job of handling the difficulties and that the problems were being kept to a minimum.

The council voted in a resolution to support Wisconsin Michigan Coaches on their bid for additional bus service from Appleton to Milwaukee. The bus would originate in Wausau come through New London en route to Milwaukee.

Where Is Waupaca Going . . . 3

Projections for Land Use Outlined

BY FERN SMITH
Post-Crescent Staff Writer

WAUPACA — Within the next 20 years 400 acres of the 92,160 acres included in the Waupaca Area Council of Governments will be needed for residential land use, an estimated 50 acres will be needed for commercial land use and 66 acres will be needed for industrial use.

These projections are made by the Northeastern Wisconsin Regional Planning Commission (NEWRPC) in its technical report of existing land use and neighborhood analysis, a part of the council's adopted 20-year comprehensive plan. They are based on the assumptions that new farmsteads will be constructed, all new residences in rural areas will be one or two family houses with an average of one unit per acre, new residential densities in the urban area will average three houses per acre, the average number of persons per unit will be three, and the commercial and industrial needs will grow in direct proportion to the residential land needs.

Predominate Use
The predominate use of the land in WACOG is agriculture, 68.7 per cent.

The degree of blight within the area is moderate, the report discloses, with 14 per cent of all structures classified as deteriorating and less than 1 per cent classified as dilapidated and in need of major rehabilitation or demolition.

Substandard structures are scattered throughout the city and town, and one problem that is developing is the large percentage of vacant buildings that are substandard, the report pinpoints.

The 92,160 acres within the WACOG area are classified in eight major categories: with 2,299 acres used for residential purposes; 259 acres, commercial; 329 acres, industrial; 402 acres, governmental and institutional; 65 acres, utilities and communication; 987 acres, parks and recreation; 2,875 acres, transportation; and 84,948, open space.

Open Space

The open space lands predominate in all five units of WACOG. A total of 68.7 per cent of the open space lands, or 63,399 acres are used for agriculture; 14.5 per cent, or 13,392, forest; 2.7 per cent forested wetland; 3.0 per cent wetland; wetland; 3.0 per cent wetland; and 2.2 per cent, water area.

The report shows that there are 3,984 structures on the land, most of them being residential dwellings. There are 535 farm dwellings, 2,649 non-farm dwellings, 133 mobile homes and 23 multi-family dwellings.

There are 216 commercial structures, 74 industrial plants, 119 governmental and institutional buildings and 115 vacant structures in the area.

Community Land

Community land uses are detailed for the City of Waupaca, the Town of Dayton, the Town of Farmington, the Town of Land and the Town of Waupaca.

The City of Waupaca occupies approximately 2,734 acres of land and 52.4 per cent of it is devoted to open space use. Residential use is made of 416 acres and there are 1,171 single family residences, 14 multi-family residences, 13 farm residences and 23 trailers.

The main area of commercial land use, 118 acres or 4.3 per cent, is located in the central part of the city along Main Street, with scattered commercial development along W. Fulton and Churchill Streets.

Industry Uses

Industry uses 93 acres of land, 3.4 per cent, and the major industrial area is described as arc shaped, beginning at the

New London Cyclists Get Licensing Break

NEW LONDON — Cyclists here will not need to worry about licensing of their bicycles during most of the summer. Police Chief Jack Algiers said bicycles will not be licensed until the downtown congestion is relieved, even though most licenses have expired.

He noted that the presence of bicycles in the downtown area is only creating an additional hazard, and urged parents to have their children stay away from the area until all streets are repaved.

Record Numbers

Algiers noted that people with new bicycles should record the serial number as well as a description and put it somewhere where it can be found if the bicycle is stolen.

In addition parents are encouraged to purchase bicycle locks and to be sure the bikes are not left out at night.

Algiers added that children should be reminded not to leave the bicycles unattended and unlocked during the day.

The department will issue a notice when they are able to license the bicycles, which will probably be in the late summer or fall.

Jaycettes Get Awards At Madison

2 Couples Represent New London Groups At Annual Parley

NEW LONDON — The Jaycees and Jaycettes were represented by two couples at the annual convention in Madison, Friday and Saturday, and returned with two awards for the local Jaycettes.

Mr. and Mrs. Tim Janke and Mr. and Mrs. Kenneth Karpf were at the meeting and were present when the Jaycettes received the Gold Key Award for marked increase in membership, and second place in Region 7 for "outstanding publicity."

Friday evening the Jaycette board of directors met with candidates for state officers. At the Saturday morning meeting Mrs. Norman Glaeden, Janesville, was elected state president.

The Jaycees elected their officers after the Saturday luncheon, with Ron Foster, Brookfield, winning the president's seat.

The convention concluded with the inaugural dinner and ball. Guest speaker was Dr. James Turpin, founder of Project Concern, a program actively backed by the Jaycees and Jaycettes throughout the state.

Weyauwega Music Groups Get Top Rating

WEYAUWEGA — All four music groups of the Weyauwega-Fremont Area Schools received superior ratings at the district music festival Saturday at Hortonville.

The high school band was entered in Class A, the middle school band in Class B and the middle school chorus in Class D. In addition, the high school band received a very good rating in sight reading.

The vocal groups are directed by Everett Slattery and the bands by Robert Koepsel.

New London Congestion Motorists' Help Sought

NEW LONDON — Traffic in the downtown construction area continues to be a problem, and police are seeking motorists' cooperation to help ease it.

Traffic is especially congested at Shawano and Water streets. Police ask that motorists traveling north on Shawano Street do not make a left (west) turn onto Water, but go to Shiocton or Waupaca streets before attempting a left turn.

This would eliminate much of the congestion on the bridge and at the Shawano Street-Wolf River Avenue intersection, police said.

Drivers also were encouraged to avoid the downtown area between 11:30 a.m. and 1:30 p.m. and again from 4:30 p.m. to 5:30 p.m. These are the hours when traffic is heaviest.

The department is attempting to have traffic officers at the Water and Shawano streets and Wolf River Ave. and Shawano Street intersections during the most congested times and on Friday nights. This is not always possible, however, and they are urging motorists to plan their days in such a manner as to avoid the trouble areas.

Traffic jams are occurring frequently, with motorists reporting that it sometimes takes up to 45 minutes to cross the bridge.

The traffic problem is expected to last most of the summer.

Schools End Year June 3

Final Exams for Seniors Start May 27 At Chilton High

CHILTON — Public schools will close for the summer at 2:45 p.m. Thursday, June 3, it was announced this week by principal James F. Skarda.

Hot lunches will be served that day for all students in the main building. No lunch will be served that day at St. Mary's, these children will have to bring lunches.

Exam days in the high school are on Wednesday, June 2 and Thursday, June 3 for freshmen, sophomores and juniors. Seniors will write their finals on Thursday and Friday May 27-28. On exam days it is necessary for students to be in school only when they are not writing tests.

The exam schedule for the freshmen, sophomores and juniors will be Wednesday 8 to 9:20; 9:25 to 10:45; 10:50 to 12:10 and 1:10 to 2:30 p.m. Thursday hours are 8 to 9:20; 9:25 to 10:45; 10:50 to 12:10 and 1:10 to 2:30 p.m. The senior exam schedule will be the same on Thursday and Friday. All seniors will report to school on June 4 at 9 a.m. for commencement rehearsal. Commencement will be June 6 at 2 p.m.

Graduation Planned at Stockbridge High

STOCKBRIDGE — Twenty-seven seniors will graduate from the high school here in commencement exercises at 8 p.m. May 28.

Leon Wolfe, former agriculture and industrial arts teacher at the school, will speak. Jane Zahringer will give the valedictory address and Carol Hemauer the salutatory speech.

Graduates have chosen the yellow rose as their class flower and "We're Searching; We're Never Really Finished; There's Always Tomorrow" as the class motto.

Six 50-year graduates will receive golden anniversary diplomas. They are Eva Hall Gellinger, Laura Hawley Deno, Irene Ruffing Winkler, Emma Hicks Schlesweski and Emmet O'Donnell. Eight 25-year graduates will receive silver anniversary diplomas.

Summer Driver Course Slated In Kaukauna

KAUKAUNA — High school students in the Kaukauna School District planning to take the summer driver education course must file signed parental consent slips with the driver education supervisor, William F. Mittelstaedt, by Friday.

The course is open to any student who will be 16 by Oct. 31, 1971. The classroom phase of the program will begin at 6:30 p.m. June 8 at which time a fee of $5 must be paid. Students will attend classroom sessions from 6:30 to 9 p.m. on Tuesdays and Wednesdays to complete the 30 hours of instruction required by state law.

Absence from any classroom instruction disqualifies a student from the driving phase of the program which includes six hours of behind-the-wheel training and six hours of observation. Driver phase of the program will be scheduled on an individual basis.

Clintonville AAUW to Meet at Rexford School

CLINTONVILLE — The local Branch of the American Association of University Women will meet at 8 p.m. Monday at the Rexford School library.

The program will consist of a review of the year's work. Members must pay their dues at this meeting.

Hostesses will be Mrs. Glenn Kluth, Mrs. Rex Michaelis and Mrs. David Secore.

Concert Group Ending 1st Season Ticket Sale

NEW LONDON — The ticket sales are nearly completed for the New London Concert Association's first season.

Mrs. Adolph Pichelmeyer, ticket sales chairman, noted that the first indications were good for the concert series.

Ticket salesmen are presently making their call-backs to people who were not home, or had asked them to return later.

The tickets are being sold by volunteers who are canvassing for the nonprofit Concert Association. Tickets are $8 per person for all three concerts, and $4 for students.

The entire program is set up on a nonprofit basis, with any surplus funds designated for bringing in more talent in the coming year.

The concerts include a vocal group called "5 by 6", an eight-piece group, "The Silver Strings", and a husband-wife duo-piano combination. The concerts will run in the late fall, winter and early spring. They will be performed in the Washington Junior High School auditorium.

Persons who have not been contacted and wish tickets or more information can contact Mrs. Pichelmeyer. The association serves the entire area, with members of the board of directors from Hortonville, Shiocton, Manawa, Medina, Weyauwega, and Northport on the board.

Son of Marion Couple Promoted To Full Colonel

DE PERE — Ralph J. Peterson, 44, Green Bay native and current professor of military science at St. Norbert College, has been promoted to the rank of full colonel in the United States Army.

Peterson is the son of Mr. and Mrs. John A. Peterson of Marion, who attended the special service Monday in the office of St. Norbert president Robert E. Christin. Christin and Mrs. Peterson pinned the insignia of rank on the new colonel.

Peterson will relinquish his duties as head of the military science program at St. Norbert in June to accept an appointment to the Army's War College.

Rural Waste Pickup Plan Presented

Post-Crescent Staff Writer

Rural residents of Outagamie and Winnebago counties eventually may dump wastes in roadside containers to be emptied in central county landfills.

The container pickup plan was proposed by Department of Natural Resources engineers Tuesday during a meeting with Outagamie and Winnebago county leaders in the Outagamie County courthouse annex.

At the same time Thomas Kunes, DNR solid waste disposal engineer, told town officials the agency will get tougher on landfill regulations.

Sites must fully comply with state standards, unless specific exemptions are granted, or licenses will not be renewed Oct. 1.

Each disposal site will be checked twice by the DNR before October to measure compliance.

Site not in compliance must be abandoned.

This year some exemptions may be granted if "reasonable justification" is shown. Populations served by the site will be of major consideration.

Large county or regional sanitary landfills now are the most feasible disposal programs.

Large landfills provide potential collection points for future waste recycling systems.

Container collections can be combined with central landfill systems to replace open dumps in rural areas.

"More Economical"

Rural towns simply may not be able to afford adequate landfill operations, said Kunes. A regional or county plan can cut costs. "If this waste is brought to a centralized site, it will be more economical."

Container pickup is modeled after a Chilton County, Ala. plan. There, county and municipal officials organized a joint landfill. A packer truck was purchased by the county and

"Green Box" containers disbursed throughout the county along roads as collection points.

Now there are 90 containers serving the rural Chilton County area which is similar in size to Outagamie County. Each container is emptied by a packer truck every other day.

Ninety-five per cent of the rural residents live within 4.8 miles of a container.

Waste from the containers is emptied into a landfill near Clanton, the county's largest municipality. Clanton presently operates the same municipal collection system which existed before the landfill was started.

Higher Costs
There were 40 open dumps and roadside dumps in the county before the landfill was started.

Kunes estimated cost of the Alabama operation at $4 per person per year. Costs would be higher here, he said, because of increased wage levels, land values and a larger metropolitan area.

Chilton County is a rural area containing only about 26,000 persons.

Frank Charlesworth, Outagamie County coordinator of public services, said a county with 100,000 population may reduce per person costs because of increased efficiency.

"You're still going to have to buy that landfill site," said Kurt Koletzke, second district supervisor in Outagamie County.

Kenneth Heinz, Town of Neenah chairman, objected to high prices necessary to secure approved landfill sites and challenged the DNR representatives to choose several alternate sites for landfills to ease prices.

"Land isn't cheap around here," said Koletzke.

Kunes countered by saying that landfill will be required whether or not central collection systems are used.

"Consider the advantages of cooperating with your neighbor," he said.

Marion Jayvees Split Pair of Games, Frosh Dump Bonduel 10-3

MARION — The Marion High School Jayvees split a pair of games in recent action as they were edged by Wittenberg, 2-1, then downed Bonduel, 10-3, Monday here.

Bob Ostrowski was the winning pitcher for Wittenberg as he allowed four hits, struck out 12 and walked three. Tim Dieck was the loser despite hurling a one-hitter. He fanned eight and walked three. Pete Kucksdorf doubled for Marion for the only extra base hit of the game.

paced by Dan Suenring and Robin Mehlberg with two each.

Tim Dieck was the winning pitcher for the freshmen allowing four hits while fanning 11 and walking one. Jeff Wendland pitched for Bonduel, striking out five and walking six. Dan Buss and Kent Knitt had two hits each for Marion.

The Jayvees will be at Bonduel Friday for the final game of the season.

$40,000 Due On Projects At Airport

State Agrees to Lower Figure for Outagamie County

Outagamie County will have to pay the state about $40,000 to settle construction projects at the county airport, instead of $78,650.

County Executive Alvin Woehler said that state aeronautics officials agreed Tuesday to the lower figure.

Originally, on the higher settlement figure the state would eventually have returned about $25,000 to the county.

The money involves three projects at the airport in which federal and state funds are involved.

On the first project, the northeast-southwest runway, the county has a credit of $24,986.

On projects two and three, the extension of that runway and taxiway work, the county owes $78,650.

In addition, the state and Federal Aviation Administration (FAA) has agreed to provide $14,800 reimbursement against the original cost of the airport plan.

The two credits will be applied against the total owed by the county with the county paying the difference. Originally, the state wanted the total amount and would then reimburse the county the credits.

Application also has been submitted to the FAA for $162,500 reimbursements on land acquisitions for the airport. This represents 50 per cent of the original land cost which has not yet been reimbursed.

Previous FAA policy has been that land credits could be applied against airport projects but there would be no cash reimbursement.

Hostettler to Fill Calumet Board Post

CHILTON — George Hostettler, route 2, Hilbert, was named Tuesday to fill the unexpired term as county board supervisor of the late Clem Ecker for the district made up of the town and village of Stockbridge.

The appointment was made by G. J. Hipke, board chairman.

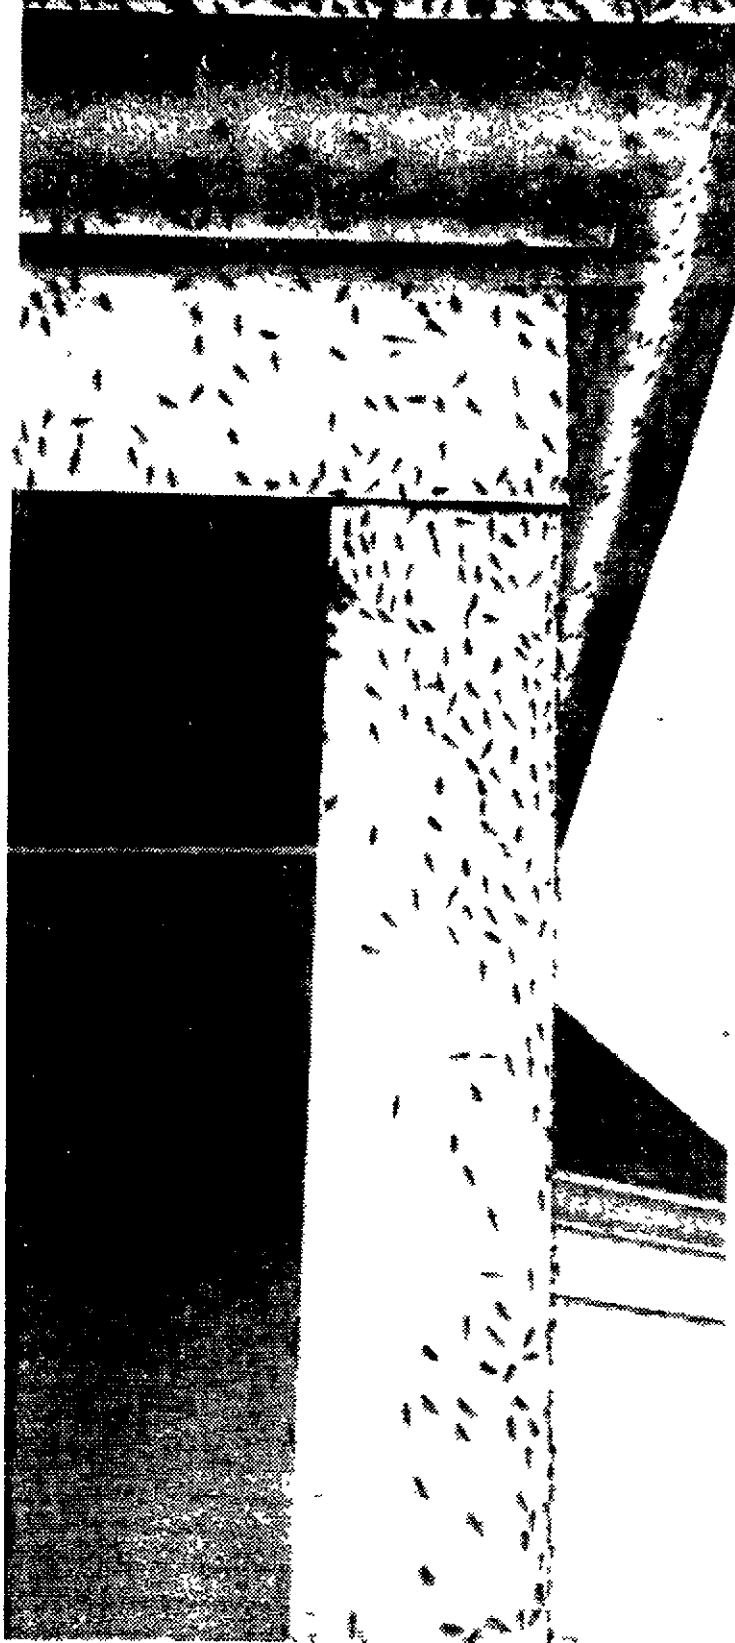

Hostettler was a supervisor for six years, missing the last two years after realignment of supervisory districts.

He is president of the Stockbridge Village Board, a post he has held for 12 years, and president of the Calumet County Civic Association.

The Annual Onslaught of Lake Winnebago's flying friends is on. Depending on the winds, lakeside homes on both the east and west sides of Winnebago take turns providing involuntary refuge for the pesky but harmless flies. (Post-Crescent Photo)

Plumosus Family Returns

LAKE WINNEBAGO — The birth announcement reads "Mr. and Mrs. Chironomus Plumosus (deceased) announced the hatch of their 10 billionth offspring."

The Plumosus family is a popular name in and around Lake Winnebago throughout the year, but human residents on the shore are aware of the family's presence only about two or maybe three times a year.

A common name, which strikes fear in the hearts of women who like to hang their wash out on Monday, or hikers wanting to take a stroll around the lake, is lake fly.

And this is the first hatch of the season. The bothersome little flies which swarm and gather on everything which stands still long enough, is back and should be hanging around for another week or so.

First Hatch

According to Richard Harris, assistant district director for fish management of the Department of Natural Resources in Oshkosh, the first hatch usually runs from May 10 to May 28.

Readily admitting that the lake fly can be a nuisance for people living close to Lake

Winnebago, Harris points out that the fly is one of the major links in the lake's food chain.

"Without the lake fly, Lake Winnebago would not have the population of sturgeon it has," he said, adding that Lake Winnebago has the largest concentration of sturgeon in North America.

The flies now accumulating on houses, trees, car windshields, fresh washes and everything else, are the result of last year's hatch.

7-Day Life Span

Harris pointed out that the females, after a life span of two to seven days, lay their eggs and then disintegrate into nothing. "The eggs ball to the bottom of the lake and hatch the following year."

"We always thought that the eggs took a whole year to mature. But a recent study shows that under ideal conditions, another hatch can come in late July or August." Most lake property owners have known this for a long time.

The red worm, which is the fly's larvae is 99 per cent of the sturgeon's food and every fish at sometime during its life eats the larvae. "The lake fly is a very important part of the lake's total ecology," Harris pointed out.

In the spring, the fly, encased in the red worm, inflates itself and floats to the lake's surface. There, he creeps out of the cocoon and suns himself long enough for his wings to dry and then flies off on the winds.

Harris pointed out that the lake fly has little power of its own, so as the winds blow so goes the fly. Since for the past week or so the southerly winds have swept the fly to the north end.

The swarms of flies that one sees on a summer evening are predominately males. The female flies into the swarm long enough to have her eggs fertilized and then drifts off to the lake to deposit the eggs and die.

Although lake flies can be an extreme nuisance for the short time it's here, Harris points out, "It may be the lesser of two evils."

By the lake fly larvae coming to the surface, it keeps other larvae on the lake bottom. Some of the others might not be so harmless as the lake fly, he conjectured.

"We could have an insect that bites or tries to get in cars and homes. Also, where there are lake flies, usually there are very few mosquitos," he said.

"On the north end, where there are other low spots, the residents usually have the double shot of lake flies and mosquitos because of the swampy area north of the lake shore," he explained.

"Lake flies don't try to get in cars and homes. The only ones that get in are the ones which are swept in by the wind or brought in when a door is opened. House flies, however, do try to get in, so it could be worse," Harris explained.

Waupaca to Have New Well in June west of County Trunk K.

Reporting on public works projects, Oerter said that the concrete has been poured at the intersection of State and Badger, that the county will blacktop State Street over the new bridge next week, and that this intersection will be open to traffic in all directions by May 28.

Ald. Julius Johnson (4th), chairman of the board of public works, asked that the council consider hiring one additional man to operate the new sewage treatment plant starting July 1. When the city applied for a grant from the federal government to construct the new secondary treatment plant, and it was approved, it was understood that an additional operator would be made available and the money is in the operational budget.

Water Main
After discussing several alternatives, it was decided that the water main which serves the Lakeside cemetery would be reopened again this year and used until such time as a main is installed on High Street, or other provision made.

Oerter told aldermen that at last count there were 11 leaks in landfill and another section the old main and putting in a temporary line for the 990 feet posal is to be under the direct at $2 per foot was not advisable.

The estimated cost of a main of public works on High Street, which would furnish water to the cemetery, is $11,500.

It also was disclosed that the city was paid last year for 83 together and come back to per cent of the water pumped council with recommended rules and a more desirable figure for operating the new landfill would be 90 per cent or higher. Ald. Elmer Feltz, council delegate to Waupaca Area Council of Governments, reviewed some of the proposals made in the 20-year Comprehensive Plan adopted by WACOG last week.

Adoption Necessary

"We have six technical reports, including many surveys and many recommendations stating clearly that to get any federal money for any of the projects which might be implemented the plan has to be adopted by each of the five units of governments which make up the council," Feltz said.

A public hearing will be called in the city and in each unit of government before each unit officially adopts or rejects the plan.

Landfill Ordinance
Ald. LaVern Hanke (5th), chairman of the health and welfare commission, asked for a clarification of the city ordinance on operation of the city's sanitary landfill. On section states that the days and hours for the landfill to be open are to be designated by the board of health, another section states that the council is to provide a supervisor for operating the landfill and another section states that collection and disposal is to be under the direction and control of the director of public works.

Hanke called it confusing. It was agreed that the board of public works and the board of health, another section states that the council is to provide a supervisor for operating the landfill and another section states that collection and disposal is to be under the direction and control of the director of public works.

It was agreed that the board of public works and the board of health, another section states that the council is to provide a supervisor for operating the landfill and another section states that collection and disposal is to be under the direction and control of the director of public works.

'If Principle of Life Is Attacked, All Mankind Is in Peril'

GREEN BAY — "Whenever the principle of life is directly attacked, all mankind is in danger," Bishop Aloysius J. Wycislo stresses in his position paper on abortion, which will be the official policy for the Catholic Diocese of Green Bay.

Tackling the problem of abortion on demand, he said that it must be carefully noted that an action can be legal and immoral at the same time. "Christian disregard of life, so obvious in and civil obligations demand that no one infringe upon the right to life, especially when that life is defenseless."

The position paper and policy, entitled "Statement Concerning Abortion on Demand," are the result of months of work by the bishop's Medical-Moral Resource Committee composed of physicians, hospital administrators, nurses and theologians.

Hearings Set

Legislative hearings on changing Wisconsin's abortion laws will be held in Madison on May 25. The text of Bishop Wycislo's statement follows:

"The value of life for the human person and the way in which that value is both protected and promoted is a responsibility of every individual. Our response to the gift of life must involve a profound concern from the first moment of life to its conclusion. As is well known, there has been a conflict over the problem of the right to life throughout most of history, but men have maintained that the right to life of each individual is sacred and is the basis of most other rights.

"Abortion, a moral act which confronts the right to life, raises many problems. In the case of therapeutic abortion, there have been attempts to protect the right to life of both mother and child but at the present time there is a strong social and legal pressure to permit abortion on demand, for such reasons as stress, inconvenience or the prevention of hardship. To infringe upon the right and freedom of the child for the reasons just stated is a form of violence so great in itself and its effect that humanity is offended.

Abortion on Demand

"Rather than taking the position that abortion is to be absolutely prohibited, we address ourselves to the problem of abortion on demand. Present medical research indicates that human life begins with the fertilization of the egg by the sperm. Even as the definition of death has changed and been clarified with the acquisition of more advanced knowledge, we can foresee that the definition of the onset of human life might change with further medical information. With our present knowledge, however, the process by which the two-cell product (egg-sperm) is rendered nonviable is nothing else than the taking of human life.

"The Church has always maintained that the taking of human life for reasons other than those of legitimate self-defense (private or social) is gravely wrong and the Church has consistently held this strong position. Regardless of the fact that a legal system would endorse certain forms of behavior, it does not follow that the legalized action is morally correct. It must be remembered that an action can be legal and immoral at the same time. The wanton, at the same time, 'Christian disregard of life, so obvious in and civil obligations demand that no one infringe upon the right to life, especially when that life is defenseless.'"

Effect on Another

"The Christian ethic of loving our neighbor challenges all of us to consider not only an action itself, no matter how 'right' one thinks it is, but also the effect that such an action may have on another. If the effect of an action directly attacks a basic human right, such as life, no amount of thinking that it is 'right' can morally justify that action, even if the law permits it. If abortion on demand has as its effect the direct violation of the right to life, and we maintain that it has, this must be considered an act of violence against the defenseless freedom and life of the child and an act of violence toward the community. Regardless of legal opinion or attitudes, regardless of the frequency of such acts, in an abortion an individual human being, the fetus, is forced to succumb to the will of another.

"Whenever the principle of life is directly attacked, all mankind is in danger. Christian and civil obligations demand that no one infringe upon the right to life, especially when that life is defenseless."

Proposal Is Attacked

avoid that type of prejudice.

Bubolz, whose father is chairman of Northeastern, said it was "unfortunate we had the opportunity to hear from the pro-drop Northeastern without Northeastern's spokesman, Charles Hervey, being here."

Cowan said he was not familiar with the COG recommendations on regional planning. He said he had talked with numerous elected officials in Outagamie, Winnebago, Calumet and Fond du Lac counties in addition to having a state official work with the subcommittee to come up with the recommendation.

"Not Certified"

"Since Northeastern is not a certified agency," Cowan said, "the only alternative is for it to get certified or for the county to withdraw and form a new area agency."

"Our objective has to be to promote the establishment of a single planning agency which meets the requirements of the state and federal agencies and does a satisfactory job of planning. None now do."

Bubolz said that since they had not talked to Northeastern they could not know that certification might come in the next couple of months.

"You are trying to burn down the barn to kill one rat," Bubolz said.

Cowan answered, "It is a few months past the point of when you should have applied for certification. All I am saying is that nothing has happened to date, so drastic action must be taken."

Gerald Paul, a member of Northeastern's staff, also charged that the similarity between the chambers' recommendation and COG's was "no coincidence." He said, "It makes little difference if you talked to COG or its representatives. If you had talked to the counties you would have gotten a different story."

Supv. Henry Breiting, a member of Northeastern's board, charged that the chamber proposal was a scheme to give industry control of planning.

"I will not hold still for metropolitan government to ignore us (rural areas)," Breiting said. "This (planning proposal) is the same thing with a new face. The chamber of commerce, which represents just a few, wants to get a hold of regional planning. The chamber is industrial dominated and I will never go for that."

Shiocton Legion Lists Plans for Memorial Day

The governor told the Republican-controlled Senate he would be pleased to discuss the controversial proposal Thursday.

WACOG Land Use Outlined

north end of N. Division Street and extending east along the Soo Line Railroad, with isolated industrial uses along State 22 in the southeast part of the city.

Transportation Use

Transportation uses 231 acres, or 8.4 per cent; there are 170 acres, or 6.2 per cent, used for parks and recreation.

The areas of concern designated in the report are:

— The development of land along the Waupaca River.

— Scattered commercial development.

— Use of land adjacent to the central city industrial area.

— The large parcel of vacant land north of the developed section of the city.

The analysis of the townships included in WACOG disclose: Town of Dayton, covers approximately 36 square miles; 66.9 per cent, or 15,436 acres of its 23,040 acres, is used for agriculture; 4,010 acres for forest, 742 acres for forested wetland, 359 acres for wetland and 710 for water area.

The 979 residents in Dayton have 714 homes, 98 of them farm dwellings, 575 non-farm dwellings, 37 mobile homes and 4 multi-family dwellings.

Nine acres are used for commercial purposes; 33 acres, industrial; 48 acres, government and institutional; 614 acres, parks and recreation; 551, transportation and 60 acres, utilities and communication.

Careful Planning

NEWRPC suggests that the Town of Dayton do everything possible to insure that Miner, Lake, Long, Mud and Dove Lakes, the most densely developed area in the town be carefully planned since development pressure is expected to continue. It includes preservation of the existing wetland areas, pollution prevention by providing a sanitary sewer district; and building, zoning and subdivision control.

Another area of concern is the Crystal River at County Trunk K. "Care should be taken to preserve some river frontage for public use," the report states, pinpointing this as a wonderful and rapidly developing natural asset.

Town of Farmington, covers approximately 36 square miles; 62.6 per cent of the town, or 14,443 acres, is devoted to agriculture; 4,752 acres to forest; 527 acres to forested wetland; 798 acres to wetland and 711 to water area.

The 2,242 residents have 902 homes, 124 of them farm dwellings; 745 non-farm dwellings; 28 mobile homes and five multi-family units.

Commercial Purposes

There are 59 acres used for commercial purposes; 122 acres for industrial purposes; 196 for government and institutions; 146 acres for parks and recreation; 726 acres for transportation and no acres for utilities and communication.

The areas of concern for land use in the Town of Farmington are:

Control development of the Chain O' Lakes, stressing preservation of existing wetland areas adjacent to the lakes; prevention of pollution by establishing a sanitary sewer system; utilization of building, zoning and subdivision controls to assure quality design of residential areas and to provide open space.

Strip development should be discouraged along State 54, State 22, King Road and Pryse Road.

Land controls, such as a mobile home park ordinance and a zoning and subdivision ordinance, should be adopted to assure the highest quality development in the area immediately adjacent to the Waupaca River.

Lind Area

Town of Lind covers approximately 26 square miles; 80 per cent of the 23,040 acres is devoted to agriculture; 1,620 acres to forest; 527 acres to forested wetland, 1,223 acres to wetland and 79 acres to water area. The 830 residents in Lind have 339 homes, 154 of them farm dwellings; 129, non-farm dwellings; and 25, mobile homes and one multi-family dwelling.

Fifty acres are used for commercial; one acre for industrial; 41 acres for government and institutions; 32 acres for parks and recreation; 595 acres for transportation and four acres for utilities and communication.

No recommendations for land use in Lind Township are included in this portion of NEWRC's report.

Town of Waupaca

Town of Waupaca, covers approximately three square miles, 69.1 per cent of the 20,306 acres is used for agriculture; 2,730 acres for forest; 699 acres, forested wetland; 1,060 acres, wetland, and 433 acres, water area.

The 787 persons residing in the town have 287 homes, 157 farm dwellings, 110 non-farm dwellings, 20 mobile homes and no multi-family units.

There are 23 acres used for commercial; 80 acres for industrial; 20 acres, government and institutional; 25 acres, parks and recreation; 772 acres, transportation and one acre for utilities and communication.

Strip development along State 22, east of the city, is of major concern and it is expected to continue growing for some time. Another concern is the undeveloped areas of the Waupaca and Little Wolf Rivers. It is recommended that land controls, such as a mobile home park ordinance and a zoning and subdivision ordinance be used to assure quality development.
